TWO PIECE or OUTING SUIT

READY TAILORED

No article of Men's Wear has shown a more decided improvement than the two-piece so-called Outing Suit.

Our Outing Suits are perfectly correct for business wear as well. They are made from a variety of light wool fabrics chiefly in Greys and Browns. The coats are partly lined and the trousers cut moderately full from the hip down and are finished at the bottom either with or without a two inch turn up.

The prices are $8 and $10 to $15. Those at $8 and $10 were $12 and $15 and were reduced because some of the sizes are sold out.

Outing Trousers, $2.50 to $4.50; White Duck Trousers, $1.25 for $1.50 quality.

Summer Vests—$1.50 and under in price, now $1.00; all others at 25 per cent. discount.

INFLUENCE OF GENERAL BOTHA IN TRANSVAAL

(London Daily Mail.)

On Monday, June 15, the sittings of the Transvaal Parliament were resumed at Pretoria.

Despite the view held in some quarters that owing to the effort to secure the federation of the British South African Colonies the local parliament will only be called upon to perform essential duties, yet it is expected the session will be one of exceptional interest. According to the signs of the times it will be marked by a more vigorous attitude on the part of the Opposition.

During the eighteen months in which the Boer Ministry have conducted the Progressive leaders have been content to act upon the defensive. They have not forgotten the fact that in the Transvaal the Boers are the majority, and that the British population, "defended my works," but they have not acted up to the claim that the first duty of an Opposition is to oppose.

FAIR PLAY.

The peculiar conditions which prevail in the Transvaal justified the policy. An exhibition of factious opposition and obstruction to the triumphant Dutch would have driven many of the moderate Britishers into the ranks of the Boers or the Nationalists. English ideas of fair play demanded that the new rulers should be given time in which to transform promises into deeds. Instant political warfare, and the inevitable stigmata of a government that is not allowed to develop, would have been to the detriment of the growth of ordinary political ideas.

On the whole, therefore, Sir George Farrar's policy in the Transvaal Parliament was the policy of giving the Government enough political rope with which to commit political suicide. The scheme came within an ace of success.

STRENGTH OF BOTHA.

Exactly what the back-veld expected from the Ministry it is impossible to say—probably in its most optimistic moments it had anticipated the possibility of a revolution for half the population and Land Bank loans for the other half. Not securing these things, it became discontented. Even finger-fence protection was denied it. The consequence was that the back-veld brooded over its grievances, and at length arrived at the conclusion that the Boers are not to be trusted.

Then, again, particular sections have been irritated. The Temperance party fear a revival of the beer for Natives. The police dislike the new conditions of the service and a large body of the public sympathize with them. The Civil Servants are uneasy and entertain vague fears of further retributions.

BOER CAUSE WEAKENING.

But the Boer Ministry is weakening. No government is so popular as the day it is put into power, and no exception to the rule. Perhaps the Transvaal made its old mistake of expecting too much of the Boers. It was unduly optimistic in expecting that political change would get rid of depression. Naturally, there is now reaction. Then, again, particular sections have been irritated. The Temperance party fear a revival of the beer for Natives. The police dislike the new conditions of the service and a large body of the public sympathize with them. The Civil Servants are uneasy and entertain vague fears of further retributions.

WHITE LABOR IDEAL.

A few serious mistakes, a few prejudiced and racial prejudices, and the old cry of Krugerism would spring up. It would not take much to make Pretoria a hotbed of feeling as it was the days of the retrocession more than two decades ago. Even if the Ministry were to favor the Boers, which it may be said again, is not proved—they would find it a very dangerous policy to carry out. It is probable, then, that the new session will witness the beginning of the revival of Progressivism as a political force. If the Opposition could only adopt a good white labor policy it would strengthen their position.

BOERS SLIPPING AWAY.

