

On the first day, when a participant shows up, the experimenter will assign them to a group. The groups will be assigned to a treatment or control group. The treatment group will receive the intervention, and the control group will not. The experimenter will then observe the groups over time and record the outcomes. The results will be compared between the two groups to see if there is a significant difference.

22 50 PER ANNUM IN ADVANCE

No 18 SAINT ANDREWS NEW BRUNSWICK, MAY 6, 1874. Vol

Specialist bees but empty air.

That sightless eye!—it has haunted me long!

A fresher spot in my heart has warmed Florence—or Florry, for nobody ever dreamed of calling her any thing else—Florry Reed was Blackville, although, as before stated, an insignificant place, had a bracing mountain air which of this sort had been arranged for the morning and it, gone. But never, surely, had a pile in a goal for a drive taken such a w

So well I knew that the forehead pain
A quick pang hid in the golden veil

who should know on this subject.

The two had been lovers for quite a while.

and it will easily be perceived that Chantry's chances were not so good as he fondly imagined.

and it will easily be perceived that Chantry's chances were not so good as he fondly imagined.

I do not know—I shall never know—
What dire mishap or what sudden blow

But more lovely (or then the world have been

There is beauty lost, but feeling won.

Never drop the veil with that shudder of pain!
For a love that is blent with pity, may make

THE STANDARD.

THE MAY ALPINE is as fresh and beautiful as

...which, in this superb monthly seem to have reached the highest point of perfection, are beer with a full-page picture, "The Dying Hound," came from a much larger town, a town which ard contributes three large and spirited drawings of scenes in Florida, one of the most beautiful of the Black Islands naturally looked with admiration. "Yes, she was there," answered Fred, and looked to Simon for a moment. Then, glancing at the woman, he said, "I don't know who certainly had not thought she found that or any sort of thing. Go home in his company. The horror! inexorable—destroy your nation? Would you live in the forest?"

"And what he can go in her," exclaimed Julia.

over, showing the ruins of the old light house, a rove of palm trees, etc. The third picture is a
a) le; in a word, she was something new; and it brother-in-law and feminine, etc. are so ex
if the young lady, inwardly, feeling that it would be a loss for her only. For that, but to White oak is the best wood for butter to house rose is should be forward for start of sands. Two other handsome and interesting pictures are "A Retriever," after Deiker, country town where a whole bunch of hissing snakes hold each in their teeth, and "No. 100," by

"I am not a woman's mistake," said she, and did as bid.
"And serve him right," pronounced Lida with the shoud be troubled with no more threaning atations from him.

remain two days longer. The hot brine tal-est most of the worst taste. —

sw. exceedingly appropriate for spring time.

a group of those great trees upon the shores of at famous lake. The New Capitol at Hartford, turning back to her parasol, looked around her

with much the air with which a traveller, stranded in a strange land, looks about him, for nothing to say against I'm sure," was all she could say in answer to the perception.

was a wonderful unity which had opened his
to the perception. And with all this highlands in strong easterly winds, and w no a consequence of the

...the last illustration in this number is an excellent country. The literary contents of the May "X" issue were:

and a number in called Billy Round Tower girl who could actually blush for being looked at (the West, Kate Tatum O'good tells the Charley did not blush, though. On the con- worried her into tears and confession. Then she June with occasion to quote a v.ry unflater padeel, half in triumph, half in pity, ing did prove on his h-h-h-h. And the over him

...a very interesting account of "A young boy, not early spoiled, and if the story is true, a criminal and, I am sure, a clever one."

...the manner in which she received his letter and set some stitches rather blindly.

Earthly Love;" and Frenno Douglas tells the dramatic story of "Duke." The editorial articles Depend upon it, Florry resumed Julia, "I would not have any thing to tell to say. I wonder what you are here for now!"

...the night, the women, the festive at an end, they drove back
"The West." James Sutton & Co. had been through the evening together, could this be the
...the night, the women, the festive at an end, they drove back
...the night, the women, the festive at an end, they drove back

An ambitious young lady was talking very fully about her Greek translation, which she had made from the original, and how it would come again, just once, just to see what he had said as they went, and especially the whole minute difference it makes to us—and I

the career little about what she ate, cum d with knowledge.

aman to a Kentuckian who had just, bro-
on to the ground with his rifle from a large

... but I have an engagement, so I hope you will threatened with a negro police.

04

_____