Town and County News

THANKS.—We are obliged to Mr. T. J. Day for a volume of Routledge's Christmas Annual. It contains a highly interesting Christmas Tale entitled "The Dead Christ," written by the well-known author James Grant. He has copies for sale.

SOCIAL.—The Primitive Methodists of this town intend to hold a Tea-social on Tuesday evening, 8th inst., in their Church. A good programme has been provided, and tea will be served from 6:30 till 8 p.m. Those who wish an evening's enjoyment would do well to attend.

VOTE OF THANKS.—At a meeting of the Guelph Division of the Sons of Temperance held last night, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—
Moved by Bro. Wilkie, seconded by Bro. Moseley, that the warmest thanks of this Division be tendered to the Rev. Gentleman who, in the face of such disgraceful opposition, so ably addressed the public meeting in the Town Hall on Thursday evening last, viz:—Rev. Messrs. Lancelley, W. S. Ball, Thos. Wardrop, and Dr. Davidson, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to each of the above named gentlemen, and to each of the town papers requesting them to insert it.

OTTER SUPPER.—Last night the members of the County Council and a number of other gentlemen were entertained by Mr. James Parker, of the Parker House, to an excellently got up oyster and tripe supper. After the viands had been disposed of the chair was taken by Mr. Geo. Howard, Reeve of Guelph. Toasts, songs and speeches were the order of the evening, until about midnight, when the company dispersed, having spent a few hours in a most enjoyable manner. During the course of the evening the health of "mine host," at whose invitation they were assembled together, was proposed in very complimentary terms, and was duly responded to.

COURT OF CHANCERY.
Dec. 4th, 1874.
PATTERSON VS. THOMPSON & CULLEN.
This case which has occupied the attention of the court since the 1st inst., was concluded on the 3rd inst. Judgment was given against the plaintiff, and the Bill dismissed with costs.

PADDOCK VS. PADDOCK.
This action is between two brothers. Some 300 acres of land had been left on the death of the father, and the family have been occupying it jointly. Lately however, the elder brother has taken 200 acres of the land for his share and left the younger brother with 100 acres. Hence this action; the younger brother thinking that he is entitled to as much as the other. Settled without a hearing.

JAMIESON VS. MCROBT.
This is a suit to set aside a mortgage on the part of Mr. Moore and Mr. Mair for plaintiff; Messrs. Drew and Jacobs for defendant. This case still occupies the attention of the Court as we go to press.

"Indecent Slander."
(To the Editor of the Globe.)
Sir,—Allow me to thank you for the manifold utterances under the above head in your issue of to-day. They will be approved and sustained by honourable-minded men the world over.

When the proper time comes Professor McCandless's allegations will be met with explanation and disproof such will satisfy all impartial and dispassionate people. He has dared a contest which he had far better have avoided. His wise course would have been to have taken his ill-gotten gains and decamped for parts unknown in July last.

I do not propose now to enter at all into the charges made against myself or others by the Ex-Principal. But I beg to say these few things:—

1. All the Professor's fine talk about his high position at Cornell University is mere moonshine. I have in my possession a letter from one of the chief men of that institution, in which, referring to the mess the Professor had made of it here, he declares that he is not at all surprised, and adds that the greatest mistake they ever made was in appointing him to a Professorship there.

2. The finely-spun theory as to the Professor's unpopularity is a very pretty specimen of special pleading, but it can be pushed aside like a cobweb, as it is.

3. I affirm, and am prepared to do so if necessary on oath, that I never violated, or winked at the violation of, any rule of the institution; and that I upheld his administration until its tyranny and incapacity became intolerable, when, as in duty bound, I resigned.

4. Professor McCandless dare not make the allegation respecting character, which he has done under the disguise of parliamentary privilege, in any way that will expose him to personal liability.

5. If Professor McCandless is foolishly enough to run for a constituency in the approaching Provincial Election, I beg to say that I am ready to enter the lists as his opponent.

I am, sir,
Yours very truly,
W. F. CLARK.

Wellington County Council.

Dec. 3rd.

The Council met at ten o'clock. The Warden in the chair. Thirty-five members present.

The Warden read papers in connection with the Irvine bridge at Elora, viz., the statement made by the municipality of Elora to Mr. Blake; Mr. Blake's opinion; the statement made by the County Solicitor, to Mr. C. Robinson, and also Mr. Robinson's opinion. These opinions were published in the MERCURY some time ago, and it is therefore unnecessary to repeat them here.

Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Allan, that this Council grant $1,000 to renew the bridge across the Irvine river, in the village of Elora, and that Messrs. Anderson, Mair and Dalby be appointed Commissioners to repair said bridge.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Dalby, seconded by Mr. McKim, that it is not expedient to make any grant until the question of jurisdiction be settled, and that the opinion of the County Solicitor be sustained.

Moved in amendment to the amendment by Mr. McGowan, seconded by Mr. Frain, that in reference to the Irvine bridge at Elora, a Committee be appointed, consisting of Messrs. Mair, Stevenson, Dalby, Anderson and the Warden, and that the above Committee agree upon a case, and that they submit the same to Mr. Harrison, Q.C., of Toronto, both parties agreeing to abide by his decision.

