Schalkburger Goes Thru British Lines to See Steyn re Peace Proposals.

London, March 24.—In the House of Commons today the War Secretary, Mr. Brodrick, announced that a fortnight ago Mr. Schalkburger, minister to Lord Kitchener, had been granted a special conduct through the British lines and back in order to see Mr. Steyn with reference to the possibility of peace proposals. Lord Kitchener, with the consent of the government, had accepted the request. The announcement of the War Secretary was received with cheers.

The Daily Chronicle this morning asserts that an armistice has been arranged pending the duration of Schalkburger's mission to Gen. Dewet, and that offensive operations against Dewet, Dreyer and Botha will be suspended; also that these three generals have agreed honorably to observe the armistice and to refrain from operations until the return of the envoys to the Boer lines.

It is believed, continues the Daily Chronicle, that the envoys, after acquainting Botha with the result of their mission, will again confer with Lord Kitchener, altho no second conference with Lord Kitchener has actually been arranged.

WITHDRAW BARRIERS.

London, March 24.—The Associated Press has good reason to believe that Lord Kitchener, in his interview with Mr. Schalkburger, agreed to withdraw the barrier proclamation, issued in September, if Gen. Dewet and the other Boer leaders surrender.

In a despatch from Pretoria, made public to-night, Lord Kitchener gives his usual weekly total of captures, etc., but does not mention the Schalkburger incident.

BELIEF IN BOER CIRCLES.

Amsterdam, March 24.—It is believed in Boer circles here that the move of Acting President Schalkburger is the result of a communication from the Boer representatives in Europe.

A former member of the Transvaal government said to-night: "After the exchange of the Dutch-English notes, a conference was called for February. This conference was attended by Mr. Kruger, Dr. Leyds and the delegates, and it was decided to send six emissaries to South Africa by different routes, with despatches for Steyn and Schalkburger, giving them a detailed account of the situation in Europe. The emissaries ought to have arrived about this time."

"Documents lately received from Schalkburger indicated that peace overtures had been made to the Boer leaders in South Africa, but the leaders declared they would not accept anything less than absolute independence," continued the speaker, "seems to be indicated by the plan Schalkburger has outlined for the government, with proportional Boer representation."

AN ONTARIO MAN ILL.

NOTHING CAN BE DONE.

Minister of Customs Reply to the Market Gardeners.

Ottawa, March 24.—A return brought down to-day contains a petition of the Market Gardeners' Association of Ontario and Montreal district, asking that duties on imported vegetables be raised to the level of duties imposed in the United States.

The correspondence shows that, in acknowledging the receipt of the petition, the Minister of Customs said that nothing could be done in the matter. In a second letter the Minister says that the Budget, if you containing any tariff changes, nothing could be done this session.

TO RAISE THE ISLANDER.

Victoria, B.C., March 24.—The steamer Islander will be raised. Lloyd's agent has so contracted with a Seattle man.

Good Style in Carriages.

After all, as far as the renting of them goes, does it cost any more? That's what the public should think of if it does. Mr. Frank Dineen over a year ago started a lively business on these principles—horses, grooms, carriages, good appointments. His patrons learned quickly. Through their material approval he has lately added a complete lot of Victoria Landaus and other carriages of all descriptions. If you wish to see them in a turnout telephone. Main 3495.

COOK'S TURKISH AND RUSSIAN BATHS.

St. Peterburg, March 24.—It has been officially announced here that the election of Maxime Goriki to be an honorary member of the Academy of Sciences has been announced by a tribunal to answer for political offences.

Goriki was banished from the Russian capital years ago, and the newspaper reports say that he was connected with the revolution.

QUIRK FOULLY MURDERED INSIDE OF TEN MINUTES

Brantford Hotelman Had Said Good Night to His Employes But a Brief Interval Before His Lifeless Body Was Found Brutally Hacked about the Head.

GRIM TRAGEDY IN A HARNESS ROOM

Nature of Wounds Precludes the Theory of Accident—Provincial Detective Murray Detailed by Government to Investigate the Case—Western City Shocked by Sensation.

