

ROMANCE, THRILL IN "BOBBED HAIR"

Palace Theatre Presents Marie
Prevost in Mystery, Comedy and Melodrama

Romance, adventure and thrill, are in "Bobbed Hair," Warner Bros. production which opened yesterday at the Palace Theatre.

Marie Prevost plays Constance Moore, the charmingly willful heroine of this story. She has every opportunity for dramatic as well as comic scenes in this picture, and gives one of her finest performances.

Reed Hovess and John Roche play Bingham Carrington and Saltonstall Adams, Constance's suitors. Bing, claiming that she has her hair cut off, runs away with David Lacy (Kenneth Harlan) and becomes involved in a series of amusing but decidedly dramatic adventures.

It is a thoroughly entertaining picture, excellently directed. In addition to being perfectly cast, it is perfectly acted by a cast which includes, besides those previously mentioned, Louise Fazenda, Francis J. McDonald, Pat Hartigan, Emily Fitzroy, Tom Ricketts, Walter Long, Otto Hoffman, Kate Tonawany and "Pal," the dog.

Ernest Torrence Also Has Big Role in Movie Tale at Unique

Produced on an elaborate scale with a cast of recognized stars, the Allan Dwan-Paramount production, "Night Life of New York," which opened at the Unique Theatre yesterday, is just a colorful and entertaining metropolitan story.

Featured in the leading roles are Rod La Rocque, Dorothy Gish, Ernest Torrence and George Hackathorne.

The picture brings Torrence to the screen in the role of an unusually successful westerner who is dead set against New York City because of a Jack Hoxie is starring in "The Six Shootin' Romance," Universal-Blue Streak Western now being screened at the Gaiety theatre. Hoxie's father was a rancher first in Oklahoma, in which state his famous son was born, and then in Wyoming and Idaho. On these various ranches several thousand head of horses and cattle roamed the ranges and it was only to be expected that Jack should graduate almost at once from the cradle to the saddle.

Every once in while a picture comes to town at which the inveterate moviegoer has a grand time. Such a film is Raoul Walsh's production, "The Lucky Lady," which opened at the Queen Square Theatre last night for two days.

The story is amusing and the company which enacts it, stands far above the average. Greta Nissen is excellent as Princess Antoinette, who falls in love with a young American and then has a terrible time proving where her heart really lies.

Lionel Barrymore gives a distinguished performance as the dissolute duke, and then has a pantomime as has been seen on the screen in many guises, is the sequence in which Miss Nissen is cast as Princess Antoinette, who falls in love with a young American and then has a terrible time proving where her heart really lies.

The two other featured players, William Collier, Jr., and Marc MacDermont, each give the excellent performance for which they can always be counted on. Collier is the young American lover and MacDermont, the prime minister who is "promoting" Barrymore's marriage to the princess.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Reports of marital discord between Frieda Hempel, famous prima donna, and her husband, William B. Kahn, president of the W. B. Kahn Company, patent brokers of New York, were confirmed when Mr. Kahn made a statement admitting impending divorce, and in which he said:

"I deeply regret to say that it is true that my wife, Frieda Hempel, has gone to Paris and has there instituted an action to divorce me."

"It is merely a question of incompatibility; no other man or woman has ever come between us. We therefore retain for each other mutual respect and esteem."

"I do not know anything about a contemplated marriage between Mme. Hempel and August Hecksher, 78- year-old New York millionaire. When Mme. Hempel marries again or remains single, however, I shall always keep her in my memory as a woman of beauty, charm and grace, of beau- tiful voice and magnificent art."
