RARE CAMBRIAN FOSSILS.

The World-Famous Collection of Dr. Matthew, of St. John, N.B.

The University of Toronto has again been the recipient of a generous gift. The collection of Cambrian fossils made by Dr. George F. Matthew of St. John, N.B., one of the two acknowledged experts in North America in Cambrian palaeontology, has been for sale for some months, and until now it was feared that, although it can never be duplicated, it would, like so many other Canadian objects of scientific interest, become the possession of one of the great museums of the United States or Great Britain. The sum required, several hundred dollars, was not at the disposal of the University of Toronto, nor apparently at the disposal of the National Museum at Ottawa, to which the collection would certainly be a most valuable addition. However, by the generosity of Mr. William Mackenzie, of the Toronto Street Railway, this collection has been saved to Canada, and will become the possession of the university. In addition to the cost of the collection, Mr. Mackenzie has also provided the cost of a number of cases for the fossils.

The following note on Dr. Matthew's collection by Mr. Parks of the university will be of interest:

In view of the great antiquity of the Cambrian series, well preserved organic remains are exceedingly scarce in these strata. In fact, nearly all the Cambrian fossils ever found, in any part of the world, are more or less fragmentary and imperfect. However, as the history of the chain of life, so far as it is exhibited by fossils, begins with the organisms of the Cambrian, the importance of the forms there occurring cannot be over-estimated. It is almost superfluous to say that the scarcity and fragmentary character of these fossils render their collection very difficult and their identification impossible, except to one who has made a life study of the organisms of this distant period. Such an one is Dr. George F. Matthew of St. John, N. B. Forty years ago Dr. Matthew began the study of the Cambrian rocks of New Brunswick. At that time but one or two fossils were known in these rocks; now more than 400 have been recognized, and every one of these is represented in the collection. We have then 400 different species each represented by from five to ten specimens, say 2,500 in all. The peculiar value, both academic and historical, lies, however, not in the numbers of the collection, but in the fact that they are nearly all the actual specimens first found and described by Dr. Matthew; in technical language, the "type specimens." These can never be duplicated, and must always remain a unique and valuable possession of the University of Toronto.

Besides containing all the type specimens, the collection shows many forms which, in addition to being type or first specimens, are absolutely the only ones ever found. This will serve to show the peculiar value of such material and to point out the extreme rarity of many of the organisms of this ancient series of rocks.

Another feature of this collection of especial value is the fact that it is complete; it contains all the known fossils from the Cambrian of eastern Canada. It is unnecessary to say that such a remark can be made of very few collections from any place or any age.

In addition to the material above described, the collection contains about as many more specimens from the Cambrian of other parts of the world, making in all about 5,000 specimens.

The Canadian Jay.

Mr. Charles Pickering of, Toronto, writes: On the 15th October I saw three Canada jays (Perisoreus Canadensis), the Wis-Ka-Tjan of the Indian, the Whiskey Jack of the lumberman, which were killed this morning on Fisherman's Island. Though common throughout northern Ontario and northward to Arctic America, it is very rare in southern Ontario. McIlwraith in his Birds of Ontario gives no authentic record of its capture so far south, though he mentions hearing of one being taken at Oshawa. This bird, well known to all lumbermen and prospectors, with whom he is a star boarder, is not thought so much of by the hunter, for whom he has destroyed many a fine carcass of venison, tearing off the fat and strips of flesh, which he would store in the cleft of some nearby tree for future use. Who can tell the cause of this unusual migration? It cannot be fear of cold nor yet scarcity of food, as he is a general scavenger, as much at home in the dense pine forest as around the mining camps, picking up whatever is thrown out in the shape of food. On the 15th I saw a large flock of snowbirds, and on the 11th and 12th flocks of wild geese were seen. On the 16th three more Canada jays were seen.

Game of Newfoundland.

Newfoundland, like Ireland, is innocent of snakes or reptiles. Its hills, all in the interior, are infested with bears, mountain lions, wolves, foxes and gophers. Song birds are few, the robin predominating in numbers, although there is a species of unmusical jay that may outnumber the redbreasted beauty familiar to more southerly and inland latitudes.

This summer more than $20,000,000 worth of forest timber burned. No sustained effort was made to stop the spreading fires, because most of the scourged land is the property of no man. At the brink of a river near the Bay of Islands in August were scores of caribou, wolves, foxes, bears and wild creatures of other kinds herded together by a mountain fire which had driven them from the wilderness toward civilization.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

It Settled In The Kidneys.

