A Great Man Fallen

Rev. Dr. Talmage on the Life of the Late Stephen J. Field-Worldly Success in Connection With Christian Character.

Washington, April 24.-Rev. Dr. Tal- | opinion. The Free Church of Scotland, mage took for his text yesterday II. under Chalmers and his compeers, was Samuel, iii., 38: "Know ye not that a dissenting movement. The Bible itthere is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?" He said: Here is a plumed catafalque, followed by King David, and a funeral oration which he delivers at the tomb. Con-cerning Abner, the great, David weeps Sinai repeated ten time "Thou shalt out his text. More appropriately than when originally uttered we may now utter this resounding lamentation: Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in the dead shall rise.' Our departed friend come forth a boy from a minister's home in New England. He knelt with father and mother at morning and evening prayer, learned At Brooklyn—

Baltimore 2 7 1 which lasted him and controlled him amid all the varied and exciting scenes of a lifetime and helped him to die in peace an octogenarian. It is no small advantage to have started from a home where God is honored and the subject of a world's emancipation from sin and sorrow is under constant discussion. The Ten Commandments, which are the foundation of all good law, are the best foundation upon which to build character, and those which the boy, Stephen J. Field, so often heard in the parsonage at Stockbridge were his guidance when, a half-century after, as a gowned justice of the supreme court of the United States, he unrolled his opinions. Bible, hymn books, catechisms, family prayers, atmosphere sanctified, are good surroundings for boys and girls to start from, and if our laxer ideas of religion and Sabbath days and home training produce as splendid men and women as the muchderided Puritanic Sabbath and Puritanic teachings have produced it will a matter of congratulation and thanksgiving. Notice that our departed friend was a member of a royal family. There were no crowns or scepters or thrones in that ancestral line, but the family the Fields, like a score of families that I might mention, were "the children of the King," and had put on them honors brighter than crowns and wielded influence longer and wider than scepters. That family of Fields traces an honorable lineage back 800 years to Hubertus de la Field, coadjutor of William the Conqueror. Let us thank God for such families, generation after generation on the side of that which is right and good. Four sons of that country minister, known the world for extraordinary usefulness in their spheres, legal, commercial, literary and theological, and a daughter, mother of one of the associate justices of the supreme court. Such families counterbalance for good those families all wrong from generation to gen-

Among the most absorbing books of the Bible is the Book of Kings, which again and again illustrates that though plety is not hereditary, the style of parentage has much to do with the style of descendant. It declares of King Abijam: "He walked in all the sins of father which he had done before him," and of King Azariah: "He did that which was right in the sight of the Lord, according to all that his father Amaziah had done." We owe a debt to those who have gone before in our line as certainly as we have obligations to those who subsequently appear in the household. Not so sacred is your old father's walking-staff, which you keep in his memory, or the eyeglass through which your mother studied the Bible in her old age, as the name they bore, the name which you inherited. Keep it bright, I charge you. Trample not under foot that which to your father and mother was dearer than life itself. Defend their graves as they defended your cradle. Notice also that our illustrious friend was great in reasonable and genial dissent. Of the 1,042 decisions he rendered none was more potent or memorable than those rendered while he was in small minority and sometimes in a min-ority of one. A learned and distinguished lawyer of this country said he would rather be the author of Judge Field's dissenting opinions than to be Erie Medical Co., Buffalo, N.Y. the author of the constitution of the United States. The Declaration of Am-We pay Canadian daty. No delay, no expesses | erican Independence was a dissenting self, Old Testament and New Testament, is a protest against the theories that would have destroyed the world, and is a dissenting as well as a divinenot." For ages to come will be quoted from law books in court rooms Justice Field's magnificent dissenting opinions.

Notice that our ascended friend had such a character as assault and peril srael?"

It was the exact hour of sunset of of whom we speak today arrived in San the Sabbath day that the soul of Stephen J. Field, the lawyer, the judge, pocket. Williamstown College was only phen J. Field, the lawyer, the judge, the patriot, the statesman, the Chris- introductory to a post-graduate course, tian, ascended. It was sundown in which our illustrious friend took while the home on yonder Capitol Hill, as it was sundown on all the surrounding fianism amid the mining camps of Cali-hills, but in both cases the sun set to fornia. Oh, those "forty-niners," as be followed by a glorious sunrise. Hear they were called, through what privathe Easter anthems still lingering in tions, through what narrow escapes, amid nosures ministering and executing law among Yea, village bells, ring softly, ring, outlaws never has been an easy under-taking. Among mountaineers, many of whom had no regard for human life, and where the snap of pistol and bang of gun were no unusual responses, required courage of the highest metal. Behind a drygoods box, surmounted by tallow candles, Judge Field began his judicial career. What exciting scenes he passed through! An infernal machine was handed to him, and inside the lid of the box was pasted his decision in the Pueblo case, the decision that had balked unprincipled speculators. Ten years ago his life would have passed out, had not an officer of the law shot down his assailant. It took a long training of hardship and abuse and mininterpretation and threat of violence and flash of assassin's knife to fit him for the high place where he could defy legislatures and congresses and presidents, and the world when he knew he was right. Hardship is the grindstone that sharpens intellectual faculties and the sword with which to strike electively for God and one's country.