But, despite this error, the Opposition, race of racial prejudice, and the old cry of Krugerism would spring up. It would not take much to make Pretoria a hotbed of feeling as it was the days of the retrocession more than two decades ago. Even if the Ministry were to favor the Boers, which it may be said again, is not proved—they would find it a very dangerous policy to carry out. It is probable, then, that the new session will witness the beginning of the revival of Progressivism as a political force. If the Opposition could only adopt a good white labor policy it would strengthen their position.

INSPIRES TRUST.

"I don't think we had better discuss."

There are tremendous and very windy discussions going on all around us concerning the methods and ends of education. Educators do not agree upon many of the foundation principles—what one would think might have been settled a century or more ago.

But, after all, won, in the sense in which we now use the term, is a new thing. Besides, conditions are packing people into cities a different sort of education must be given them than that which was given in the country districts years ago.

These and a dozen other considerations are urged by the debaters on both sides.

And they are, in a way, right—yet the fact remains that the main object of education is to help a man to lead an upright and independent life and to give him the power to do so.

And it is a great drawback to the popularity of the trades that many of us despise in our hearts them and those who practice them. If we will only reform ourselves in this respect,

TWENTIETH CENTURY EDUCATION

who insist that reading, writing and arithmetic are of no account at all beside the acquisition of some trade by which an individual, man or woman, can earn a living. For it is the capacity to earn an honest living which is the first essential to good citizenship.

TRADES DESPISED.

You may say that all men want to learn to earn a living by their hands. Instead of their hands it is considered easier—and one can wear cleaner clothes and keep his hands nicer. Therefore, reading, writing and arithmetic are more popular than the trades. It is a great drawback to the popularity of the trades that many of us despise in our hearts them and those who practice them. If we will only reform ourselves in this respect, we shall find our children rushing into the trade schools in shoals.

And it does not take all of a child's time to master a trade in one, two, three years. He can be learning the elementary branches at the same time. But, if he has to leave school for good at 14 or 15, as most boys do have to, he will, if he has studied a trade, have an outfit for earning his living—and it cannot be too often said, or too emphatically, that the boy or girl who can earn an honest living by fairly skilled labor has the first essential to good citizenship.

Living does not mean simply breathing. To truly live, one must be well fed, well sheltered, well clothed. The man who is dependent upon others for his food, his shelter or his clothing, is only a parasite, not a man. He must have the power to get these things for himself, and then does not practice it, he should be deported or jailed or chloroformed or anything worse.

HOW TO LIVE.

If he simply knows how to feed, shelter and clothe himself, he can do the same for others, and thus he will already possess the foundation for a trade by which he can earn a living. But we have no right to find much fault with our young people for not knowing how to do these things, when we have educated them ourselves, and yet have not taught them the vital importance of such things. We have shown them how to do it.

Then there is another queer notion which we have somehow formed. We have learned to take it for granted that the arts of feeding, sheltering and clothing need to be understood only by one sex. Men are to provide the money, and then the women are to cook, keep the house clean and in order, and make and mend the clothes.

But, all the same, these primitive, elementary sciences should be known by both sexes. Men and women should not know how to prepare plain, common food for yourself, nor how to keep a house decently clean and orderly, nor how to do simple, plain sewing, enough to cover yourself from the cold, nor how to mend a piece of clothing, really fitted to live. In fact, you do not know how to live.

All mothers have observed how intelligent little boys are in knitting and sewing—until they get out into the world, where they are told that the horrible, barbarous work of doing these things is only for the women. But, if the mothers are not to teach their sons, then the boys are practicing almost any domestic virtue. But, if the mothers are not to teach their sons, then the boys are practicing almost any domestic virtue.

GROUND PRINCIPLES.

There is no sense in the helplessness of most men before a missing button or a sudden rent. It is all well enough for them to be ignorant, but men are often placed so that they must be able to mend their own clothes or go without. Then the garment—perfectly good, perhaps, except for a few missing buttons—is wasted in the way in the course of a year is enormous.

