

WHITE TURKEY TO JOIN LEAGUE

Curzon Explains Decisions Made At Near East Conference.

QUIT CONSTANTINOPE

Sultan Will Be Allowed To Maintain Limited Military Force.

LONDON, March 30.—In a long statement explaining the decisions and plans of the Near East conference of foreign ministers in Paris, Marquis Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, said in the House of Lords today that the international straits commission would remain intact.

The foreign secretary added that all the great powers, including the United States, if she cared to join, would be represented on the commission, as well as Russia, if she fulfilled the required conditions.

He said it was also anticipated to invite Turkey to join the League of Nations when peace between Turkey and Greece had been reached. He announced that the conditions arranged at Paris for the evacuation of Anatolia by Greece could be published as soon as the committee had been accepted by both sides.

Lord Curzon said Constantinople could be evacuated as soon as possible after peace had been concluded, and that the sultan would be allowed to maintain a limited force there sufficient for a seat on the government. He said it was considered unjust and impracticable to ask Greece to evacuate the whole of Eastern Thrace in addition to Anatolia. Moreover, if the Greeks were asked to retire from the straits, they would be confronted with direct refusal. And, he added, he was unaware of any force in existence which would successfully expel them.

PROTZKY TALKS OF NEW COMMUNIST WAR TERROR

Hints at Possible Retaliation If European Bourgeoisie Finance Wrangle.

MOSCOW, March 30.—War Minister Protzky, just returned from a trip to the southwest front, the region opposite where General Wrangel and other "white" leaders are reported to be concentrating forces, addressed the Communist Congress today, saying:

"If the Soviets are to be attacked by the whole European bourgeoisie, the Soviets will reintroduce a war of communism, which would be more merciless than during the civil war in Russia."

Referring to internal politics, the war minister declared: "If our enemies saw the conclusions that admitting the speculator into Russia means we must call to power the speculators' policy, then, in our eyes, they are making a mistake. We can admit the speculators into our economy, but we cannot admit the speculator into our politics, reserving for ourselves the right to reconstruct our whole apparatus of self-defence, war communism and terror, in the event that the speculator with his foreign friends would want to strike us a military blow."

At the end of his speech, he said: "We are prepared to grant concessions for the construction of new railways," he said, "but for general reconstruction the existing lines of credit are the only acceptable forms. We have also prepared plans to grant lumber, mining and agricultural concessions in Siberia. In the Northern Caucasus and in Northern and Southeastern Russia."

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

though he has been only in Canada a short time, it is understood that he has given the impression of being a real democrat. This is a result of his being a soldier, or at least his war service and the breaking down of barriers in the war has affected this foremost military man. It is thought that he cannot rather he does not insist on minute conventionalities.

The story is told that a certain member who has been a member for more than one term, and who comes from one of the Maritimes, paid a visit to government house recently. There is nothing in that, but by coincidence, the gentleman from the Maritimes is a bit of a "fusser." After due preparations, in which he stressed, to the best of his power, fastidiousness, correct morning attire, the said gentleman member arrived at government house.

He met Gen. Byng and the two sat down for a general conversation. Prior to this, however, to engaging in some topic the governor-general very, very, much to the astonishment of the private member, asked him if he had the forethought to bring along with him his pipe. While he was asking the question, to complete the amazement of his visitor, General Byng proceeded to produce and light his own favorite briar.

While the Progressive may clamor for the house to get down to business when the two old parties are passing bouquets back and forth, it is much more interesting and far less dull to hear a heated debate over principle than over figures. No man can be rational if he intersperses his remarks with arithmetical problems, which he solves, by mathematical symphonies, for the benefit of his hearers. It is that the house gets very dull when the estimates are being considered.

Wednesday was a dull day. After the resolution of W. D. Eider concerning the elections act was adopted, the house turned to the estimates of the Hon. James Murdoch, for the civil government of his department and a large number of the members desired their seats, with the exception of the Progressive members, and a majority of the opposition.

