The Things We Never Say.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"I don't care if he is my cousin," Molly, the little stenographer-lady had said indignantly, "I don't think it's right for Lucy to treat Carlotta the way she does and I shall tell her the next time I see her. What if she has given Carlotta a home since her husband died that's no reason for working her like a dog. And the most exasperating part of it is that she thinks Carlotta is the one who ought to be grateful. The next time she comes to see me I shall tell her that she ought to be very thankful to Carlotta for taking care of the children and doing half the sewing and most of the housework."

A few days later Molly chanced to mention that Lucy had lunched with her, and the wants-to-be-cynic who had listened to Molly's tirade with an expression of tolerant superiority, at once pricked up his ears and inquired,—"And what did she say when you told her you thought she over-worked Carlotta?"

Molly looked somewhat confused. "I er—I don't know as I said just that," she stammered.

"No?" from the cynic. "Why not?"

There didn't seem to be any very good opportunity," said Molly with a clutch at her dignity.

"Nobody mentioned Carlotta?"

"Yes, Lucy had on a new dress Carlotta had made her."

"Oh,—the wants-to-be-cynic put a world of meaning into that simple sound.

"I don't care," flared Molly, "you know very well you wouldn't have said a word."

"Course he wouldn't, Molly," comforted the Author-man, while the wants-to-be-cynic murmured to himself, "I can't seem to remember threatening to, but of course my memory isn't as good as it was when I was younger."

Naval Guns Take Terrible Toll.

London, Nov. 18.—Terrible toll was taken by the guns of a portion of the Allied Fleet off Belgium, when a German troop train, rushing reinforcements to the battle line, was struck by shells from a warship, wrecked, set on fire and completely destroyed.

Reports of the work of the fleet, which has again been able to get into action with the lifting of the fog, reached here to-day in despatches from Belgium. On Monday they were able to resume their bombardment of the coast.

The portion of the fleet in action bombarded the coast towns of Zeebrugge and Knokke, held by the Germans. Buildings were badly damaged by the shell fire.

The German train was destroyed while running along the coast.

The Solway's Company's works on the Bruges ship canal, which are being used as a base for German military trains, were wrecked. Much damage was done to the German steamers and supplies.

W. P. A. Workers.

The Women's Patriotic Association have sent a cable message to the authorities in England saying that they will supply 500 pairs of socks for the men of the First Newfoundland Regiment. Already 3,000 pairs have been sent to the War Office for distribution as the authorities deemed best. They will also send a shipment of woollen mittens, mufflers and helmets which will be needed during the coming winter season.

MONGOLIAN OFF.—Because of the delay in discharging her cargo the Allan Liner Mongolian did not get away for Halifax and Philadelphia till 10 o'clock this morning.

Maud Fealy

Late Star With Sir Henry Irving at The Nickel Theatre.

Miss Maude Fealy, the celebrated English actress, will be seen at the Nickel Theatre to-day in one of the greatest dramas ever played, "The Golden Cross." Maude Fealy, as everyone knows is a lady of wonderful ability who played as leading lady with the late Sir Henry Irving and with him played in the leading theatres of the world. She is one of the cleverest women who ever appeared on the stage, and has drawn large audiences wherever she appeared. "The Golden Cross" is adapted from the famous opera. It is a beautiful story, magnificently told.

"Educating His Daughters" is a first class comedy drama.

"The Champion" is a Keystone comic in, which Mabel Normand is seen in a very funny character.

"The Moonshiner" is a thrilling melodrama.

Beside the foregoing there will be a Mutual Weekly. Be sure and see to-day's performance, it is certain to delight all.

Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd.

Gentlemen,—In July 1905 I was thrown from a road machine, injuring my hip and back badly and was obliged to use a crutch for 14 months. In Sept. 1906 Mr. Wm. Outridge, of Lachute urged me to try MINARD'S LINIMENT, which I did with the most satisfactory results and to-day I am as well as ever in my life.

Yours sincerely,
MATTHEW x BAINES, mark

Entertainment at Mannels.

Messrs. J. M. Spens and J. J. O'Grady are now making arrangements for an entertainment to be held at Mannels on Dec. 14th; the proceeds to be devoted to the fund for the restoration of the R. C. Church, at Kelligrews, which was destroyed by fire some months ago. Many vocalists from the city will assist in the programme, and as the object is a worthy one it is hoped that much assistance will be given to the cause.

BEFORE THE FIRE
you may not think much about the necessity of insurance, but AFTER A FIRE
has destroyed your home and its contents you will realize what it would mean if you could have the money handed to you to rebuild and reimburse you for the loss.

That's what we do for you when you are insured in our reliable companies.

Take out a policy with us to-day.
PERCIE JOHNSON,
Insurance Agent.

