About 1 o'clock, Thursday morning the tranquil slumbers of our townspeo-ple were suddenly broken, by the fearful alarm of the fire-bell. It was soon disalarm of the fire-bell. It was soon discovered that a fire was assuming fearful power, having originated in the rear of Wright & Co.'s store. A large crowd soon collected and breaking into the stores began to save the goods. But the fire, driven along by a brisk wind, kept at their heels. It was thought as the monter enveloped in onick where the monster enveloped in quick succession the stores of Messra.
