Kind a discretionary power:
to order what is absolutely necessary must be left to its Agent.

With reference to the statements contained in your letter in respect to the ab-sencions in an official letter to you of the 25th September above referred to to declaration of duty on your part, I regret to have to inform you that complaints have repeatedly been made to me that even when you are in the City you do not attend at your office during regular office hours, and that when parties desire to see you on business they are unable to do