Brantford, March 24.—The opinion of everyone in the city is that a diabolical murder took place Sunday night, when Mr. James Quirk fell a victim to a cunningly planned and cleverly executed attempt on his life. The theory which some entertained at first, that death was due to an accident, has entirely disappeared in the light of later developments. The facts point to one of the most terrible murders that have taken place in this part of the province in many years. There is a demand on all sides that the murderer or murderers be brought to justice at once, and no pains are being spared to get their track.

Mystery Everywhere.

The facts surrounding the death of James Quirk are as much shrouded in mystery at the end of twenty-four hours as they were when the death occurred. The deceased was around in his usual health and spirits on Sunday evening. About 10 o'clock he went out for a walk with Mr. Dave Thomas of the Street Railway staff. They went over to Fleming's restaurant and ordered a cocktail. While it was being prepared they continued their walk up Dalhousie and King and Queen-streets, and on the way spoke to several acquaintances. They returned to the hotel about 11:30, and Thomas left Quirk at the door.

An Awful Find.

The latter stepped into the hotel, and found Toole, his partner, and Eddie Kennedy, the bell-boy. Quirk told Toole that he had better go to bed, and he (Quirk) would stay up and look after things. Toole went off to his room. Shortly afterwards Quirk told Kennedy that he also might return. After that all knowledge of Quirk's movements is shrouded in mystery. Within ten minutes Kennedy, whose room is just above the harness room of the stable, heard loud cries coming from that direction. He thought perhaps someone had got kicked by a horse, and he hurried down to the front office, where he found Bob Ryan, the cook.

Together they hurried out to the stable, which is immediately in the rear of the hotel, and in the harness room, they saw Quirk lying in a pool of blood. He moved slightly while they were looking at him. They immediately hurried into the hotel, and called Toole. Dr. Digby was summoned, and he arrived shortly afterwards. He at once pronounced Quirk dead, and suggested that the police and coroner be sent for. Sergeant Wallace appeared first on the scene, and was followed by Chief Vaughan and P. C. Donnelly. The three made a minute examination of the surroundings, and agreed that circumstances pointed strongly to murder.

One Theory Exploded.

At first it was believed that the tragedy had been a disturbance among the chickens and gone out of control, and that, while ascending the ladder, he was struck from above by someone concealed there. To further confirm this view of the tragedy was the presence of blood spots the entire length of the ladder. To those who know the surroundings the explanation is not satisfactory. Deceased was not the kind of man who would needlessly place himself at such a disadvantage as to go up a narrow ladder with a dark hayloft above.

Tragedy Down Below.

An impression is gaining ground that the tragedy took place on the floor, and that the blood was either on the ladder previously, or was placed there by the murderer. The nature of the wounds precludes the theory of accident. There were two deep gashes across and around the crown of the head and an abrasion across the left eye. If a fall caused one of the wounds it could not possibly have caused the others. When the murdered man was found he was lying on his back on the floor, with legs extended toward the door, and with his head leaning to the right.

Possibly Ax Wounds.

There were two deep pools of blood underneath him. Outside of the terrible wounds on the head and forehead, there were no marks on the body, and the spinal column was not broken. There was no trace found of either the perpetrator of the crime or the instrument used by him in doing his purpose. Judging by the nature of the wounds, they were inflicted by some sharp, heavy weapon, resembling an ax.

Saw Nothing Unusual.

Altho the victim was discovered within ten minutes after he was seen last in the hotel office, there was seen of anyone else in the vicinity of the crime. Two boarders, who were awakened by the cries of the victim, looked out of their window, which overlooked the yard, but could see nothing unusual. They went back again to bed, but the cries continuing, they returned to the window, and saw that the door leading into the harness room was wide open.

As Light as Day.

The yard was almost as light as day at the time, owing to a full moon, and it seemed remarkable that, altho about forty boarders' rooms overlook the yard, and altho many of the boarders had not yet retired, none of them should hear Quirk go out to the stable. In order to do so he had to cross about fifty feet of the yard. That robbery was not the motive was shown by the fact that the pockets of the deceased had not been rifled. About $21 was found on his person.