The only place on the ministers' such as the minister of Labor when their estimates for the civil government of the departments of which they are the head are being passed, is tremendous. A minister who has only been in office some three months such as the minister of Labor, is required to know for the information of whomsoever asks all the details of his department. Within the short time that such a minister has been the incumbent of his office, it is impossible for him to have mastered the details. As a consequence the different ministers have been required to fortify themselves with many documents, manuscripts, and volumes when the time arrives for their estimates to be submitted. It is their privilege also to have their secretaries and assistants on the floor of the house when undergoing the questioning of the opposition, who do not hesitate to inquire of the most remote and minute detail whenever the opportunity presents itself.

However, the present administration has been known as a hardworking government and in the small space given to them to gain a knowledge of their departments have completely mastered the details thereof.

Three days a week at the present time are private members' days. That is, precedence is given to all private members' bills and resolutions. The other two days are government days when the ministry, prime minister and members of the cabinet, introduce government bills, resolutions, etc. With the private members' days in the present session, the estimates are considerably delayed, the expedition with which they are proceeding of course, one of the main interests of the government when in power is the private bills, and other business has so far emanated from the government side, there is little doubt that this business of voting the money for the civil government of the country will be sidetracked during the next few days. The Progressive members also hold their private bills, etc., in abeyance to the government order of the day.

It was expected that if the notice of motion of the Hon. Charles Macphail, Bonaventure, was brought up today, considerable discussion would have been caused, but the matter was allowed to stand. The notice of motion concerns the transfer of fisheries rights to the Province of Quebec. The prediction that there would be discussion of this order-in-council to which the matter has reference, was justified by the inquiry of the leader of the opposition on the matter, although he said that there would not be any discussion when the inquiry was made. It may be beyond the reach of the leader to control the discussion. That there will be a certain amount of disturbance over the matter, however, is generally conceded.

Does Miss MacPhail believe that the burden of upholding the political aspirations of the women of Canada rests upon her? So it would seem from the remarks she made in the debate on the resolution of W. D. Eider today. Her remarks could not be said to be pertinent to the particular matter in hand, rather, it was implied by her that the women of Canada were speaking through Miss MacPhail.

Does the first woman in parliament represent a new party, or does she merely belong to one of the main parties, yet being a woman, speak for the womanhood of the land?

The senate expected to meet tonight to pass the interim bill of supply which they thought the Commons would have all ready for them, it is said. They were going to work real hard. In addition to passing the interim bill they were going to pass a large number of divorce bills and then completely fatigued with this stupendous accomplishment take a three weeks adjournment vacation.

So much for their hopes. The Commons have not the interim bill by any means ready for them yet, so they will have to sit for the remainder of this week at least, not to mention the fact that they will not adjourn for three weeks at their next. It was a cruel disappointment.

Within the memory of the oldest members, and observers of politics, never before was there attained such an overwhelming majority by any government on a vote of confidence such as that obtained by the Liberal party yesterday.

It is also said that no opposition ever brought on a vote of confidence at such short notice, or so soon after an election nor yet so early in a session as that brought on by the opposition now under the directorship of the Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Considerable interest is being shown by the Progressives in the freight rates inquiry before the railway commission now in session. The stand at present taken by the followers of Mr. Crear will stand out against the extension of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, whereby the C. P. R. would benefit. The decision of the freight board will have a far-reaching effect on the political situation, it is understood.

The number of delegations to the new government continues large, but at present shows a sign of falling off. If the representations made by the delegations so far have been indicative of the public feeling, then the new administration should be able to consider all points of view in its proposed legislation, though it may be in a quandary to suit many of the different points of view, and the sectional parts of the country.

The frank answer to the delegation asking a federal law on prohibition shows that the government is not prepared to be anywhere equivocal in these matters. And the answer given to that delegation is a direct refutation to the charge of the opposition that the present administration was prepared to make any promises whatsoever so long as it won the favor of the askers.

