HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN WILL LEAVE FOR FRONT

Solicitor-General of Canada Has Been Appointed Q.-M. in a New Regiment.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—Hon. Arthur Meighen, Solicitor-General of Canada, will shortly leave for the front as Quartermaster in the overseas regiment which General Meighen is raising in Montreal. Hon. Mr. Meighen has not had military training, but this is not essential in the position of Quartermaster, which is a business position in a regiment.

The regiment which Hon. Mr. Meighen is joining is a crack force. General Meighen, the commander, distinguished himself at St. Julien, where he commanded one of the regiments most seriously engaged. He was invalided back and his name has enabled him to gather a splendid set of officers and men.

Hon. Mr. Meighen was only recently admitted to the Borden Government as a full Privy Councillor.

GERMAN FORCES WILL WEAKEN BY FEBRUARY

Hilaire Belloc, Famous Military Critic, Says Reserves Cannot Fill Up Losses.

In the current issue of "Land and Water," Hilaire Belloc returns to a comprehensive analysis of the enemy's possible effective reserves and how long he can continue to keep his force in the field at its present strength. He arrives at this conclusion:

"If you weigh all the scales against the allies you arrive, for the date when the enemy's effectives will decline, at somewhere about the turn of the New Year or very little later. Say the end of January at the very latest. More reasonable estimates, less violent weighing the scales against the chances of the allies, reduce that time to the course of December, while estimates which have very great authority behind them, but must be admitted to be perhaps at the end of the line, place the turn of affairs in the month of November itself."

Belloc thinks there is no doubt that the Germans hoped for peace before this hour would arrive, and recalls the pretty definite statement that the Kaiser himself mentioned October as the date when the war would be over. He continues:

"Meanwhile the enemy is throwing away men more lavishly than ever because his Higher Command has decided that a violent expenditure of energy in this crisis is better policy than husbanding his remaining reserves. In connection with this policy he has also created a new diversion, largely political, in the Balkans with some 5 per cent. of his forces, and could at the most, were his success complete in that direction, slowly train and still more slowly equip some 150,000 men, perhaps half a million—of men drawn from the subjects of the Turkish Empire. While this experiment is being made in the south-east of Europe, he is being hammered continuously upon the western line; he is losing 200,000 men of men; for the equivalent of five army corps have gone in the last three weeks, allowing a proportion of 1 in 5 casualties for the dead; he is failing in an exceedingly expensive counter-offensive stroke, and on the East he is at last held."

"That is the situation as a whole, and the more steadily we bear it in mind and base our judgment upon it, the better for the nerves of the nation."

Music and Drama

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE. There has been a large advance sale of seats for "It Pays to Advertise," the signal success that recently completed a run of fifty-two consecutive weeks at the Cohran Theatre, New York City.

"It Pays to Advertise" is said to be thoroughly and consistently entertaining because the motives for his universal appeal, Cohran and Harris have achieved an enviable reputation for producing plays of the lighter variety and "It Pays to Advertise" is another triumph to add to their long list of great successes. At the Brantford Opera House, Friday night.

At Work or Play You'll Find Our Eyeglasses Equally Satisfactory

They are made to stay on without pinching. Not every pair of eyeglasses will do this. And the style of the mounting is not always at fault. No matter how well a mounting is constructed, it must necessarily be carefully adjusted to fit your particular nose or it cannot give satisfaction.

These little adjustments must be made by an optician who knows how. We have gained that knowledge from long experience.
