Why should not every school hav swimming bath like the Sarsfield school? The length of our winter and the great cost of land are given as the reasons why our schools have no playgrounds-a very regrettable fact. Neither of these objections applies to the present proposal, as every school has space under it that might be so used, and there is no more wholesome or more useful bodily exercise than swimming. It would of course, require unceasing superision, but is that not true of all school sports. Mr. Marshall, the Conservative candidate in East Elgin, is a splendid Canadian, a fine business man, and a friend of everybody in the riding. The Liberal machine, instead of opposing him on public grounds, has opened up a rancorous personal campaign. It has attacked him unfairly in his business, and has tried to make out that he is a species of rascal. So disgusted has the form of assault means allowed and in the fashion of the time and place.

In Vandalia, the blue jeans he wore were the dress of his companions as well, and later, from Springfield days on, clear through his presidency, his costume was the usual suit of black broadcloth, carefully made and scrupulously neaf. He cared nothing for style. It did not matter to him whether the man with whom he talked wore a coat of the latest cut or owned no coat at all. It was the man inside the coat that interested him.—Helen Nicolay in St. Nicholas.

The device, says the Pittsburg Carette-Times, was an acrostic of names fameus in history, literature and act by which the firm's name was to be engraved on the Boston Public library. As may be observed, the arrangement defield literature history and called literature history and called literature. As may be observed, the arrangement, defied literature, history and philosophy in arrangement, and this was the thing that attracted the newspaper man's attention. The names were congiomerated from all nations and ages into a meaningly next arrangement the into a seemingly neat ornamentation for the flue building. Beginning at the top of a space to be devoted to names famous in the world in various lines. were the following:

Moses, Cicere, Kalidass Isocrates Milton.

These names, through their initials, formed the first part of the acrosse, spelling plainly "McKim." A slight spelling plainly "McKim." A slight space appeared before the next list of names, which was:
