he Republicans, which was made on the Hetel de Villa. At noon of the 22nd about 200 villanous looking Reds, including large numhers of soldiers of the 101st battallion of National Guards, marched in a bedy to a place in front of the Hetel de Villa, uttering revolutionary cries and calling upon citizens to arm. Never during the present trouble has s crowd been seen to bring so vividly to mind the horrors of the old French revolution as They occupied the place over an hour this. without any opposition, shouting and yelling. In the meantime a small guard of Mobiles and Bretons were drawn up in front of the Hotel de Ville, who stood their ground, avoiding any collision with the meb antil 1 o'clock, when the Adjutant in command advanced in front of his men on account of the threatening demonstration by the crowd, and was fired upen and fell severely wounded. The Mobiles then fired on the crowd, creating terrible havoc. A number of persons, who were loekers on, encouraged by the length of time which had elapsed without violence, drew in front of the Hotel, and received shots from Mobiles. As the crowd flew, fif y of their number fell to the ground, and it was afterwards ascertained that five were killed and eighteen wounded. At the same moment that the Mobiles fired, a number of muskets were discharged from the windows of the houses on each side of the street, which were occupied by the rioters. Three or four Mobiles fell from the fire, which was badly directed. Old casements above the statue of Henry Quatre were completely riddled with bullets. After several rounds were fired, the Mobiles withdrew faom the building, and a large force of National Guards came up with Gen Vinoy at their head; and as they appeared the rioters left the houses and flew, the Mobiles allowing them to escape without molestation. LONDON, Jan 27—A dispatch from Brussels says the Germans are before Manbeige, and its bombardment is expected. The citizens are preparing to defend the place.

The Prussians are concentrating at St Quintin, and have reappeared before Cambrai, and have occupied Marquie. A body of sharpshooters surprised a body of Uhlans and have captured a godson of ihe mpress Augusta. They have refused to exchange him ferFrench prisoners. He was placd in the hospital at Cambria previous to its hombardment. VERSAILLES, Jan 27-On Monday, the 23rd, a flag of truce left the French lines, and was met by the Germans. The bearer delivered a letter from Jules Favre addressed to Count Bismarck. It requested permission for Favre to come to Versailles. Bismarck replied that he might, and at 9 o'clock the same night he arrived. The Prussian Premier applied to the Emperor for permissios to hold an interview Favre spent the night at the with him. quarters of the Lieut of Police. The next day council was held to consider the Terms Von Moltke and the Crown Prince were present, in addition to the Emperor, who presided. The council lasted two hours, and the result of their deliberations were communicated to Favre who returned to Paris at palf-past four the same evening. It is understood that Favre wanted the army in Paris to be allowed to march out with full honors, and take up their position in some unoccupied district in France under his management, and not resume bostilities for a term of months, to be agreed upon, and that there should be no trumphal entry into Paris by the Prussians. The terms were refused by the council which informed Favre that the only basis of surrender that would be accepted would be same as at Sedan and Metz.

Not more than three weeks' rations remain in Paris at the present time. The French at Versailles generally rejoice at the approaching peace. Bismarck's demands are : Two provinces a French colony, 20 war ships and 400.000., 0 30 francs as the final terms of peace. The capitulation will only be regarded as a militury act' apart from all political negotiations The following official dispatch was sent by the Minister of the North German Cenfederation at Washington to the North German Consul in this city and was received today: The forts of Paris are surrendered; an armistice for three weeks by land and sea is sgreed upon. The National Assembly is summoned at Bordeaux. At the end of the armistice Favre will resume the war with 900.000 men. Neufshatel and other points. BORDBAUX, Jan 30-A dispatch from Versailles, dated the 28th, says Jules Favre has signed the treaty to-day for an armistice of 21 days. The National Assembly is to be convened at Bordeaux on the 18th of February.

The members of the Paris Government have left for Bordeaux. VERSAILLES, Jan 20-The line has been drawn around Paris so that none can enter or leave without a passport under German supervision. Confidence is felt at headquarters that peace is certain. The soldiers are chagrined that they are not to enter Paris. NEW YORK, Jan 31-The Herald's special from Versailles, dated the 26th, says: As the facts concerning the negotiations develope, a better feeleng is evident among both French and Germans, and all begin to agree in hoping for a termination of the war. The French are especially well please 1 at the apparant modification of the German desire to humiliate Paris by a temporary entry. The negotiations between Favre and Bismarck are The most interesting. The arrival of Favre was known to no one except those immediately concerned in conducting him through the Prussian lines. On his arrival he was immediately admitted into the presence of the Chan-cellor. Bismarck asked the object of his visit. LONDON, Jan 27-A strong infinence is at Favre much affected, replied, To put a $6 75@7 work favoring the restoration of the Imperial family under the regency of the Empress, that all hope for relief from without is lost. Paris must seek peace. All we as ask is such considerations as a generous enemy might give without less of advantage or honor. Bismarck expressed desire to do all in his power to snow his repect for the suffering and gallantry of the French nation consistent with the safety, henor and interest of united Germany. This had been from the first to the last the object and desire of the Emperor and his advisers. Favre first demanded the terms already reported. Bismarck replied :--It is not my province to refuse or accept terms, but I must say that the terms are such that I cannot myself approve of, and I feel confident that my august master will reject them. However, it is my duty to submit them for his consideration. Favre was politely placed under sur-veillance. The first overtures were promptly rejected. After Favre's return, and the acceptance in substance of the terms demanded by the Emperor, great excitement prevailed at Versailles. An interview again took place
