

OUR COVER:

Clam Harbour Beach, about an hour northeast of Halifax, Nova Scotia, faces the rolling Atlantic with wide sandy beaches and verdant hills. Reached via townships with such interesting sounding names as Head of Chezzetcook, Musquodoboit and Jeddore Oyster Pond, the unspoiled provincial park here is a naturalist's delight and a beautiful representation of Nova Scotian coastline. The photo was taken by Sgt. C. S. Murdoch (Editor) while vacationing in "H" Division with his family during last year's 50th anniversary celebrations of RCMP policing in Nova Scotia.
