Miramichi Advance.

Beginning with the issue of November 6th, 1892, when the ADVANCE entered upon its Nineteenth Year of Publication!

The publisher continued the change in the terms on which the paper is furnished to subscribers. These include

- 1st. Strict adherence to the system of cash in advance for all subscriptions.
2nd. The reduction of the price of the paper to

One Dollar a Year!

It is to be particularly understood that all outstanding subscription accounts due after November 10th, 1892, are to be settled on the old terms, viz. $2 per year, the advertised credit rate.

I have made the foregoing changes in the business of the ADVANCE for two reasons. The first is because many patrons who have given credit, have abused the privilege to such an extent as to make the business of publishing the paper a non-paying one, and it is necessary, in my own interest and that of those who do pay, that I should no longer continue to furnish the ADVANCE to those non-paying subscribers.

The second reason is that I wish to meet the competition of the city weeklies, which are made up from the type of the dailies and, therefore, cost little for production in comparison with a local paper like the ADVANCE, the type of which must be set up especially for it.

Having now published the ADVANCE for nearly 19 years, and endeavored to make it a creditable representative of Miramichi and North Shore enterprise—a paper which may be taken into any household without fear that it has catered to sensationalism at the sacrifice of that cleanliness of matter, which is too often neglected by the press of the day—I have reason to hope the foregoing announcement will meet with general approval and be the means of largely increasing the circulation and influence of the paper.

MIRAMICHI ADVANCE, CHATHAM, NEW BRUNSWICK, APRIL 27, 1893.

to a merry Christmas, Mr. Wynne, and a happy New Year.

The increase in itself was not magnificent, but it was an earnest of future things, and the kind words which went with it warmed the young fellow's heart.

As the time approached for the payment of the bill Harry discovered that he could by no means hope to pay it, and he had to make his money fairly easy count of other means of youth, under the belief that the holder would not turn up, and he had to learn to do so.

But when the day of settling approached, and Harry Wynne met Mr. White by appointment he encountered an unexpected blow in the first sentence that was spoken.

"What a splendid fellow you are! You've merrily made a man of yourself, and you've merrily made a man of yourself, and you've merrily made a man of yourself."

"For heaven's sake," said the plaintive White, "don't tell me that, for I can't do it. I've got nine hundred to find to-morrow, and I don't know more than the moon where to look for the other fifty."

"I thought you'd be winning all over the shop," young Wynne answered, feebly. "I haven't been about the club much lately, but I have met most of the fellows. I've heard of nothing but your luck."

"You haven't heard much of my luck," piped White, "for this last three weeks, my boy, and that's all about it. I've got to pay Hoskins of Cork Street nine hundred to-morrow, and I don't know more than the moon where to look for the other fifty."

"I'm a horribly sorry to hear it, old fellow," said Wynne.

"What can he do?" asked White.

"Don't say that," cried White, "but I can't do it. I've got nine hundred to find to-morrow, and I don't know more than the moon where to look for the other fifty."
