

Social Service Council.

Important Problems Discussed.
The Social Service Council of Newfoundland met in the Presbyterian Hall last night, Vice-Pres. Rev. D. B. Hemmison, in the chair. The Secretary, Rev. Gordon Dickie, M.A., read several communications from the Social Council of Canada regarding the holding of a number of conferences in Canada and Newfoundland during the coming year, similar in character to the Congress held in this city over twelve months ago. A report on the question of an industrial home for boys was presented, recommending that the Government be requested to build and equip a state institution for the detention of boys and for their training in some useful occupation. It is thought a large and costly plant would not be necessary, but that a beginning might be made in a modest way and enlargements follow when necessary. Provision would probably be made for twenty-five boys at the outset. According to statistics furnished by the police authorities, sixty-six boys and eighteen girls were arrested and convicted during the last two years for larceny, street-walking, disorderly conduct, etc. The majority of these offenders were under sixteen years of age. The Social Council also recommended a committee to enquire into the question of girl delinquents, and suggested that co-operative legislation if necessary might be secured with Canada to permit the sending of such girls to suitable institutions in the Maritime provinces. The number of such girls is not large enough to warrant the establishment here of a special home for them. The Council also instructed a committee to draft a Child's Protective Act, suitable to the conditions of the Dominion, to be presented to the Government for approval at the coming session. The meeting then adjourned to meet in four weeks' time or previously at the call of the President. The desire was expressed during the evening that the various bodies, such as unions, etc., co-operate with the Council in forwarding the necessary legislation. Great interest was manifested in the problems discussed, and it is confidently hoped something of a practical nature will be accomplished in the near future.

C. L. B. Memorial.

The Women's C. L. B. Memorial Association will not meet on Wednesday nights during Lent, but will meet every Tuesday afternoon at the Cannon Wood Hall, from 2.30 till 6. The Association is anxious to carry out the purpose for which it was formed, which is to clothe the boys of the C. of E. Orphanage as a memorial to the former members of the C. L. B. who so gallantly fought and died in the War. There are thirty orphan boys to be clothed, which means that a great many articles have to be made, and although the few steady workers who come each week have done excellent work, there is still much more to be done, and new members will be gladly welcomed; each member pays 50 cts. a year to join. Funds are also needed and any subscription will be gratefully received by the acting Treasurer, MRS. HERBERT RENDALL, Duckworth Street, City, mar.8.61.

QUIETING DOWN IN BERLIN.

LONDON, March 12.
A German Government wireless despatch received here this evening says that according to official announcement up to Tuesday afternoon there had been no more important fighting anywhere in Berlin. A night attack on the staff quarters of the Government troops in the suburb of Nakelstein was frustrated. There were occasional unimportant engagements in Charlottenburg and various places in East Berlin. A military order affecting a number of streets in East Berlin has been issued, says the wireless despatch. The order declares that any one found in these streets after seven o'clock in the evening will be shot. The Berlin newspapers' despatch say that the Spartacus visited Herr Noske, Secretary of the Military Affairs, last night, to inquire into peace conditions. It is rumored that after protracted negotiations the Military Secretary demanded the unconditional surrender of the Spartacans and also the yielding up of all their arms.

Mother and Son Are Both Grateful.

For the Good Dodd's Kidney Pills Did Them.

Cured Mrs. Larson's Sore Back, and Put an End to Her Son's Sleepless Nights.

Bergland, Ont., March 12th.—(Special).—"I am glad to have an opportunity to give fair credit to Dodd's Kidney Pills for the good they did me, and also my family," says Mrs. John S. Larson, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place. "We have been using them as a family remedy for some back.

"At the time I ordered Dodd's Kidney Pills I did it more for a fancy than from any belief in their curing value.

"But I was all in from an aching back. I caught a bad cold and that settled on my kidneys so bad that I could not sleep, and I could not work. "When I stooped forward my back was so sore that I had to brace up my body by putting my elbows on my knees and I could hardly rise up again.

"After taking two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills the pain decreased some and my back is fairly good unless I overwork.

"Also one of my young sons had diseased kidneys, so that he had to get up every half hour during the night. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him and now he can sleep all night.

"I am very grateful to Dodd's Kidney Pills." Dodd's Kidney Pills have been curing kidney ills for over twenty-five years. Ask your neighbors about them.

Why People Should Dance.

By Philip J. S. Richardson, Editor of "The Dancing Times."

There is a great boom in dancing to-day. That is a fact that is obvious to all. There is such a demand for dancing rooms that the available halls in London will not suffice and they are crowded to suffocation. The Press is continually publishing articles on the latest dances; at least six papers during recently have asked me to write something for them about the fox-trot or the one step or the jazz—but it has been left to the Editor of THE DANCING TIMES to put the question of things and proposed the question, "Why should people dance?"