As time in the session wears on, the question of the tariff looms somewhat larger, but up to date no tangible manifestations of what the government proposes to do have been exhibited by the administration, other than the verification or practical verification, of the prediction made two weeks ago in The Advertiser, that the reductions in tariff would be in boots and shoes, mining machinery and farm implements.

TORONTO PLANT DESTROYED.
Toronto, March 30.—A short circuit caused by a wire falling through in the storm caused a fire which destroyed the plant of the Nitro Products Company in Mount Dennis, one of Toronto's suburbs.

This is the third consecutive March that this company has suffered by fire. The loss in tonight's blaze is $75,000. The city council will be asked to pro-

BRANTFORD PLANS CLEAN-UP WEEK

Chamber of Commerce Decides On April 14, As Date of Commencement.

BOY SCOUTS TO ASSIST

Program For Civic Beautification Includes Back Yard, Fire Prevention and Paint Days.

Brantford, March 30.—The date of Brantford's "Clean-Up Week," when back alleys and back yards laden with the debris of a winter's accumulation are to be cleaned and cellars and attics are to lose some of their dinginess, was fixed at a meeting held in the chamber of commerce today.

"Housecleaning week" commences on April 14, and if plans materialize as it is hoped, at the end of this six days the city's physical attractiveness will be greatly enhanced. At least, this is the idea behind the chamber of commerce's campaign, the success of which depends largely on the individual citizens and upon the school boys and girls and boy scouts.

Ald. A. A. Lister, chairman of the Brantford Board of Health, is head of the "clean-up" campaign committee, being selected last night. Others present included William H. Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce; William E. Foster, sanitary inspector; W. E. Fosberry, of the board of education; School Inspector E. C. Kilmer; J. M. Shults, of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and Harry Fleming, assistant scout commissioner.

The city council will be asked to pro-

AVIATORS REACH CANARY ISLANDS

Lisbon, March 30.—Captains Scudadura and Coutinho, the Portuguese naval aviators, who started from Lisbon this morning in an attempted flight to Pernambuco, Brazil, arrived safely at the end of the first stage of their journey, Las Palmas, in the Canary Islands, at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The hydro-airplane which the aviators are using made the first stage of the flight at the rate of approximately 50 miles an hour.

Niagara Falls Policeman Rescues Man On Rock 200 Feet from Cataract's Brink

Niagara Falls, N. Y., March 30.—Jeffrey Wilson, of Rochester, N.Y., was rescued from a rock in the Niagara River less than 200 feet from the brink of the American Falls.

Shortly after 5 o'clock tonight employees at a trolley terminal station near the falls, heard cries for help.

They investigated and saw a form clinging to a rock near the middle of the American upper rapids and about 200 feet below the Goat Island bridge. While the firemen were working from the bridge, patrolman Charles Smith waded out into the rapids. Fastened about him was a rope which was held on the bank by Patrol Driver Charles Radford.

About 100 feet from shore Smith was caught in the current and swept from his feet. After a struggle he regained his footing and worked his way to a rock a few feet from that to which Wilson was clinging. Smith could be seen from the shore urging Wilson to jump to his arms. After a few minutes Wilson made the leap and the policeman caught him. The trip back to shore was a slow struggle against the swift current.

Wilson said that he had slipped into the water and denied that he had attempted suicide. Rivermen say he owes his life to the fact that the ice formations at the brink of the falls have temporarily checked the current.

REPEL ATTACK OF ESSEX BURGLARS
Detroit, March 30.—An alleged attempt by ten men to burglarize the home of Gordon Reume at Petite Cote, Ont., in which liquor was stored, was frustrated early today when Reume and his brother Albert engaged in a revolver battle with the band.

Awakened by the men as they were alleged to be attempting to break into his cellar, Reume fired upon the group, members of which are said to have returned the fire. Nine of the men escaped, while the other, who gave the name of Thomas Faberian, of Detroit, and who entered the cellar, was seized. Faberian sustained an injury to his head during the fighting. He was the only one injured.