Pain In The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected.

Heed the warning: check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows:

"It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The soreness and pain in the small of my back bothered me greatly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings.

Doan's Kidney Pills may be procured at all dealers, or will be sent direct by mail on receipt of price—

50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25.

For Second Peace Conference.

The Hague, Nov. 22.—The Government has notified the American Charge d'Affaires here that Queen Wilhelmina will be glad to see the second peace conference meet at The Hague, and that the United States may count on the co-operation of the Netherlands so soon as Emperor Nicholas, the originator of the work begun in 1899, and the other powers have given their adhesion to the proposal.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Parliament has been announced to meet on Wednesday, Jan. 11. The order was passed at yesterday's Cabinet meeting, and an extra of The Canada Gazette will be issued at once with the usual proclamation.

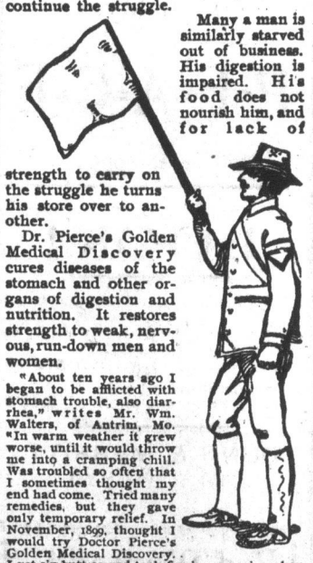
Died At 107.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 22.—At the age at 107 years, Mrs. Julia Zounski, probably the oldest white person on the Pacific Coast, died at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Industry is cheap. It is laziness that costs. It has cost many a bright man a bright career.

STARVED OUT.

Many a garrison has been forced to give up the fight and hang out the white flag of surrender, when lack of food has weakened the men past all power to continue the struggle.



Many a man is similarly starved out of business. His digestion is impaired. His food does not nourish him, and for lack of strength to carry on the struggle he turns his store over to another.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores strength to weak, nervous, run-down men and women.

"About ten years ago I began to be afflicted with stomach trouble, also diarrhea," writes Mr. Wm. Walters, of Antrim, Mo. "In warm weather it grew worse, until it would throw me into a cramping chill. Was troubled so often that I sometimes thought my end had come. Tried many remedies, but they gave only temporary relief. In November, 1899, thought I would try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I got six bottles and took five in succession, then thought I would wait for a time and take the one left. Soon found I had symptoms of the trouble coming back, so took the sixth bottle and it cured me. I have enjoyed the best of health this summer, and the credit all belongs to your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I can't express my many thanks to Dr. Pierce for his remedy, for it did so much for me. Words cannot express how severely I suffered.

"If any doubt the above statement let them address me, and I will take great pleasure in answering."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Farewell Dinner to Earl Grey At the Princess in London.

Lord Strathcona Presided and Informed Governor-General Elect That He Would Find a People Proud of the Name Canadian—In Response, Lord Grey Made Many Prophesies of the Coming Greatness of This Colony of the Empire.

London, Nov. 22.—(C.A.P.)—Some 230 assembled in the Princess Restaurant, London, at a farewell dinner to Earl Grey, Governor-General-elect of Canada. Amongst others present were the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Agents-General of British Columbia and Nova Scotia, the Earl of Aberdeen, the Earl of Litchfield, General Lord William Seymour, Lord Vaux of Harrowden, Viscount Bury, Baron Suyjatza of the Japanese Embassy, Rt. Hon. Sir John Brodrick, M. P., Sir Percy Girouard, Sir Neville Lyttelton, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Major-General Baden-Powell and J. G. Colmer, secretary to the Canadian High Commissioner.

Lord Aberdeen, in proposing the Imperial forces, drew attention to the splendid work done by the Canadians in South Africa. The Canadians combined pride in the British Empire with equal pride in the great Dominion to which they specially belonged. He emphasized the high opinion of them held by Col. Lake.

Sir Neville Lyttelton said Canadians were always ready to help the mother country, as was proved in the South African campaign.

Proud of Their Name.