Then simple, plain cooking is the easiest thing in the world and every boy and girl should be taught to cook. To boil or bake a potato, to prepare eggs in various ways—to mix bread or biscuits, to roll chops or steaks—these are things which should be taught to all children. It is not only a good thing to know, but it is a good thing to know how to do it.

WISCONSIN HOTEL MAN CRITICISED

TORONTO, July 5.—There was a good deal of comment at Winnipeg over the action of the C. P. R. Hotel Royal Alexandra management in decorating the hotel profusely with the United States flags on the fourth of July and not decorating at all on Dominion Day. The manager said he was an American and was after American dollars. The United States manufacturer at Winnipeg, also refused their employees a holiday on the first and shut down for the fourth.

BISHOP POTTER BETTER

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., July 5.—With such succeeding hour hope brightens for the recovery of Bishop Potter, who is seriously ill from a complication of stomach and liver troubles. His physicians tonight believe that his improved condition warrants a decided hope for a favorable outcome of the case. While the bishop's improvement is slow, it is apparently constant, and with returning strength it is believed the patient has a good chance of combating his malady.

The bishop made gains last night and showed further improvement today.

AMUSEMENTS.

PRINCESS THEATRE.

The management of this favorite picture theatre have spared no expense in thoroughly renovating the interior and it is now one of the most comfortable places of amusement in the lower provinces. One of the most important features at the Princess is the latest power cinematograph. This machine throws a perfect flickerless picture that can be watched without the least injury to the eyes, and makes the witnessing of the Princess pictures more favorable than ever before. The programme of pictures for today are comprised of the latest films from head-quarters, and are shown for the first time in this city.

One lengthy film that is most instructive to old and young, is that showing the six ships by one of the world's greatest inventors, Mr. Farman. The picture, which was a most difficult one to produce, is very clear and shows the great inventor in many daring feats as he and others manoeuvre along the Atlantic and in the air. Two of these frail crafts of the air can be seen as they are taken from the clouds, then the start and with lightning speed they skim the earth and then soar high in the air, while thousands of awestricken spectators watch the difficult, daring manoeuvres with interest. This picture should not be missed by any person.

STUDENT'S PRELIMINARY.

The Student's Preliminary is a picture that shows a youthful student who gets into a lot of trouble on account of having too many lady friends. It is on this account that his course at college is very brief.

A furnished Flat Lot is an interesting film, with plenty of comedy.

Wanted, A Servant, is the last of the quartette of first-class films to look at. It is a sure cure for the blues.

In addition to the above programme A. Munroe Dorr will be heard in the latest illustrated songs. Admission this week will be five cents.

MAGNETIC MOVING DAY AT NICHEL.

Householders will cast longing eyes at the Nickel's leading picture for today and Tuesday, for it deals with an ideal condition yet confined to the realm of fiction—namely, the removal of household effects on moving day by a magnetic process, entirely without the aid of human hands. There are real to such things as vacuum cleaning processes and electric labor-savers of all kinds, but this new stunt of science will astound everybody. The other pictures are A Drama in Tyrol, something rich, refined and gorgeously scenic, with genuine Tyrolean settings; and a new one is equal to the essential demands of life. Miss Emily Huntington, who invented merry little kitchen games plays, has shown us how efficiently such things can be taught in schools, and they may well take the place of some of the meaningless exercises which now occupy the time in the ordinary kindergarten and primary school.

NIAGARA FALLS AT HAPPY HALF HOUR.

Today's pictures at the Happy Half Hour consist of brand new pictures. Niagara Falls in Winter was taken last February and it is safe to say that a more magnificent picture has never been seen here, showing as it does, many close views of the falls, and the beautiful figures and fields of ice caused by the spray from the falls freezing. Indeed it is more like a scene in Fairyland. The Doctor's Forgiveness is a charming dramatic picture full of pathos. Comedy lovers will enjoy An Indiscreet Father and Son. A Faithful Governess Rewarded is another powerful dramatic story with a strong moral. Prof. Tivus will sing in Old Ireland Meet Me There, illustrated by many beautiful views of Ireland, and Harry LeRoy has a very catchy number in Meet Me Sweet Kathleen In Honeysuckle Time. Saturday evening the reports of the full fight were read to the men in the large smoking room, and pictures of both Gans and Nelson were thrown on the curtain. When the result of the fight was announced and Nelson's picture appeared, cheers shook the building. Tonight by special request, pictures of both the men will be shown on the curtain together.

