News of Maritime Men In The War

Lieut. E. Carleton Brown, officer of transport and supplies, who has been in charge at Woodstock since last November, has been transferred to the general staff of the Army Service Corps at Hall's Cross, and expects to leave with Mrs. Brown this week.

On Home Service

Major F. A. Good who is in command of C Company, 140th Battalion at Valcartier, will not be able to serve overseas. On the departure of the general staff from Valcartier he will go to the sanitarium at Ste. Agathe. It is probable that he will receive an appointment for home service.

Frederick Man Wounded

Private F. Allison Edgecombe of Frederickton has been wounded while fighting in the ranks of a western infantry battalion at the front. He has been admitted to No. 8 Stationary Hospital at Wincereux with gunshot wound in the head.

Private Edgecombe enlisted at Regina, Sask., with the 46th Saskatchewan Battalion. He went to England with that unit, but has been at the front about two months. He has one brother in khaki, Sergt. Clarence Edgecombe, of the 80th Howitzer Battery, now at Petawawa.

POLICE COURT

The case against Joseph Kearns, charged with using abusive language to Mrs. Louis Breen, was continued this morning in the police court. Evidence was given relative to the name that the defendant had given when brought to the station, and the name he was giving to the court at the present stage of the proceedings. The defendant and Policeman Gibbs gave testimony. The case will be disposed of tomorrow at noon.

The Chinese case was set for this morning but as the result of the opinion yet had not yet been reached, the case stands for a few days. There are only three of the Chinese in jail now, the others having put up deposits.

GERMAIN STREET PASTOR

Rev. S. S. Poole, the new pastor of the German Street Baptist church will arrive in the city this week. Mr. Poole, who is now completing a month's vacation, was formerly pastor of the Baptist church in Middleton, N. S.

PRESENTATION LAST EVENING

At a gathering of young people at 11 Richmond street last evening a purse of money was presented to Burton Earle, who is to leave St. John soon for Boston for the benefit of his health. E. Garnet made the presentation and afterwards games and music were enjoyed. Miss Emery Young acting as scopist.

The Man In The Street

A much noticed but not popular salutation of the day "Hi, chook!"

With Roumanians ranged with the Allies against her, Germany, no doubt, more than ever runs the mania that led her to start the war.

Another of the Balkans declines to submit to German dictates—in fact just balks.

With the half holiday season about over, the schools open and the daylight line soon to end, we soon shall be hearing the injunction to "Do your Christmas shopping early."

The chap who took his holidays in the early part of August this year is in a fine position to give his fellow citizens the merry ha-ha.

If the close of the season is going to be as wet as the beginning, we are going to take out some marine insurance on our lives.

With one major league team in the lead and the other in second place, Boston is taking only a cursory interest in the European war these days.

We hereby serve notice on whom it may concern that if any provincial cabinet, we will not wait to make denials; we will go after our defamer with a gun.

In this attitude we are pleased to announce that we have the earnest support of Messrs. J. K. Fleming, B. F. Smith and J. B. Daggett, who are similarly sensitive regarding any reference to their standing in church circles.

A Hint For Motorists

Complaints regarding the condition of the Marsh road are entirely unjustifiable; it is quite possible to enjoy a smooth, comfortable ride on this road by using an aeroplane.

It is rumored that the water works employes who are canvassing the city to learn the reason for the excessive use of water are paying considerable attention to the dairies.

By the way, does any one in St. John remember what milk used to look and taste like before cream separators were invented?

The Reason Why

For the benefit of the commissioner of public safety, the man in the street wishes to recall the tradition that the rule that horses and vehicular traffic should pass to the left originated in the nimble desire of horseback riders to have their sword arm handy to an approaching rider; similarly, the rule that pedestrians should pass to the right arose from an early safety-first idea that it was a wise precaution to have the shield, carried on the left arm, between the traveller and a chance acquaintance on the road. These reasons having disappeared, the commissioner is at liberty to shift the rules of the road to suit motors and other modern conveniences and nuisances.

His Little Trouble

The man in the street was wearing a disconsolate air.

"What's the trouble?" we solicitously inquired.

"Chief trouble at present," he said, "is the cross ignorance of all my friends. I have thought up a perfectly good pun on the name of the Roumanian leader and for several days I have been trying to find a chance to spring it; but every time I lead the conversation around that way the other party ducks; I don't believe there is a soul in St. John who knows how to pronounce 'Take Jenesuc', so I haven't had a single chance."