The reason that life to so many is a failure is because they do not have opposition enough. Opposition develops courage. I like the ring of Martin Luther's defiance when he said to the Duke of Saxony, "Things are otherwise ordered in heaven than they are at Augsburg.'

Notice also how much our friend did for the honor of the judiciary. What momentous scenes have been witnessed in our United States supreme court, on the bench and before the bench. What mighty men stood before that bar pleading in immortal eloquence on questions of national import! Edmund Randolph and Alexander Hamilton and Pinkney and Jermiah Mason and Caleb Cushing, and the weird and irresistible Rufus Choate and George Wood and Charles O'Conor and James T. Brady and Francis B. Cutting and men now living just as pow-

The supreme court has stood so high in England and the United States that the vices of a few who have occupied that important place have not been able to disgrace it, neither the corruption of Francis Bacon, nor the cruelty of Sir George Mackenzie, nor Sabbath desecration of Lord

Castlereagh. To that highest of all tribunals Abraham Lincoln called our friend, but he lived long enough to honor the supreme court more than it had ever honored him. For more than 34 years he sat in the presence of this nation and of all nations a model judge. Fearlessness, integrity, devotion to principle characterized him. No bribe ever touched his hand. No profane word ever scalded his tongue. No blemish of wrong ever marred his character. Fully qualified was he to have his name associated in the history of this country with the greatest of the judiciary. Ah, how the law honors and sanctifies everything it touches! Natural law. Civil law. Social law. Commer cial law. Moral law. Ecclesiastical law. International law. Oh, the dignity, the impressiveness, the power of It is the only thing before which Jehovah bows, but he bows before that, although the law is of his own making. The law! By it worlds swing. By it the fate of centuries is decided. By it all the affairs of time and all the cycles of eternity will be governed. We cannot soar so high, or sink so deep, or reach out so far, or live so long as to escape it. It is the throne on which the Almighty sits.

Have you ever realized how much God has honored law in the fact that all up and down the Bible he makes the the scene of a courtroom to set forth the grandeurs of the great judgment day? Book of Genesis, "Shall not the judge of all the earth do right?" Book of Deuteronomy, "The Lord shall judge his people." Book of Psalms, "God Is Judge himself." Book of the Acts, "Judge of quick and dead." Book of Timothy, "The Lord the righteous judge." Never will it be understood how God honors judges and courtrooms until the thunderbolt of the last day shall pound the opening of the great assize—the day of trial, the day of clearance, the day of doom, the day of judgment. The law on the case on that occasion will be read, and the indictment of ten counts, which are the Ten Commandments. Justice will plead the case made against us, but our glorious advocate will plead in our behalf "we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." Then the case will be decided in our clearance, as the judge announces, "There is now, therefore, no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus."

To have done well, all that such a profession could ask of him, and to have made that profession still more honorable by his brilliant and sublime life, is enough for national and international, terrestrial and celestial congratulation. And then to expire beautifully while the prayers of the church were being ordered at his bedside, the door of heaven opened for his entrance as the door of earth opened for his departure, the sob of the earthly farewell caught up into raptures that never die. Yes, Stephen J. Field lived and died in the faith of the old-fashioned Christian religion.

Young man, I want to tell you that Justice Field believed in the Bible from lid to lid, a book all true either as doctrine or history, much of it the history of events that neither God nor man approves. Our friend drank the wine of the Holy Sacrament and ate the bread of which "if a man eat he shall never hunger."He was the up-and-down out-and-out friend of the Church of Christ. If there had been anything illogical in our religion he would have scouted it, for he was a logician. If there had been in it anything unreasonable, he would have rejected it, because he was a great reasoner. If there had been in it anything that would not stand research he would have exploded the fallacy, for his life was a life of research. Young men of the round world, a religion that would stand the test of Justice Field's penetrating and all-ransacking intellect must have in it something worthy of your confidence. I tell you, now that Christianity has not only the heart of the world on its side, but the brain of the world also. Ye who have tried to represent the religion of the Bible as something pusillanimous, how do you account for the Christian faith of Stephen J. Field, whole shelves of the law library occupied with his magnificent decisions? Goodbye, my dear old friend of more than 30 years. Your words of personal encouragement and good cheer give me the right to offer words of commemoration. So let me sprinkle over the newly-made grave this handful of heather from the Scotch highlands, in the hymn which the people of that land of Andrew Melville and John Knox are apt to sing on their way to the grave of someone greatly beloved:

Neighbor, accept our parting song; The road is short, the rest is long; The Lord brought here, the Lord takes hence:

This is no house of permanence.

On bread of mirth and bread of tears The pilgrim of these checkered years; Now, landlord world, shut to the door, The guest is gone forever more.

And in the blessed Sabbath bring Which from this dreary workday tryst Awaits God's folk through Jesus Christ.

LAME BACK.

It Is a Common Symptom of Kidney Trouble--Strike at the Root of the Disease by Regulating the Kidneys.

How many are at this time suffering from weak, painful, lame backs, that give them no ease night or day?

Liniments rubbed on, and plasters applied seem to do no good. And why? Because a bad back is a symptom of disordered kidneys. You must correct the kidneys if you would cure the back.
