The Christmas Spirit.
Humanity is at heart kind. It is not as bad as has been popularly represented. Much of the evil that men do to each other is the result of the conditions in which they are placed. Industrialism makes life mostly a great conflict. Brotherhood is barred. Kindness is shoved aside by the necessity for struggle. To keep the feet firmly upon the path it is not easy to take heroic views of life. But Christmas is coming more and more to be a kind of truce in the strife. It gives a man a chance to look up around, and to consider how much better might be the conditions of life. It gives him a chance to see that the man he fights is very much like himself, and the sentiment of kindness grows out of the consciousness of kin. And there is born in the souls of men a new spirit and a new vision and a new ideal.

Receipts enter as children there is no room for us at the Christmas festival. The children were very dear and very near to the Nazarene and the world has not forgotten it. It is curious how the passing centuries upon this one day carry me back to the Master. Creeds were and were. Faiths change and go. The old fashions come and the young of today gather thick in Time's dusty corridors. But in the Bethlehem message there is the radiance of eternal youth and the enduring essence of the divine. Peace on earth and good will among men are still far away and a multitude of earth's children are still unhappy and unloved. But as the years go on the world softens and charity deepens, and brotherhood widens among mankind. The best of us need charity and brotherhood. The worst of us may be making life sweet and beautiful to a child or a wife or friend who cannot see our sins or the radiance of our sacrifices. There is always honor for the hand that helps and beauty in the lips that will not condemn. Of such was Christ. If we feel the hungry and clothe the naked and walk humbly and love mercy, there are the roots of goodness in us, even though we pray not very loudly, and bestow not much holyunction on our neighbors. Each to his own way, if the way be honest and the life sincere. The hard task that is set for each of us is to live with himself and to be decent. If we do this and still have courage enough left to pray for ourselves, we can leave judgement upon the offences of our fellow-men to the God who made us all and expect us in His mercy to serve our friends as best we can and do our duty as best we may. The world goes very near to Bethlehem in the Christmas season, and if we spend but one day well upon the uplands we shall perhaps descend into the valleys with some of our pride and greed and arrogance purged finally away, and with hearts better fitted for good service and good courage equal to stern duties and more enduring endeavor.
Henry Van Dyke expresses beautifully the true Christmas spirit in the following words:
"It is a good thing to observe Christmas day. The mere marking of times and seasons when men agree to stop work and make merry together, is a wise and wholesome custom. It helps one to feel the spaciousness of the cosmos life over the individual life. It reminds a man to set his own little watch, now and then by the great clock of humanity which runs on sun time. But there is a letter thing than the observance of Christmas."

"I had been using eczema ointment for some time, and I was so bad that they had to take me out of camp in a wagon and send for a new foreman. I cannot recommend this ointment too highly." A Merry Christmas.
The sky shows the angels' sang,
Across the far plains came the king,
All because of a little Child,
That makes Christmas sacred to the happiness of children. It is for them that the stockings hang by the fire, and the tree shivers with candles, and the gifts are heaped about, and the Christmas feast is spread upon the table, and the old words echoing down from many a Christmas past, are sung again. Strength is now intent upon the service of weakness; age waits on youth; wisdom on ignorance; the present serves the future. The general desire is to magnify the joys of life, to enrich the happiness of the household, to make all faces bright with smiles, to celebrate a Merry Christmas. No frowns, no frowns, no angry or complaining voices, no envious or selfish thoughts; but jubilation and joyous merriment.

U. S. Apple Crop Declining.
The total crop of Maine, this year, amounts to between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 barrels of merchantable apples, according to an estimate by Albert K. Garder, horticulturist of the state department of agriculture. The fruit journals and produce trade papers have been publishing an estimate of 25,000,000 to 29,000,000 barrels for the entire country, of which they allow 88,000 to Maine. Mr. Garder asserts that this estimate is at least 125,000 barrels too low, and that records of shipment will later in the season prove his assertion. The crop of Maine orchards is less than usual in amount, but the advance in orcharding methods has assured that a larger proportion is merchantable fruit, and the discrepancy between this and former years in the amount marketed will not be so large as has been estimated by the people outside of the state.

