come upon the purchaser of the raft. Mr. Justice Rolland spoke some length, and with much clearness of argument on this point, showing the injustice of a possible case that a workman might, under colour of this lien, come upon a purchaser of a raft, years after the original transaction. It was the business of the workman to see himself paid in the first instance by the person who employed him.

From a "Bill of Mortality," published in a late New York paper, we gather the following particulars respecting violent deaths in that city:—

The total number of inquests for the year ending 31st December, 1833, was 643, of whom 410 were males and 193 females. The causes of death were:—Suicide, 55; Murder and violent death, 15; Involuntary Killings, 6; Accidents, 75; Causes unknown, 164; Debility and Exhaustion, 14; Burned and Scalded, 24; Dolorium Tremens, 8; Strangled and Suffocated, 11; Stillborn, 11; Drowned, 98; Intemperance, 33; Visitation of God, 23; Drinking Cold Water, 7; Apoplexy, 54; Total 633.—The modes of suicide employed were—By Hanging, 9; Poison, 30; Cutting the throat, 6; Shooting, 6; Drowning, 4.

FASHIONS

From the London Court Gazette 1st July. The week has been unpropitious for the display of gay attire, having been marked, by showers and thunder storms. Yet some of the most elegant dresses of the season were seen on Wednesday, at the flower-show, at Stafford House. Flounces are no longer doubtful; they are generally worn. Two deep ones are sometimes seen, or one of still greater depth; several small ones are now much worn, except on white muslins; for mousseline de laine they are too heavy; for jaccons they are stiff, and are soon tumbled; jaccons are this year but little worn. Spencers are frequently seen; they are now not only white, but with coloured dresses. T. Totes are seen as well as velvet; the front is cut down, and the collar is made with a roll. Fouard robes are often worn with muslin sleeves, with fouard at the wrists; they are generally seen with a muslin frill. Light muslin mantles were seen on Wednesday; they are very elegant, and were trimmed extensively with lace. On one of them did we observe a caracouls—Chip hats are much worn, and caracouls are exceedingly in fashion.