Here's hoping that the Roumanians take the bulge out of the Bulgars.

A pocket flash-light is a fine substitute for matches—except when your pipe goes out.

The government has called for tenders for the erection of a new grain elevator at this port; don't get excited, though; the provincial government called for tenders for new roads some time ago and the elevator may not be placed in Water street any earlier than the new good roads are built.

A Paraphrase

An anonymous contributor submits the following. We do not know whether he is guilty of originating it, but here it is:

"This is my auto; I shall not want (another). It maketh me lie down beneath it. It roareth my soul; it leadeth me into the paths of ridicule for its name sake. Yes, though I ride through the valleys I am towed up the hills and I fear much evil. Its rocks and its engine discomfote me. I prepare for blowouts in the presence of mine enemies. It smotherth my face with oil; its tank runneth over. Surely if this thing followeth me all the days of my life, I shall dwell in the bus-house forever."

A new "stage" in the situation in Greece has been reached. The Bulgars have seized the city of Drama.

GOOD POST FOR FORMER SAINT JOHN MAN

Capt. John McManus Superintendent of Boys' Refuge in Liverpool; Has Fine War Record

The Liverpool, Eng., Catholic Times has the following item of interest in St. John:

"The appointment of Captain J. McManus as superintendent of the Boys' Refuge, St. Anne street, gives the late Mgr. Nugent's well known institution as its head an officer who has rendered the country valuable service since the outbreak of the war, and who has, by his daring and resourcefulness, won for himself considerable renown. A member of the Mercantile Marine Service Association, Captain McManus, has already had much experience in the training of boys as chief officer of the training ship 'Indefatigable'."

"More recently he has been in command of an Admiralty transport, and for many years prior to that was a chief officer of the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. He enjoys the distinction of having been the commander of the last English vessel to leave Ostend before the entry of the Germans into the city. Bound for Ostend with cargo, he arrived at Nisport to find no pilots available. Though told the Germans were at the gate of the city, he took the vessel in himself. No business houses were open, so he embarked 400 wounded Belgian soldiers and some hundreds of refugees, carried them over to Folkestone. His bravery and humanity evoked the warm thanks of the Belgian minister, and brought him testimonials from many sources.

"Captain McManus' connection with the Boys' Refuge shows him to be a man of that institution, where it is proposed to form a sea-training class to replace the teaching of printing, which has been a feature of the Refuge. Such a class should be extremely valuable in a seaport city in connection with the Catholic industrial, as distinct from the reformatory, schools of the archdiocese."

The news will be read with interest by many friends of Captain McManus in St. John, where he has frequently been in the past in the merchant marine service; in fact in one year he spent several months here. Relatives live in St. John.

CAPT. LEGER AND MISS MARGARET KENNEDY WED

Interesting Ceremony Performed in the Cathedral This Morning

A wedding of much local interest was celebrated this morning in the Cathedral when, with nuptial mass, Rev. H. L. Belliveau united in marriage Miss Margaret Mary Kennedy of this city, and Captain Arthur Leger of Richmoud. The bride, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Kennedy, was given away by her father. She was very becomingly attired in a traveling suit of blue with hat to match, and adorned with costly gifts received, were expressive of their popularity. The bride was kindly remembered by the Bank of Nova Scotia, to which staff she was formerly attached.

Capt. and Mrs. Leger left this morning on a short honeymoon trip to upper Canadian cities, previous to their joining his battalion at Valcartier. It is the intention of Mrs. Leger to proceed overseas with her husband.

MUST HAVE SEATS FOR FEMALE EMPLOYEES

First St. John Case Under Recent Legislation

Thomas L. Phillips was in the police court this morning on report for not complying with the recent law passed by the legislature demanding that all stores supply suitable seats for the use of their female employes when they are not completely engaged. The complaint was made by Factory Inspector John Kenney.

Inspector Kenney said that he visited the store on several occasions and interviewed Mr. Phillips on the question and he promised to comply with the new regulation.

On last Monday, he said, he again called at the store in Union street and found that the seats for the female help were usable.

The defendant called William O'Brien, the manager of the shop. The witness said that there were seats in the store provided for the help, explaining that there was one in front of the fruit counter and one behind the candy counter, at the time the inspector called, was removed to allow some cleaning to take place. He also intimated that Mr. Phillips allowed the girls use of the fifty or sixty seats that were scattered throughout the store. The case was postponed until Friday. S. B. Bustin appeared in the interests of the inspector.
