

happenings of the Week

Society has once again fallen into line and settled down in good earnest to the daily routine which entails the demands of a gay and busy week has been experienced by the smart set, many hostesses having entertained in honor of strangers who are visiting here. The unusually early spring has been the means of opening up the various clubs for outdoor sports earlier than in former years. Invitations are already out for several bridges and teas next week, which continue in their popularity.

The large bridge tournament in aid of the Free Dispensary, held in Keith's Assembly Rooms on Tuesday evening, proved the most brilliant social feature of the week. The reception committee, which consisted of Mrs. Inches, who was gowned in black lace and jet ornaments; Mrs. Robert Thomson, in a gown of black satin; and Mrs. Stewart Skinner, in a gown of white mignon satin, received the guests. At eight-thirty play commenced, over seventy tables of play being taken part in the tournament. After five rounds had been played a delicious supper was served. The supper room, in charge of Mrs. Murray MacLaren, in a gown of black lace; Mrs. Andrew Jack, in a gown of pale mauve satin; Mrs. James Jack, in a black lace gown; and Mrs. E. T. Sturdee, on a gown of pink satin, was gorgeous in its floral array. A large basket tied with large bows of pink ribbon and filled with quantities of spring flowers, occupied the centre of the table, smaller bouquets filled with pink tulips and daffodils being placed at the four corners, and numbers of silver candelsticks with pink lights and white candles.

At the conclusion of the supper the prize winners of the evening were announced by Col. J. H. MacLaren, who presented the prizes to the following people: Mrs. R. Cruikshank, Miss Vera MacLachlin, Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. John Robinson, Mrs. Percy Thomson, and Mr. F. W. Jones. At the conclusion of the presentation three cheers were proposed for Mrs. Stewart Skinner, who had with the aid of a number of ladies and gentlemen, worked unceasingly to make the tournament a success. Over three hundred dollars has been realized, which goes far in helping the worthy object.

A programme of eight dances, the music being furnished by Jones' orchestra, brought this most successful and enjoyable evening to a close. Among those present were Mrs. Frank Fairweather, pink satin; Mrs. Jeff Jones, silver sequin gown; Mrs. Jeff Jones, lace gown over yellow silk; Mrs. Fred Scheld, black lace gown; Mrs. Phillips Robinson, gown of black net; Mrs. George Flemming, pale mauve silk; Mrs. Jessie Lively, pink and white pompadour gown; Miss Baily, black net over white silk; Miss Katie Hazen, white satin, pale pink sequins; Miss Marjorie Lee, white mignon satin; Miss Mabel Thomson, flowered crepe de chene; Mrs. Edgar Fairweather, black lace gown; Miss Frances Hazen, pale pink satin; Mrs. Buckley, black crepe de chene; Miss Nan Barnaby, white lace gown; Miss Nora Robinson, pale blue silk; Mrs. W. Lockhart, empire gown of pale yellow silk; Mrs. H. Robinson, black net gown with touches of gold cloth; Mrs. E. A. Smith, black lace gown; Mrs. Fred Sayre, pink satin; Miss Bessie Knight, white silk; Miss Bertha Macdonald, white gown; Mrs. J. V. Russell, black net over old rose silk; Mrs. P. ## On The Picture Stage

Yes, you could pick her out of a crowd as easily as you could pick your best girl, so often have you seen her in the moving pictures. She's in your life the same as the goddess of liberty, and for a time she was just as incognito. But that's all over with—the incognito. Her name is Florence Lawrence.

After two years exercise of sway over the admiration and curiosity of the public, the most popular moving picture star is known. She is a young actress who had success in various eastern companies before a lucky selection put her in the moving picture work, and since then she has appeared before the public many times often than any other actress in ancient or modern days. She appears on the film in a hundred cities dozens of times a day, and with the same effect as though she were personally present.

Miss Lawrence made her success first with the so-called moving picture trust, which fought every effort to learn her identity. Finally somebody penetrated the secrecy thrown about her, and now she is working for another big concern, the Independent Picture Co., known for short as the "Imp." She has signed a long contract at a very handsome figure, and the "Imp" people are not only glad to get her, but glad to have everybody know who she is. They are not burying her light under a bushel.

The most expressive feature of Miss Lawrence's face is her eyes. She has made them talk in perhaps 400 different roles where all language but sign language is dumb.

proving as usual a delightful hostess. Mrs. Jack Russell came from Montreal this week to occupy her home, which was formerly known as the James street place.

Mrs. Thomas Worrell and son, Lewis, have returned from Macadam, where they have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Henry Worrell.

Miss May Stinson has been enjoying a visit with her sister Mrs. E. Davis Chandler at Brockway.

Mrs. J. Todd spent a few days of last week at Deer Island.

Mr. George Andrews left last week for Saskatoon. He will be greatly missed among his young friends.

The last game of Basketball for this season was played on Friday evening in Andreale Hall between the Shamrocks and the Old Town team, resulting in a victory for Old Town. The score was 23 to 28.

Judge Cockburn paid a brief visit to St. Stephen friends on Thursday.

Mr. W. E. Mallory has returned from a pleasant visit to Woodstock. Miss Nellie Stuart expects to return to home at an early date to resume her teaching duties.

Mr. Harry Jones, of the Bank of Nova Scotia staff at Port Arthur, arrived in the city on Friday.

Funeral Home of the Public Works Department paid a brief visit to St. Andrews during the past week. The closing meeting of the Canadian Literature Club was held on Tuesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Armstrong.

A very high standard of excellence has been reached throughout the entire season, making this among the most profitable and highly enjoyable sessions at the club has yet experienced. Joseph Howe was the subject under consideration. Judge Cockburn favored the club with a most instructive paper dealing with the subject in a very interesting manner. The annual programme was highly enjoyable, consisting of choruses, piano solo, Mr. Harrison Vandevoort solo "One Sweetly Sounding Name" was sung by Mr. Robert Clarke with deep music in feeling, and a brilliant piano solo by Miss Norine Cunningham. At the close of the programme delicious refreshments were served and a hearty vote of thanks was rendered to host and hostess for their splendid hospitality.

Mrs. E. Lee Street was a week end visitor in St. Stephen.

Mr. Edward Fortune was a passenger on Tuesday's train for Boston. He expects to remain there some time.

Miss Nellie O'Halloran is visiting relatives in St. Stephen, N. B.

Mrs. John A. McFarlane is visiting friends at Bonabec.
