DOUBLE MURDER IN NEW YORK STREET

Bodies Lay Hour While Police Wrangle

TWO MEN SHOT DOWN

Believed That it is Black Hand Crime and That They Met Murderer at Death Spot By Appointment

New York, July 9.—The bodies of two murdered Italians were allowed to lie where they had fallen on opposite sides of Hester street, just below Mott for an hour while Lieut. Bradg of the Elizabeth street station and Lieut. Grady of the Mulberry street station were wrangling over a question of jurisdiction. That question settled, the ambulance was finally sent and the bodies were taken to the Mulberry street station. Although the street was crowded when the double murder took place, the police failed to get the name of a single witness to the shooting. The dispute between the officers arose because Hester street happens to be the boundary line between two precincts, and one of the two men, after being shot, staggered across from the west to the east side of the street, falling dead in another precinct.

It was about 8.15 p. m. that Angelo Seria, a shoemaker, and Bernardo Di Siano, a tailor, walked down Mott street. They stopped in front of 177, and for several minutes talked excitedly. Then five shots rang out. Seria fell in his tracks dead. Three bullets struck the body, one going through his head and coming out at the back, another in the left chest and the third in the stomach. Di Siano was struck in the thigh. He staggered across the street diagonally, and fell in front of a fruit stand at 188 Hester street.

Policemen Phillips and Carter heard the shots, and raced to the scene of the tragedy. When they got there they had to fight their way through a crowd of excited Italians. Thousands of them soon jammed the streets for blocks around. Then came the wrangling between the police lieutenants, and for an hour the bodies lay where they had fallen, candles burning dimly at their heads, the policeman holding back the crowds of Italians, Greeks and Chinese, and Di Siano's wife raving over her husband's body.

The police believe it was another Black Hand crime. On June 4, Seria, with two other Italians, was arrested following a shooting at 177 Mulberry street, which was once well known as a favorite gathering place for Black Handers. After a hearing he was dismissed because of lack of evidence. When the bodies of the victims were searched no weapons of any kind could be found on either, and a careful search of the block in which the shooting took place revealed no clue. The police believe the murderer had an appointment to meet them on that corner.

EASTERN TRAINMEN PLAN BIG STRIKE

New York, July 8.—Ninety-four per cent of the members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and of the Order of Railway Conductors out of 76,000 participating in a strike vote in the wage dispute with the eastern railroads are in favor of strike. These figures were announced today at a joint meeting of union representatives and a committee of railroad managers.

After the union had submitted the result of the strike vote and reiterated their demands, the conference adjourned. President A. B. Gersenson, for the conductors, and W. G. Lee for the trainmen, then announced that a conference of union heads from all the roads involved would be held here on Saturday at which the strike vote would be confirmed and a course of action adopted.

The resolution will be reported to the railroads on Monday.