NEW PICTURES AT THE UNIQUE.

One of the best picture programmes ever put on in St. John will be shown at the Unique today. The pictures are three in number and the leading film, which is a criminal, answers the ad. It is 1,000 feet in length. A wealthy lady advertises for a maid and a young lady who is a criminal, answers the ad. She takes her accomplice in her trunk and they plan to rob the house. The man of the house is very much taken with the pretty face of the new maid, and goes to her room to call on her. He hears footsteps approaching and thinking it is his wife, he enters the room. She puts him in her trunk and fastens the cover down. Her accomplice comes out from under the bed, where he was hidden, and together they go through the house, steal all the valuables and escape. The next picture is one of the best comedies ever produced. It is called Trouble-some Theft. A thief steals a bundle from a bench in the park, and, on opening it discovers it is a can. He imagines it is an infernal machine, and endeavors to dispose of it. After a number of amusing experiences he meets the man from whom he stole the bundle and is only too glad to give it back to him. The third follows the man and is very much surprised to find that it contained estates and wine. Another new picture, Mycterebus Plumes, and new songs by Miss A. Outous, mezzo-soprano of London, Ontario, and Will Harrison, lyric baritone, of Halifax. Don't forget that this is the coolest and best ventilated house in the city.

CONVICT MARRIED IN PRISON HANDCUFFS

His Bride of Nineteen Then Bids Him Farewell for Ten Years

PARIS, July 5.—The extraordinary scene of a wedding where the bridegroom was married in handcuffs was witnessed at St. Martin, Ile de Re, yesterday.

Thérèse Fray, aged 24, had recently been caught in a daring burglary, and sentenced to ten years' hard labor. Her fiancé, Alexandre, aged 25, was heartbroken at the news and declared that nothing would induce her to give up.

She accordingly petitioned the authorities to allow the marriage to take place at once. Her request was conducted by four detectives to the mairie, where his bride and her friends were awaiting him.

After the ceremony he bade her farewell for ten years. The new bride returned to his cell, while the bride returned to her parents' home.

JOHN BUNYAN SENT TO JAIL FOR 14 YEARS

TORONTO, July 5.—John Bunyan of Galt was sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment for seditious cruelty in killing two horses in a hotel stable here. The instrument used was a broom handle.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

DENVER, Colo., July 5.—The convention throughs have been pouring into the city by every train today. It has been a boisterous Sunday, with bands escorting arriving delegations through the streets with steadily swelling crowds in the hotel lobbies and with leaders and delegates holding private conferences on candidates and measures. Most of the leaders and more than half of the delegates are here, and the tide of humanity which comes to look on and cheer is now in full movement toward the city. The chief event of the day has been the movement of the "salles" to salvanize the opposition to Bryan to something like a definite and formidable movement.

BRIEF DESPATCHES

TORONTO, July 5.—In the senior In-crosse match at Rosedale Saturday the Torontonians beat the Tecumsehs thirteen to three.

TORONTO, July 5.—But ten dollars bills of the Standard Bank are extensively circulated in Toronto and other Ontario cities.

LONDON, July 5.—The United States athletes, who are to take part in the Olympic games, arrived here today, looking very fit. They were taken to the city hall and taken to City Hall late tonight by detectives as a suspect in the case of a criminal, answers the ad. She takes her accomplice in her trunk and they plan to rob the house. The man of the house is very much taken with the pretty face of the new maid, and goes to her room to call on her. He hears footsteps approaching and thinking it is his wife, he enters the room. She puts him in her trunk and fastens the cover down.
