

U-Y Club Holds Banquet

The last successful U-Y function of the year, a delightful banquet, was held on Thursday, April 17, when over forty U-Y members and their guests gathered in the Community Y. Toastmaster for the evening was retiring president Vernon Copp. Sitting at the head-table with Mr. Copp were Don Taylor, Elsie Peterson, Joe Atyeo, Rachel Phinney, Bud Kinsman, George Robinson and John Vey, club mentor.

At the conclusion of the banquet Mr. Copp briefly commented on the work carried out by the club during the year and proceeded to leave the chair after introducing the incoming president, Wally MacAulay. Mr. Copp remarked that in the four years of its existence the U-Y Club had proved itself worthwhile and that since a stable organization had been built up in this club it was time that the U-Y members embarked on a new mission, that of a national and international movement. He also paid tribute to the Senior members in the Club who are now leaving. It was they who first organized the club. Mr. Copp, as well, wished the new executive the best of success, while Mr. MacAulay thanked the retiring President for a splendid job well done.

A business meeting was then conducted and business considered included the U-Y canvassing the university professors for donations to the Community Y Financial Campaign. This year the local Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.'s are asking for funds totalling $9,000.

After considerable discussion the U. Y. Club accepted the job of canvassing the professors.

A motion was also unanimously passed that the U-Y Club, if possible, publish the Freshman Booklet for the S. R. C. Bob McGowan severely reprimanded the executive and Ralph Hay, Y Board Representative, stating that there was a "dangerous tendency" on the part of the executive to accept jobs without permission of the entire club.

Ralph Hale reported on the reunion during the month of May and said that there was the opportunity of the U-Y Club to sell banners. Motion was passed to this effect and Ralph Hale and a committee were detailed to handle this service project.

A report from Herb Liphsetz stated that the Visitor's Guide was in the process of completion but that the club did not have the necessary funds to pay for it. The project, he stated, will cost well over $200. Mr. Robinson, on behalf of the S. R. C., stated that the Council would probably offer them a loan in order to publish it, but the Club refused the offer, stating that as it was a U-Y project, a loan would not be considered.

The meeting adjourned and a well-balanced social programme was carried out under the leadership of Jim Marshall and Bill Hine.

Next year's officers are: Wally MacAulay, President; Vice-President, Don Cooke; Secretary, Bob Howie; Treasurer, John Blackmer; Past President, Vernon Copp.

Phyllis Farley International Student Service delegate in Warsaw, reports that 10,413 (75%) of the 15,000 students examined by the Central Medical Commission required medical attention.

PRES. GILLAN RE-ELECTED

The final meeting of the Camera Club was held Sunday afternoon in their studio at Alexander College. In the elections which were held Pat Gillin was returned as President by acclamation. Arnold Duke will be the new Vice-President and Ed Bas-tedo the Secretary-Treasurer.

A report on the past year's activities was presented by the Vice-President in which the club members were congratulated on their hard work and great amount of time spent in building the dark rooms. It was pointed out that several members in the beginners stage had received instruction in various photographic processes and were now able to turn out commendable work. Several club members who had done work for the Year Book were thanked for this by the Year Book Photo Editor.

Dr. Gregg, who did much in getting the club on its feet gave a short message of encouragement to the club and congratulated it on getting away to such a good start.

A showing of members' work in the form of a Photographic Salon was also held. Dr. MacLeod of the Experimental Farm consented to act as judge and critic of the prints at a previous showing. Unable to attend the meeting himself, his criticisms were passed on to the club by Prof. Kennedy. Many fine points were shown which speaks well for the future of this new club on the campus. It is hoped that the ten best prints will be put on display in McMurray's window.

It is hoped that all those interested in doing their own darkroom work, whether beginners or experts will be on hand at the opening meeting next fall to help the club on to bigger things.

U. N. B. Debaters Meet Maine

On Tuesday night, April 5, the University of Maine debating team defeated the U. N. B. team of Ed Fanjoy and Gordon Mackenzie by a 2-1 decision at Castle Hall. This split the home and home international series between the two Universities as U. N. B. represented by Linden Peebles and Ed Fanjoy had won the opener at Crono by a 3-1 decision. In both debates Maine was represented by Edward Cormier and Donald Waring.

The resolution was "Resolved that in the interests of world peace the nations of Europe (excluding England and Russia) unite in a United States of Europe." Maine upheld the affirmative.

Cormier started off for Maine and after reviewing the world picture proposed a United Europe as the only hope for European prosperity which was essential to a war-free Europe and a peaceful world. Waring described a broad definition of the constitutional set up of such a plan.

Fanjoy, opening up for U. N. B. pointed out the impossibility of such a plan because of the nationalistic problems in Europe and claimed that the only United Europe possible was a Europe modelled on that of Hitler. He claimed it would be a communistic Europe. "Federalizing Europe" he said, "would be placing the iron hand of Communism on the soft throat of democracy." Mackenzie stressed the impossibility of the plan, because of the differing languages, illustrating the problem by speaking fluently in German and Swedish to a non-understanding audience.

The rebuttals were decisive. Mackenzie for the negative pointed out that the plan was only a dream. Cormier, finishing off the debate, struck the affirmative on all sides in a blaze of oratory. He admitted idealism, but pleaded his case on a firm basis of realism.

The debate was sponsored by the Fredericton Kiwanis Club, and the debaters of both teams were entertained at a banquet before the debate.

Right off the Molars With Nellie

(An Exclusive Interview)

"So they are giving lessons in fly-tying up the hill now!" exclaimed Nellie the famous equine news analyst, in her exclusive interview with the Brunswickian at the Acme Dairy stables. "Well I hope they tie up all the little pests for good, although I would certainly not merely tie one up if I could get a tall hold on him. You don't know what a plague those little things can be in the life of horse."

"Er, yes I sympathize," said the enquiring reporter, "but this is a different kind of fly. They make them out of feathers and stuff and use 'em for catching fish." "Now isn't that just like you humans to play one creature against another. That is what causes wars. I pull the wagon, but the guy who holds the reins gets all the credit. Do I kick? Not with a bit in my mouth. I keep the peace."

"Are you not aware that there are more than enough flies in the world, and all too few to get rid of them? But no, you cannot let nature alone, anyway, how can you write an exam on tying flies?" "I am afraid you misunderstand," muttered the Brunswickian representative, as he backed toward the door.

"Don't leave! I have hardly started," said old Nell, sticking a hayseed into her mouth, "I would like to voice my approval of the college band that I hear they are going to start. Having a good band shows a lot of college spirit don't you think?" "Er, yes," began the reporter. "Why, of course, Can't you just see that band playing across the field at half-time?" In fact it would probably induce some of the students to come to the games. Think of how nice that would be. I used to be a circus hump with bangles and all that stuff before I got into the milk racket." Then, as a dreamy look came into the old nag's eyes, the reporter slipped out to write his story.