A Big Asset.
Grown-ups though, we may be we are all children at heart, and on armistice day I witnessed dignity cast on one side and many grown men and women tripping a merry measure in the public thoroughfares. Such, however, is the force of custom, that Mother Dignity soon asserted herself, and those who wished to dance had to confine their efforts to the ball-room. Is it surprising therefore that the ball-room to-day is overcrowded.

I learned how to dance about twenty-five years ago when I was a young man in London with very few friends. I found that when the few friends I had gave parties my name was omitted because I could not dance or if I was invited I passed a very dull evening as a wall-flower. I took up dancing and as a result received many more invitations and made many friends. Here then we have one reason why we should dance.

Splendid Exercise.

For the middle-aged man whose business is probably of a sedentary nature, dancing is without doubt a magnificent exercise if taken in moderation. It is capital for the liver and prevents one's joints growing stiff and rheumatic.

Like many other good things it is soon a danger if indulged in to excess. The atmosphere of a ballroom is not always the best one would desire and numerous dances lasting until the wee small hours of the morning are good for no one.

Banksies Worry.

To the man who is engaged in strenuous brain work for six and a half days of the week a dance is the finest tonic that can be had. As soon as he is out in the mazy or via the rolling jazz he will for a short space of time forget all the worries of the day. A dance, in his case, is far better than a visit to the theatre, for at the former he has to do something himself, whereas at the theatre he must content himself with watching others perform.

So far I have been dealing with the grown-ups, but when we come to the children there are many more weighty reasons why they should dance—not as we adults do in the ball-room, but real dances.

Better Than Doctors.

Perhaps the most unpalatable truth brought home to us during the war is the fact that we are not from a physical point of view an A1 nation. Now the most physically perfect nation in the Greek nation of the Golden Age, and its physical perfection was largely due to a visit to the theatre, for at the time they paid to the training of their bodies both by gymnastic exercises and by dancing. To the young Greek dancing was no so much an amusement as a part of his education. Socrates was a dancer and so was Plato; and the latter in one place laid it down that chastisement should be the lot of any youth who disobeyed the rules of the dance.

To-day thousands of children in this country are taking dancing lessons under properly qualified teachers. They are learning not the values and fox-trots which amuse their parents but a modified form of technique of operatic dancing—a technique which insists upon the proper development of every muscle in the body. Hundreds of children are ordered each year by their doctors to take dancing lessons to remedy small natural infirmities notably round shoulders and weak backs. The more our children are encouraged in this direction the more perfect will their bodies be when they reach maturity.—TIT-BITS.

The concert programme was made up as follows:—Soleos by Mrs. Christian, Misses Mitchell and Woods, Captain Campbell, Messrs. Williams, L'Etie and Tragnell; piano solo by Miss Tait and Mr. Gordon Christian; readings by Miss Curtis; instrumental selection by Hon. A. and Mrs. Mews and Mr. Arthur Mews and several choruses by Mrs. Farndale, Misses Smeltrove, Young and W. Bowdes; Messrs. W. Mews, W. Gaulton, W. Bowden and G. Smith.

The Young Man in

By RUTH CAMERON.

Is there any sight more oddly moving and touching than that of a young man in a Church?
There is no question about it—in this day and generation we have come to think of the active practice of religion as something belonging peculiarly to women, the clergy and middle-aged men. And when an up-and-coming young man shoulders his way through that sad tradition, marking his fine bulk up the aisle and his healthy young voice in the hymns, or bows his proud young head in the sight that touches the souls of heart chords that vibrate tales of heroism or to beautiful

After all, what is my experience, and what I have heard other people say, it is not a unique one. Especially, I have heard that subject mentioned in the last two or three years.

The Young Man in Church is A Soldier!

For when the young man in Church wears the uniform of his country and halo of a consecration to the great cause as well as the glory of his youth, his appeal was almost too poignant. I remember one Sunday just before the war when the lady next door came home from Church with such a look of uplift in her face that I asked her to tell me what it was. And she said, "I was so inspired. And behold, it was not a sermon at all that had lit the little lamps in her eyes, but the inspiration of the young man in Church."

The Boy and His Grandmother.
He was one of those radio boys," she said, "and I don't think he was more than twenty, and six feet tall and so many-looking! And he looked with the dearest old lady—I think she must have been his grandmother. And when he stood there, holding the edge of the hymn book, then, then when he knelt beside the altar, it made a lump in my throat because it seemed so beautiful."

I have been trying to analyze this thing, and it seems to me that it represents a sort of subconscious satisfaction.
