

principles; but he
ment as the only
d a decision, and
himself willing re-
men does not the n? If hon. mem-
y it, and to uphold ts, why stop the idently an attempt
ent, and it loudly
must either decide
the constitution is h changes as will
have demanded;
ll not be governed
ppose the Govern-
system cannot be ng all colonial dee done? The an-re were more than
, within this Pro-
sent to have the
mpled under foot;
concurrence, could overnment be put
he refusing to vote
the eyes of the
to be slaves; not narch, for such a
in the boundaries
],—but the slaves
House of Assem-
after uncontrolled
y utterly disquali-
it. [Hear, hear.]
ividual, and second
; but, of that mi-
resent occasion,—
cause he and his advocating would e people, and that
of those who con-
intelligence, and ntry. Whatever
evening's discus-
tion but that the
would afford him
atest period of his ed friends around ces, and recorded
e so fraught with
to the Province
with every princgment in a Brit-
earned gentleman
i cheers from the
ce below the bar.