

Agri-mix Trainee: This type of exchange is designed for applicants who have limited knowledge or practical experience in agriculture and good overall knowledge of household management. Time is evenly divided between the two areas.

Horticulture Trainee: Applicants should have good general knowledge and practical experience in horticulture and be prepared to participate in all general horticultural operations.

IRE matches qualifications and interests with a suitable farm or horticulture operation and gives participants an orientation seminar on arrival in the host country. IRE also provides supervision at the training facility. A monthly allowance is paid, as well as room and board.

IRE is a non-profit organization based on volunteer work around the world. Because all travel arrangements are made on a group basis, participant costs are kept to a minimum.
