SEES NEED FOR PROBATION OFFICER IN SAINT JOHN

Adolph F. A. Schulz of Dedham, Mass., Tells of His Work in Reclaiming Prisoners—Opportunities Here For Such Official

Dear Mr. Schulz—
I will let you know that I got home all right. I landed Webster at half past four. Dear Sir, I can find words good enough to thank you for your kindness to me and shall never forget to do for the best my Father And Mother all so my sister Thank You very much. I am very truly,

The above is a sample of the letters Adolph F. A. Schulz, probation officer for Dedham, (Mass.), and six near-by towns, is constantly receiving as a result of his endeavors toward keeping delinquents and grown men and women out of jail for minor offences. Mr. Schulz is at the Dufferin enjoying his yearly vacation in St. John.

To a Times' man Mr. Schulz described the method of operation of the probation officers of Massachusetts and incidentally suggested that all cities, and especially ones the size of St. John, should have probation officers. When a drunk or a delinquent—a delinquent is a child arrested under seventeen years—is arrested, Mr. Schulz is notified. He goes to the jail, has a talk with the culprit and fills out a filing card with full particulars of the case, including the man or woman's full name, residence, birthplace, occupation, family, state, height, weight and general description. This is placed in a cabinet in which Mr. Schulz stored he has 160,000 cards on file.

If the case is a first offence or if it strikes him as specially worthy of leniency Mr. Schulz allows the culprit to go home on a promise that he will in future keep the peace. If it is a second or third offence he goes to court in the morning to inform the judge all he knows of the case. Should a man be arrested for failing to support his wife he may be bound over by the court to pay a sum each week out of his earnings to Mr. Schulz, who turns it over to the wife.

"In this way we keep the man at work," explained the probation officer. "If a man should be committed to the state reformatory for such an offence he will be made to work and fifty cents a day paid me for his wife for every day he works. Thus the wife receives money from him anyway. We find the scheme works splendidly."

It's Ten Ten By Trinity Clock

And That Is All The Clock Will Say For The Next Three Weeks—Electric Equipment to be Installed to Correct Time by Observatory

No, gentle reader, Trinity clock is not pointing to the hour. Mayor Gaynor died; nor Queen Anne, either. The fact that it perverts indicates 10.10 is not an indication that it has followed the example of the deal piles and gone on strike, nor that it has died the death of senile decay.

Nothing like that is the matter. The cold, hard truth is that Trinity church has an acheless void in its "innards." Formerly praiseworthy impartial, today it is biased, out of tune, disgruntled. For three weeks it will be laid up. A human being cannot work without a heart—if we except police-magistrates and prosecuting attorneys, by request—and neither can a self-respecting time-piece fulfill its duties without its weights. It would be erroneous to say that Trinity clock is off color, but with due respect to the fact that it is a church-bred clock it can positively be stated that it is off balance.

To elucidate, the weights of Trinity clock were extracted—Painless Parker having been found to have left town, a local jeweler did the job—at precisely 10.10 this morning. Strenuously objecting, the time-piece stopped then and there, being too weak to put up a more forcible argument. The weights were wrapped up carefully and entrusted to Post Master Bear's care for transmission to England, where they will be synchronized by the Synchronome Company. If the operation is successful, Trinity clock will be fully recovered from its indisposition within three weeks.

P.S.—In his exuberance the reporter forgot to mention what the synchronizing process is. Maybe he didn't know. Anyway the intention is to equip the clock with an electrical arrangement in order that the observatory clock may communicate its time to the Trinity time-piece hour by hour, ensuring exact time.—Ed.

TWO STRIKES TODAY ON LOCAL DOCKS

Scowmen Walk Out Because of Non-Union Labor Employed—Longshoremen Quit After Dispute Over Work—Effects May Be Wide-Spread

Two strikes occurred on the docks this morning. While small in themselves the strikes may have an important effect on both the longshoremen and the bricklayers' unions unless the differences are smoothed over in short order.

Men loading deals on scows at the Ballast wharf (see Alexander Watson's column) discontinued their work, saying they were not working with them. They demanded that the two men be discharged and failing to get satisfaction suspended work. There are seven in the strike.

About a dozen men unloading brick landed here for the sugar refinery from Nova Scotia off the schooner Nina Geyman went on strike as a result of a controversy with Stevedore Swanton regarding the way in which the bricks should be handled. An equal number of non-union men were then hired and the work proceeded.

SAINT JOHN BECOMING REALLY COSMOPOLITAN

Some of The People From Every Corner of The Earth Who Rub Shoulders in This Port

A glance at the registers of the five hotels today showed that the visitors are in St. John from almost every corner of the world. Among them are several from Cuba, two or three from California, one from Germany, one from France, one from New Zealand, several from England and Scotland and several dozen from Western Canada. In addition to these a Quebec man, who is now a banker in Shanghai was recently here, together with a missionary from Toyama, Japan, an artist from Paris, a newspaperman of Buenos Ayres, and many other people from all over the world.

The cosmopolitan character of St. John streets is already noticeable, although none of the large ocean liners have as yet touched here this year. Hindus from India mix with Orientals from China, the Straits Settlements and Japan; Russians rub shoulders with Danes; Germans and French, Spanish and Portuguese, Italian and Swedish, Latin and American, British and Slav are all commingled as in a huge melting pot of languages and customs.

MRS. ASTOR HAS BEAUTY PARLOR

Electric Room Cost $30,000, and is the Quintessence of Luxury

New York, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Madeline Force Astor, widow of John Jacob Astor, will remain beautiful if a $30,000 beauty parlor can effect that end. She has installed an electric beauty room on the second floor of her Fifth Avenue home, adjoining her bedroom.

The room is but 8x15 feet, but it is the quintessence of luxury. The white tile floor is concealed by an Oriental rug, while paintings, plate mirrors outlined in gold, concealed lights and every electrical device which ingenuity has produced to aid in preserving the beauty of the face are found in the room. Gold and pearl are used wherever possible.

A modified barber chair is in the centre for use during the hair-dressing, massage and other operations of the beauty doctor.

LIVE MEN

don't wait till the season is half past before they look as if they belonged to it.

THEY CAN'T AFFORD TO.

For in this age and land a man has got to "look the part" every season and every day.

Many a man felt a bit "shivery" these last few days in a slimmer suit. That, too, is something nobody can afford. But in itself it is a good argument for buying a new fall suit in good time. There is some more hot weather left, you may say—what of it? That only means sudden changes and proves that a man should be ready to change with them.

This store is ready with Men's New Fall Suits

A forehanded look at them might save you quite a few dollars and no end of dissatisfaction.

We don't want to rush any man to buying.

We do want every man to know that he cannot afford to part with his autumn suit money until he has seen the suits we have got to show him and given them an opportunity of speaking for themselves.