Lord Strathcona, the chairman, read a letter of regret from Lord Lansdowne, who was unable to be present, owing to the death of a near relative. In the letter he said the new Governor-General would find the inhabitants of the Dominion proud of the name Canadian, and still more proud to be members of the British Empire. A short time ago he (Lord Strathcona) was desired by the Premier and Government of Canada, to say that Lord Grey would receive the warmest possible welcome. Lord Strathcona then proposed the toast, "The Dominion of Canada and the Governor-General-elect."

Lord Grey's Response.

Lord Grey, in responding, referred to the Anglo-French agreement and, remembering a third of the Canadians were French, he felt grateful to Lord Lansdowne for the manner in which the way had been smoothed. The Duke of Argyll, better known to Canadians as the Marquis of Lorne, had told him he was never so happy as when Governor-General of Canada himself. He was going to a country where there was a sky blue atmosphere sparkling like champagne. The Canadian winter was more exhilarating than the average English summer. In vastness of wealth, variety of resources and breed of men, Canada was not surpassed by any portion of the globe. He hoped to see by the conclusion of his term of office, the American mails reaching England through Canadian ports instead of vice versa, and was looking forward to the time when steamers would cross to Canada in four days.

Our Magnificent Future.

He looked forward with the greatest zeal to five years in Canada, whose population, he said, there was every reason to expect, "in the lifetime of our sons, and perhaps even of some of us here present," would equal that of the United Kingdom.

The Archbishop of Canterbury dwelt on Canada's splendid prosperity, judging from her tremendous resources.

Mr. Brodrick, Secretary for India, also addressed the company, as did Vice-Admiral Sir Archibald Douglas, one of the lords commoners of the Admiralty, who had served in Canada in 1866.

A Note of Optimism.

The Times says Earl Grey struck a note of optimism at the Canada Club, and sees clearly the great destiny unfolding for the Dominion, the great west being eagerly taken up by settlers in a way giving some foreshadowing of the vast possibility of the future. It says Lord Grey approaches his task in the spirit of an Imperial patriot, well informed not only by experience gained in the Dominion, but also in different regions of the colonial Empire. The Times says the governor of a self-governing colony is not exactly an expensive figurehead, yet he has no room for intrusive political activity. No doubt every colonist can tell a good governor when he sees one.

Lord Minto's Farewell.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—The Secretary of State received the following message yesterday morning via Marconi Station, Cape Race:

"Secretary of State, Ottawa:

"We wish the people of Canada an affectionate farewell, and assure them that the interests of the Dominion will always be very dear to us. (Signed.) Minto."

Till Earl Grey Comes.

Ottawa, Nov. 22.—Sir Elzear Taschereau, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, will act as Governor-General in the interregum before the arrival of Earl Grey.

Re Will Hang.

Montreal, Nov. 22.—Unless his sentence is commuted by the Dominion Government, Antonio Giacconi of this city will be hanged on Jan. 20 next, for the murder of Theodore Duval on Aug. 20. On that date Giacconi shot and mortally wounded Duval during a row in a saloon on Notre Dame street. Giacconi's trial, which has been in progress in the Court of King's Bench for some days, came to an end last evening, when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy. Judge Hall sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on Jan. 20.

Generosity of the Druggists.

Have you ever noticed that whenever a person is taken sick or an accident happens on the street in the vicinity of a drug store the natural thing seems to be to take the invalid there for treatment? Wondering if the proprietors of drug stores welcomed such invasions—for they can hardly be called anything else, for everybody wants to crowd in and find out what has happened—a reporter put that question to a druggist.

"Not much," was the prompt reply. "It is anything but pleasant for us. It means a lot of trouble and expense in many ways, and but little recompense.

"No matter what the condition of the weather or streets may be, people crowd in, trampling all over the floor, never stopping to clean their feet, if the streets are wet or muddy, goods and furnishings are shoved about, trade is disturbed, and often articles are stolen from the showcases.

"Bandages and simple remedies are furnished for the afflicted person, and often they are removed in an unconscious condition, and they may never know that they have been brought to our stores for treatment. Under such circumstances we are at the loss of the medicines or surgical supplies furnished, unless the patient or his friends are thoughtful enough to think of us when the excitement is over, and pay for the services rendered.

"Some people are thoughtless enough to imagine that druggists are in duty bound to furnish such services free of charge, and they would be offended if bills were rendered for them.

"On the whole, we do not welcome such cases, and are glad when the patient is removed, and consider ourselves lucky if we get anything for our pains. But we never complain, as it seems the natural place to bring people, as remedies and appliances are at hand for immediate aid."