The December Rod and Gun.
Full of winter flavor and richly scented of the time of year is the December (Christmas) number of the Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ont. Reading "Frisk Chickens in Winter" is a story which every lover of the Wild and the things of the Wild will peruse with the keenest pleasure. It shows in every line how much real gratification can be obtained from the bird during the winter weather and how observations, laying up a store of pleasant memories, can be obtained. The minimum of trouble giving the maximum reward. "Lost in a Mani tobi Island," "Animal Encounters in Labrador" and the Literature of Angling, show the wide interest created by this number and illustrate the manner in which sportsmen of the most varied tastes are catered to. These papers can all be read by the general reader with both pleasure and profit, and the work done in this way for Canada is not to be measured by the fact that primarily the magazine appeals to sportsmen. There are plenty of sporting articles from seal hunting to bear hunting including that most strenuous sport of all—mountain climbing. A fine Christmas present is a subscription to Canada's leading sportsman's magazine.

Coming to Them.
"It is said that impetuous people have black eyes."
"Yes, and if they don't have them they are apt to get them."
If we teach the youth of the land that fighting is a better business than farming or ministering to the higher interests of the people, we are sowing dragon's teeth to blast the state.
Farmer's Advocate.
Every family has need of a good, reliable liniment. For sprains, bruises, soreness of the muscles and rheumatic pains there is none better than Chamberlain's, Sold by all druggists.

Mortality Saving.
The average for the three years 1907, 1908, 1909 of 46 American and 3 of the largest Canadian Companies reporting to the American Insurance Department was 74.02 per cent. of the expected. The 3 Canadian Companies alone 68.41 per cent. Average of Excellent same time 47 per cent.
Economy in Management.
Consultor Tully in investigation by Royal Commission on industrial accidents on effort to keep down insurance.

The December Rod and Gun.
He entered into the friendship both of the rich, being beloved alike by Lazarus the beggar, and by Lazarus of Bethany, in whose house were boxes of spikenard very precious. By and by, after His supreme, revealing sacrifice, He disappeared from common sight, promising to be with us at ways. God is our neighbor setting us an example of neighborliness.
Christmas is the Festival of Friendship, a time to put away old differences, and to clear up old misunderstandings. In the name of Him Who loved us even to the laying down of His life, let us renew our affections, holding out hands of brotherhood. To all good friends, to all faithful and helpful folk, to all who multiply the joys of their own holiday by sharing them with others, to all good neighbors, a Merry Christmas!
To old and young, to rich and poor, to our distant cousins the saints to our next of kin the sinners, to the glad and to the sad, to all, with all our hearts, a Merry Christmas! Let the bells ring, and organs peal in churches. Bring gifts, and light the Christmas trees with candles. Let love and joy sit beside all hearthstones. A Merry Christmas!—Rev. Geo. Hodges, D. D., in Youth's Companion.

For That Dull Feeling After Eating.
I have used Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for some time, and am so satisfied that they have done me more good than any tablets I have ever used. My trouble was a heavy dull feeling after eating.—David FRENCH, Kemp, Nova Scotia. These tablets strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. They also regulate the liver and bowels. They are far superior to pills but cost no more. Get a few samples at all druggists and see what splendid medicine it is.
South America is nearly twice as large as the whole of Europe.

