Edited by LAURA E. McCULLY, B.A.

In Athletics

With the regular regatta of the I.A.A. coming next Saturday, many interested young women are preparing to compete, along with their sturdier but not more skilful brethren. The Toronto World has in its employ one young woman whose skill in canoeing and sailing has rendered her prominent among the islanders and we will watch her participation in the contest with doubled interest.

Toronto boasts, moreover, a tennis girl player, who may make Miss Sutton look to her international laurels in the coming contest at Niagara. Every one who cares for sport in its cleanest sense will watch this game of tennis with great interest. Women's sports are always clean and wholesome.

Victoria College has been noted for some time for the splendid proficiency of its women's hockey team, as has also Trinity College. In the coming winter it is to be hoped that University College shall be able to supply a team at least able to hold its own with the others. Girl athletics suffer from the lack of a proper gymnasium at Varsity. However, good work was done last year by some old Harbor girls on the team, and this year promises better things.

By no means can too great stress be laid on the athletic side of the education of the modern woman. If women only understood it properly, athletics are the solution of the problem of twentieth century nerves in all their intricate and dubious forms. No woman athlete is ever hysterical.

The day will come in all probability when we shall again have the type of Diana as well as Fortia, and shall see the emancipation of women, not only from outside oppression, but from the enemy within the gates. Health, so long encouraged by unsanitary clothing and lack of suitable exercise.

As the Twig is Bent.

As autumn days draw nearer and nearer, and preparations are being made in nearly every household for the return to school of some one of its members, a few nearly-adjacent topics seem to demand attention.

How many parents, if suddenly arrested in their daily avocations with the peremptory query: "What are you going to do with your child?" could answer it immediately and in a manner showing that the subject had received the most careful attention?

There are two kinds of life to be prepared for—one is the idle life of the rich man's heir, the other is the necessarily busy one of the middle class or poor man's child. In the former case it is absolutely essential that boys and girls alike should have some really absorbing art or profession to fall back on when innocent amusement fails. Otherwise they invariably seek vice.

Without the solace of music, the unending fascination of art or the strong moral influence which a wide and deep study of literature never fails to exert, the rich man's hours of idleness are a menace to himself and to the community at large.

Many parents make the mistake of thinking that a good general course of instruction like that provided at the secondary schools will have the effect of culture, even the poured into heedless ears. This is a mistake, productive of the very worst results. There is but one way to gain and use the full power of knowledge over the person to be enlightened. That is to discover where the desires of the child are, and to turn and turned into the intended channel. No matter what the pursuit which can attract the mind of your boy or girl, if it be destined to cultivate the tendency. Anything is better than vicious idleness, and one great point must be held in mind, namely, that this is the age of specialization. No matter how unnecessary the profession be from a pecuniary standpoint, let the boy or girl be a specialist. Otherwise he or she will use interest in the favorite pursuit as soon as it is found that what was regarded as special knowledge and particular excellence is only amateurish in comparison with the work of the professional.

The education of the boy or girl who must be self-supporting is quite a different consideration. Necessity enters here. Usually the high school training represents the only attainable standard of culture, and the rest must be purely utilitarian. One word of warning to parents who are sending their children to the various colleges and private colleges this fall. Unless your sole object in training your child is culture, be careful not to allow him or her to take too many diverse subjects at the same time. For instance, it seems to be a fact, not generally comprehended, that subjects can be taken either for a matriculation course or teaching certificate which, should the student decide afterwards to go to the university, will not enable him, no matter how high his standard of marks has been, to enter into an honor course, so that the pupil who has not planned his course ahead finds himself in the position of forgoing a specialist's degree, or of taking up a language perfectly new. An examination of the calendar of any university will correct this error. French and Latin may be grouped together in an option of junior level work, but never in a specialist's course at the university. Either let the boy or girl take up science, modern languages, classical languages, or mathematics, with the distinct understanding that pass subjects prescribed outside of these courses are pass subjects only, probably to be abandoned altogether at the university.

In this age of specialization none of us, however independent, can afford to be idle. Too many great things are being done by our next door neighbor.

To woman the call to arms is more urgent than ever, and means even more than formerly. She is not only seen in the community at large. Be a specialist, not to the exclusion of culture, far from it, but to the making of a useful life. Choose a career as early as you can. Choose anything, and never abandon it for the seeming prizes in other lines of course, of taking up includes admirable Crichtons and folks who can do anything well. Don't even think about it. Ten chances to one you are not a genius, it is said, is simply a fact. That is no reason why one cannot excel. Genius, it is said, is simply a fact. That is no reason why one cannot excel. Genius, it is said, is simply a fact. That is no reason why one cannot excel.

World Pattern Department

Ladies' Thirteen-Gored Plaited Skirt. Paris Pattern No. 2036. All Seams Allowed.

One of the smartest models of a thirteen-gored skirt is here represented. For a separate skirt, it should be made of Panama, serge or mohair, but it could be properly used to shirt-waist to form a suit in any of the autumn woolen materials.

The pattern is in six sizes—22 to 32 inches wide, or 1-2 yards 42 inches wide, or 1-3 yards 54 inches wide, or 1-4 yards 66 inches wide, or 1-5 yards 78 inches wide, or 1-6 yards 90 inches wide, or
