Mr. Bradford spoke very briefly of his appreciation of many kindnesses on the part of the people of Annapolis, and of his great regret that circumstances made it necessary to break up a school which could not be more sat-isfactory as to the character of the pupils and the work they were doing. He was not, however, saying good-bye, as several of them would meet again in a few weeks on the South shore for a turn of summer work,

Speeches followed by Rev. H. M. How, Judge Savary, Judge Owen, Mr. Glasspole and Mr. Blodgett of Paw-tucket, Rhode Island, all expressing eepest regret at the closing of St. Andrew's and hopes that even now it may in some way or other be saved to olis. The rector and Judge Savary dwelt especially on the excellent behavior and appearance of the boys on the streets and in all public places, and the beneficial influence of their behavior and appearance of the boys on the streets and in all public places, and the beneficial influence of their good example upon the community. So closely and in so many ways had the school entered into the life of the town that the extent of the loss about to be sustained could hardly be estimated, and in the departure of the head master every citizen lost a personal property of the loss about the school entered into the life of the town that the extent of the loss about to be sustained could hardly be estimated, and in the departure of the head master every citizen lost a personal property of the loss about the loss about to be sustained could hardly be estimated. lead master every citizen lost a per-

The dance in the evening was agreed by all to be by far the best ever given, which is saying a great deal. There were 150 guests present, nearly all dancers. At 9.30 a halt was called and the sports prizes distributed by Mrs. Bradford, and at the end of this ceremony came a series of surprises First, Daniel Owen on behalf of the boys presented Mr. and Mrs. Bradford with a very handsome case containing a dozen silver knives and forks. Then

Recent reports of the New York Board of Health prove that the mortality from kidney disease is greatly on the increase.

Therefore the company was unable to earn as much bounty as was expected on organization and the government did not have to pay out as much for bountles as it did when the act was passed. Hence no tender has been made, except for the eastern section. The Canadian rail' mills have a capacity for turning out enough rails each year to lay three thousand miles of track. Up to the present time railway building in Canada has not amounted to two thousand miles in a single year. It is figured that the Sydney and Soo mills will be equal to the Canadian rail demand for some time.

There is no foundation for the report that the Sunday observance bill will be laid over until next session. The bill came from the committee in a rather impossible form and will require a good deal of working over to make it meet the desires of its promoters and the requirements of the country. However, the bill will be put through if prorogation is deferred a few days for the purpose.
