MARCH 26, 1976

The BRUNSWICKAN -4.7

, on y, A will ling,

ville

l be )een

MS.

old.

ote

his rch

ncil

ion

the

nal

ind

on er

Legere wants the most good for the most people

L.J. "Amby" Legere is a man new trend. who has been associated with the athletic community of UNB for the past thirty years and who has seen the gradual change of athletics from basically something done in a student's spare time to a very important part of the curriculum a the university.

Legere began his career at UNB as the Assistant Director of Athletics and his duties ran the gamut from coaching various sports such as boxing and curling to administrative work. Last year he took up the post of Co-ordinator of Intramurals and Recreational Sports Clubs in the new Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation.

He stated that he felt that the Phys. Ed. program at UNB was one of the top courses in the country but that its greatest weakness lie in the field of general recreation. He said that the program at UNB was geared to financial problems that his proturning out the 'elite' athlete in the varsity program. Since the general that he realized that there was only attitude of the present time in masses, he feels that the program at UNB should be expanded in that since they are on only given a direction and that the administra- responsibility and must make the tion at UNB has not grasped this "More people are demanding a recreational experience," Legere commented, adding that "the recreatinal program must expand to keep up with the demand. We must ask ourselves 'What is good for the masses?'

"We must take a second look at our philosophy of phys. ed. Is it for the elite athlete or is to have physical recreation for all?' Legere stated. He said that the interpretation of the policy guide-lines was "mixed-up". "Up until now intramurals and recreation had a fair share of the budget. What happens in the immediate future concerns me." In this time of financial strife, Legere feels that people are looking for ways to re-interpret the policy guidelines in an effort to make their budgets as beneficial to their own sports as possible.

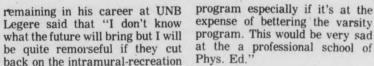

When asked what sort of grams were experiencing, he said a certain amount of money to go talk disparagingly of the coaches best of it.

Legere said that too much stress is placed on varsity athletics producing good public relations for the university and that a great deal, of influence comes from the alumni to promote varsity programs. However, he is under the impression that the overall student body is changing its attitudes and demands for an improved recreational program which they can take advantage of in their spare time

The guidelines place priorities on the various athletic programs at UNB, with top responsibility going to the recreational and intramural programs. Since the students at UNB have increased their particpation in such programs steadily over the past few years its a importance cannot be understated. Legere said that the university education experience was not simply formal academics but a E total education and physical E recreation is important since the 🚊 students should be exposed to g recreational experiences which will be for their own good after A graduating. He added that other extracurricular activities are also the area of recreation for the around and that he found it hard to important in their total education of a student.

With only one and a half years

AMBY LEGERE - director of Intramurals and Recreational sports

Swimmers splashing causes record smashing

Gary Brown's swimming team had another exceptional year as they broke eight conference records in their domination of the Atlantic conference swimming action.

Besides smashing records, the Beavers were dual-meet champions and conference champions.

"continual improvement." He hinted that several interesting prospects are showing concerns for UNB in the fall and said that he was encouraging his athletes to join summer swim clubs so that they will not have to begin again when the new season starts.

He said that there were no team objectives for the Olympics

RUNNING UP A STORM Steve Gale (34), one of the football squads more valuable offensive members.

The team's steady improvement at the national college championships netted them a sixth place standing overall and one silver and two bronze medals.

The Beavers coach said that next year should prove even more fruitful than this year since only two swimmers and a diver will be lost through graduation. Brown referred to Bill Colwell, Craig Maitland and John Thomson.

Py d

Although the team showed Edmonton in 1978. "If we continue improvements in personal best, to improve at the same rate, we times over the season, Brown is might surprise some people!"

said that all of his swimmers were of a national level. All of the Beavers who went to the national college championships made the qualifying times instead of going by virtue of being a conference champion. At that meet, all of the UNB competitors finished in either the first or second division.

Brown said that the Beavers plans possibly included the Commonwealth Games to be held in looking for the Beavers to show a summed up the Beavers pilot.

BROWN had a fair share of the national contenders on this season's Beavers.

Bombers play best football in recent years according to Born

By MIKE GANGE

Looking back on the 1975 season, it could only be described as a huge success for the Red Bombers.

Statistics would show that the Bombers played better than .500 ball, winning four of their seven games, and nearly doubling their previous season's record. Statistics would also show that the Bombers improved themselves in every single category over the past season.

Jim Born, head coach of the Bombers was very enthusiastic about his teams accomplishments. Born termed this year as "the best since my arrival here five years ago.

Phil Battaglia, and Bob Forbes managed to lead until the dying were selected as conference all seconds of the ball game, despite stars. Forbes was also recently the two days of rain which had drafted by the Ottawa Rough turned the field into a sea of ankle deep mud. Riders.

The Bombers will lose only five seniors this year, but due to the at the hands of the seemingly eternally powerful Saint Mary's Atlantic conferences four year rule, several others players with Huskies, the Bombers deserved to previous experience in other win every game they played. The team worked well together, both in. conferences will not be returning. practice and game situations. On the whole, however, the According to Born, "they show Bombers have a very young squad, most of whom will be returning great promise for next year.'

next year.

In two of the three losses suffered this year, the Bombers led most of the way through the game. When UNB played in Wolfville against the powerful Axemen, then Three of the Bombers, Rod Bell, , rated eighth in the country, they Justly deserving mention are the coaching staff, who worked with the Bombers this year for nearly two weeks. Besides head coach Born, the staff includes Mike flynn, Jamie Porteous, Bill Simmons, Don Davis, and Mike Dollimore.

Except for the lop-sided dumping