Inquest Adjourned.

The coroner, Dr. Fissette, decided to hold an inquest, and the following jury was empanelled: W. R. Harley, foreman; Robert Pierce, F. Wilson, Philip Senn, S. F. Whitman, C. A. Montgomery, George Montgomery, S. Pitcher, William Snider and three others. The jury examined the remains and surroundings at 11:30 a.m., and adjourned, to meet in the court house at 8 p.m. When the inquest was resumed to-night there was a large crowd of spectators, all anxious to hear the proceedings. Nothing of a startling nature was developed at the session. Evidence was given by David Thomas, Bob Ryan and R. Ellis. Their stories tallied with the account of Quirk's movements given above. The inquest was adjourned until Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the police station. An autopsy will be performed on the remains to-morrow by Dr. Harry Frank.

The deceased was the senior proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, and had conducted it, in company with Toole, for the past three years. Formerly he was a foot racer of continental reputation, and in his palmy days had no superior in the 100 yard dash. For several years Toole acted as his manager and backer. He was also well known as a sporting man, and took keen interest in the doings of the turf, the ring and the gun. He left a wife and two daughters. Mrs. Quirk has been prostrated since the tragedy. The amount of insurance on Mr. Quirk's life is said to be $20,000.

Inspector Murray Arrives.

The local police at once recognized that they were confronted with a crime of the most desperate character, and this morning sent to the Attorney-General, asking for the services of Detective John Murray. The latter arrived this evening, and is now engaged on the case.

The tragedy has created a profound sensation in the city, not only on account of the mystery surrounding it, but also because of the locality and time when it occurred. No arrests have yet been made, but the police are said to be now at work on a definite clue.

WOODSTOCK BY-LAW DEFEATED.

Woodstock, March 24.—The Lohs by-law, to grant the sum of $12,000 to the Woodstock Wagon Company, when submitted to the ratepayers of Woodstock to-day, was again defeated, the vote standing 745 for, 268 against; 197 additional votes were essential to carry the by-law.

SPRING FEVER.

I'd hate to be in Dewet's place; The day is warm, the sun is shining brightly down and there is something subtle in the air That makes me wish to shun All but the mildest exercise— I'd hate to have to run.

Ottawa, March 24.—Previous to the Ottawa march on with the budget despatch, the following private bills were introduced:

Respecting the Central Counties Railway Co.

Respecting the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.

To incorporate the Ross Rifle Co.

Respecting the Dominion Cotton Mills.

To incorporate the Pacific Northern and Yukon Railway Co.

To incorporate the North Shore Power, Railway and Navigation Co.

Respecting the Ottawa, Brockville and Lawrence Railway Co.

To incorporate the Knapp Tubular Steamship Co.

The Minister of Justice introduced a bill to abolish compulsory pilotage for vessels drawing less than 16 feet and plying between the Great Lakes and Gulf of St. Lawrence ports.

Another bill introduced by the Minister of Justice is to provide for assistant judges of the Supreme Court of Canada in cases where a quorum cannot be had, either because of the absence of one or more of the judges, or the disqualification of a judge to sit because of previous connection with a case. The object is to prevent inconvenience to counsel by postponement of the trial, and that the assistant judge shall be from the same province as the disqualified judge, whose place he takes.

"Of what rank?" Mr. Haggart asked.

"From the Superior Courts of course," Mr. Fitzpatrick replied.

Mr. Borden's protest.

On the day being called Mr. La Riviere entered a dignified protest against the minister's reading of the bill. He said that the bill was an "Indian" bill, and that the Northwest in the bill was obviously absurd to style people as Indians, who had only one or two drops of Indian blood in their veins. He said that the bill was a "disgrace" to the government, and that he would vote against it.

RUSSIA TO FRANCE.

Pressing Invitation Sent By the Czar to President Loubet.

The bill also provides for the payment of 100,000 francs to defray the expenses of the President's visit to the United States.