Mr. Dalby's amendment was carried. A Yeas and Nays vote having been called for, it resulted as follows:—

Dec. 1.

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.
Mr. Cameron then read a number of very lengthy letters from Professor McCandless to the Attorney-General, in which he complained that if the investigation in connection with the Agricultural College, which was made by the Commission appointed by the Government, neither he nor other officials of the institution against whom charges had been made had been permitted to hear the evidence. He made a great many charges against the Commissioner of Agriculture of having made several appointments of incompetent persons—in some cases when there was no need for their services even had they been useful persons—and with having allowed relatives of officials to remain at the institution at the expense of the Government. He also charged that very disorderly conduct had been permitted at the College. Having concluded the reading of the document, he (Mr. Cameron) said that he acquitted the hon. the Attorney-General from any neglect in this matter as far as he was individually concerned. He (Mr. Cameron) had had the pleasure of reading some of the hon. gentleman's letters to Prof. McCandless, and he thought they were couched in the proper terms and spirit. He (Mr. Cameron) thought the hon. gentleman was desirous of having the institution managed as well as it could be, but he had permitted the wishes of his colleagues to outweigh his own. If Professor McCandless had reported in that letter things that were not true, he ought to be branded as a dishonourable man, and he (Mr. Cameron) held that an investigation should be made before a Committee into the facts of the case. It seemed to him (Mr. Cameron) that the Government must have done something to prevent Prof. McCandless, or thought that there was something in the charges against the colleague of the hon. Premier, or they would not have sent him away with $1,500. If Prof. McCandless had been making charges which were unfounded, and had been insulting the Commissioner of Public Works, instead of getting that sum he should have been dismissed immediately without a cent. He (Mr. Cameron) concluded by moving his resolution but, at the suggestion of Mr. Crooks, amended it by striking out the word "whores" so as to make it accord with a rule of the house.

Mr. McKellar said they had now had the learned Professor's version of the Agricultural Farm. It was just what he had expected, and he must confess that he was not at all disappointed but rather pleased that he had adopted this course, because he had now broken the seal of secrecy and the Government were at liberty to make their defence. When it would be for the public to say whether the fault rested with the Government or the Professor. He should endeavour briefly to give a detailed statement in answer to many of these accusations which had been made against the Government. He had before him a memorandum dated the 31st March, drawn up between Mr. Stone and the Government in reference to the purchase of his farm. Under that agreement Mr. Stone was to have possession of the farm with the exception of the new building and about three or four acres of land which surrounded it until the 31st December, 1875. His (Mr. McKellar's) object in obtaining possession of the house and land around it was to enable the Government to make such alterations in the building during the summer as would enable them to open the college early in the fall. In the month of April he wrote to Mr. Henning of St. Catharines. His brother had frequently called upon him begging him to give him some position on the farm. He knew it was desirable, having a valuable house there unoccupied, that someone should be there to take care of it, and he thought Mr. Henning might do something in the way of cultivating the garden to keep him occupied during the summer. He went to Guelph early in May or late in April, but to his (Mr. McKellar's) astonishment he learned that Mr. Stone refused absolutely to give up possession of the house, notwithstanding the agreement, until he got his money. The money was ready for him whenever he perfected his title. It was for the Attorney-General to say when that title was completed, and he (Mr. McKellar) would then pay the money. Mr. Henning was there and the Government were hoping from week to week that Mr. Stone would give up possession, but they did not get possession until the month of September. In the month of July or as early after as possible they advertised for tenders for making the necessary alterations in the building. He was anxious to employ Mr. Henning in something that he could do which would be an equivalent for any money they might pay him. Mr. Henning told him he was a carpenter and he (Mr. McKellar) employed him as clerk of works for, he thought nearly two months. At the close of December 1873, he found Mr. Henning was not suited to any position to which he could appoint him on the farm; he therefore discharged him and he went back to St. Catharines. Then as to the matron, she had been in the Blind Institute at Brantford, and was uncomfortable there with the Principal. She had been promised this position about a year before it was opened. She left on the 1st of July at the suggestion of Mr. Langmuir, and went to Guelph to prepare some linen and other things which were required for the institution. She was there, he thought, until January, when she resigned and left the institution, so that none of these officers stood in the way of the Professor, who came in the month of August, and could not get into the house, and boarded in the town of Guelph until the Government could get possession of the building. When they had got possession of the building he was there merely as an occupant, looking on at the improvements as they were progressing. So that, so far as the matron and John Henning were concerned, they could not have stood in the Professor's way because they were away months before he entered into his duties. One of the reasons of his hostility towards the matron was that when he came there he pleaded with him (Mr. McKellar) to have his sister appointed as matron. He, however, thought one of the family was quite enough, and he had since found that to be right.

Mr. Cameron.—That was without charge.

Mr. McKellar asked where the hon. gentleman had learned that there had been no such offer made that she should