The Crescent Picture Palace.

The Crescent Picture Palace is giving another big show to-day, and yesterday's satisfied patrons will be equally well pleased with to-day's programme.

"The Mystery of Yellowwater Mine" is a great two reel war drama, one of the kind that the Bison Biograph Company are famous for producing, beside containing an interesting love story, the battle scenes between the miners and Indians is most exciting.

"The Second Home Coming" is a domestic drama told by the Nestor Company. The girl after being educated at college thinks the mother's home not good enough and goes back to the city; she realizes that the mother's love is the best love and gets a mother's welcome at the "Second Home Coming."

"Bob's Baby" is a very clever comedy reel out of the ordinary run of comedies; Glen White, Violet Harner, Jean Acker and all the Gem Comedy stars take part in this.

Jack McDonald sings a new ballad: "In the Heart of a Rose."

Crescent patrons will be delighted with the above first-class show.

Young Novice Leaves

Mr. William Miller, late of C. P. Eagan's store, left to-day on the Allan Liner Mongolian en route to Baltimore to study for the Xaverian Brotherhood. The young novice is an ex-pupil of the Christian Brothers, St. Patrick's Hall Schools, and before his departure was given a send-off by his former associates.

"British Born."

At the Casino Theatre on next Tuesday night that well known stirring drama, "British Born" will be played by the T. M. White Dramatic Company, the proceeds to be devoted to the Patriotic Fund. The play is under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Davidson.

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 50c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake.

ZYLEX, London.

BOY DROWNED.—Last evening, Minister of Justice Squires received a message from Mr. W. W. Bradley, J.P., sub-collector at Lewisporte, intimating that his only son Eric, aged 19 years, had been drowned that day in Indian Arm Pond by the upsetting of his boat. The body was recovered. The bereaved parents will have widespread sympathy in the loss of their loved one.

Ponderous Personages

GENERAL BOULANGER.
By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Slwash."

France has been too busy for some time to remember much about General George Ernest Jean Marie Boulanger. Yet he was a man who would have gotten more satisfaction out of the war with Germany than any other living Frenchman. War with Germany was his political platform for years and his intense and deep-seated desire to scrunch the fatherland into a collection of wretched remains came very near making an emperor out of him in 1889.

Boulanger was a political disturbance who swelled up into Napoleonic size for a few years and exploded with a loud report about 25 years ago, saving nothing but an old man with a shady personal reputation and unlimited regrets. He was born in 1837 and in his youth was a brave soldier fighting for France with sword, fists, shoulders, tongue and pen wherever the enemy was thickest. After the capture of Paris he devoted himself to the task of hating Germany. So successful was he that he hated himself into a Brigadier Generalship and then into the directorship of infantry, in which office he made reforms and improvements and yelled for vengeance until France began to regard him as the biggest man in the world and clamored for the privilege of following him over the Rhine, the Cologne cathedral and other obstacles to Berlin.

Boulanger got into the cabinet and yelled so fiercely for blood that he was known as the "brave general" and those politicians who opposed him retired from office under carloads of votes. The Royalists swung in behind him and began to say plans to install another emperor in Paris when Boulanger should have tipped over the republic and wiped out Germany. The anxious government fired him from the army and an indignant people elected him to the assembly by a tremendous majority. He resigned in 1888 in an eruption of hectic patriotism and the people re-elected him so emphatically that the cabinet became worried and the president of France began to look up the time tables for elsewhere. It looked very much like the United States of Boulanger in 1889 in France.

But Boulanger hesitated. Weeks passed and he did not kick over the government and eradicate the constitution. The Government stuck up courage and issued a warrant for his arrest. To th intense surprise of everybody Boulanger fled and as his coat tails receded in the dim horizon a great man dwindled into an adventurer and France's last danger from the Royalists disappeared.

Boulanger blew his brains out in Brussels in 1891 at the grave of a lady to whom he had been only partially married and so great was his obscurity that not even the students in the Latin quarter started a riot about it.

Doctors and Gas Fires

In an article which recently appeared in the London "Evening News," Mr. W. G. Faulkner stated: "In making my inquiries I discovered one significant fact. This was that one company—the Gas Light and Coke Company—had among their consumers 2,500 doctors who had gas fires installed in their houses, some as many as ten or a dozen; that 1,500 of these doctors had become users of gas during the past three years; and that not one had ever given them up."

Professor C. V. Boys, F.R.S., says, in the "Standard": "Sentiment and inertia are the only obstacles against the general adoption of gas fires and cooking appliances. Wonderful strides have been made, in spite of deep-rooted prejudice. A gas fire, burning with a flue, is an admirable agent for heating a room; and, as a scientist, I fail to understand how such a gas fire dries the air in a room more than any other fire."—nov17,11
