

Under Orders: The Story of Tim and "The Club"

By HAROLD S. LATHAM

Illustrated by E. C. CASWELL

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

"Under Orders: The Story of Tim and the Club is a story that boys and grown-ups of all ages will enjoy without a doubt; a story that belongs to the American boy of the present day. It is a story that is really valuable. Through the adventures and experiences of Tim, the lad of today may get many pointers on how to be an effective American." — New York Sun.

"The story is thoroughly entertaining. Boys will find it as fascinating as the proverbial Indian tale or detective yarn. It is also elevating — we do not mean that word in its banal misuse, but rather as a synonym for instructive, inspiring and what not, all in one; and it is that in a deft, tactful, unobtrusive way, teaching by engaging example rather than by prosy precept. Mr. Latham evidently has a knowledge of boy nature which is at once keen, discriminating and sympathetic, and he has written a book which boys will love to read and which their elders will heartily approve their reading." — The New York Tribune.

The Year at Lincoln High

By JOSEPH GOLLOMB

With illustrations by E. C. CASWELL

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50

"A fine story of public school life in a big city. The story abounds in hotly contested athletic meets, ball games and secret society initiations. It is vivid, exciting and gives a good idea of the democratizing process going on in our public schools today." — San Francisco Chronicle.

"Mr. Gollomb has told his story exceedingly well." — Evening Post.

"This is one of the best stories of life in a big boys' public school we have ever seen. The author has the unusual knack of being able to write for boys and about boys without writing down to boys. There are in the story action, fun, and character." — The Outlook.