Some Remarkable Chinese Proverbs.
A clever man understands a nod.
Heaven is the lid of the coffin, earth is the bottom of the coffin; man may rush to add fire, but they are in the coffin all the same.
A good boy does not put on fine clothes, nor a good girl does not go to shows.
The stupid thief stops his ears when stealing a bell.
To warn men against wine show them a drunken man.
An ape may sit on a throne.
A blind man carrying a looking glass.
A poor boy by condition, rich by ambition.
Good medicine is bitter to the taste.
Plan the whole year in the spring.
A thin horse has long hair.
If the distance from nose to tip be one inch he will live one hundred years.
The money maker is never weary; the weary man never makes money.
A wick is not a substitute for a walking stick.
You can't play a fiddle behind your back.
On the western mountain tigers eat men; on the western mountain tigers eat men too.
Even a title will turn some day.
Even the blind open their eyes (like saucers) at money.
It costs no strength to watch others labor.
If one branch will not move the whole tree will not wave.
Buy once with cash rather than ten times on credit.
The lazy use a long thread; the stupid a crooked needle.
The load cannot carry the ass.
Blame yourself first, then others.
The dumb can tell when they have eaten.
A snake cannot creep without a head.
Man's mouth is but two bits of skin.
Painted water has no wind.
You can't eat hot bread in a hurry or hear a story on horseback.
On the jail gate are four words: 'You repeat too late.'
The man with money speaks the truth.
Time is like an arrow.
Arise with the rooster in the morning.
The bad die early.
If you don't love your neighbor ask him to raise geese.
A rich man living on a mountain top will have relatives from a distance.
A small stone can break a large jar.
If you never get up hill you will never see a plain.
A world of acquaintances, but how many friends?
There is flesh on both sides of your hand.
Easy to see flowers, but hard to embezzle.

Some Remarkable Chinese Proverbs.
You need a needle to draw the thread.
The blind man says he saw a ghost. Mountains do not turn, but roads do. The able minister keeps his mouth shut.
A spring rain is worth as much as oil.
Those who live near rivers understand the fishes.
Clear water, few fishes.
No matter how high the waves, at night on the fishing atone.
When the waters rise the boats rise also.
If you have money, any place is Yangchow.
The buffalo longs for the moon.
Carry your umbrella when the weather is fine; carry food when you are not hungry.
The horseman does not know the footman's trials.
At home you may get on for a thousand days; but the traveler is in trouble all the time.
To converse with a superior man for one night is better than studying books for ten years.
Hold your temper for a moment and avoid one hundred days of sorrow.
Men look up; water flows down.
If you have money the devil will grind for you.
If you are near ink you will become black.
You can substitute a turnip for an egg only once.
Whoever buys the horse rides it.
A worn out boat still has three thousand nails in it.
A man's heart is kept from view by his skin; a tiger's heart by his hair.
If the farmer is diligent the soil will not be lazy.
If you will respect me an inch I will respect you an ell.
When idle arrange things for busy days.
If there are three roads, keep in the middle one.
A big heart is better than a big house.
Don't walk on a tiger hill.
Worship the idol and it seems a god; not worship the idol and 'tis but a clod.
If you know how, a thing is not hard; if it is hard, then you don't know how.
False equality is genuine arrogance.
One hand cannot make a clap.
Men honor the rich, dogs bite the ragged.
Sacrifice a sheep to kill a wolf.
To a full man even honey is not sweet.
Too many cooks spoil the dog.
The quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger from pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mc. D. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., says: 'I finally believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me.' For sale by all druggists.

CURIOSITY Prompted Many Women To Try PURITY FLOUR
THEY were curious to see exactly what results would be produced by flour consisting entirely of the high-grade portions of the best Western hard wheat.
They were curious to know more about a flour that contained none of the low-grade portions, which are found in every wheat berry, but which are separated and excluded from the high-grade in the process of milling PURITY FLOUR.
THEY were curious to know whether an ALL HIGH-GRADE hard wheat flour was really superior to a mixed hard and soft wheat flour.
They were curious to see and taste the kind of bread, buns, biscuits, cakes and pies PURITY FLOUR would make.
Curiosity prompts you to seek the knowledge they discovered. It's urging you to try PURITY FLOUR.
REMEMBER: On account of the extra strength and extra quality of PURITY FLOUR it is necessary, for best pastry results, to add more shortening than you are accustomed to use with an ordinary flour. Add more water when making bread.
Add PURITY FLOUR to your grocery list right now
