The increase was said to have arisen from the advance in the cost of construction.

After hearing 'the delegation the board expressed the unanimous opinion that the present time was inoporture to enter on the construction of such a building as was proposed by the school trustees, the ground taken being that the recent heavy expenditures already incurred by the city would not warrant further increase of the bonded indebtedness. During the discussion, a number of interesting facts in contection with the schools were brought out. A committee was appointed to negotiate for the purchase of the building in Paradise row which forms the angle in throadway near the Main street end, in order to improve traffic conditions, rendered necessary by the double tracking by the street railway.

Mr. Coll said it was proposed to erect a new modern school building on the Weldon lot, consisting of ten rooms and an exhibition hall, with only two schools on the third story. The increased accommodation was rendered necessary, as the other schools were overcrowded and, in view of the number of children who would be affected by the new truant regulations. Referring to the financial phase of the question, the speaker said the first estimate of cost, based on past experience, was $40,000, but apparently no allowance had been made for the advance in prices, and the trustees had found that the estimate was not sufficient. The area of the site was 200 by 175 feet, and the location was one of the best in the city.

There was some discussion as to the cost of the new building and the proposed issue of bonds. Ald. Frink thought a suitable building could be erected for $40,000, and Ald. Pickett thought a suitable building could be erected for $40,000, and Ald. Pickett thought a sol per cent in crease too much. He favored deferring the matter until next year.

Ald. Baxter—"Well I was a child once." The chairman—"You had better marry and settle down."

The motion was then put and carried the content of this board the following resolution:
