

THE BIG LIBERAL BANQUET

Three Hundred Guests Seated at the Festive Board—Feast of Reason and Flow of Soul Followed Consumption of an Elaborate Spread.

Three hundred Dawsonites sat down last night around the festive board spread for their entertainment by the Liberal Club of this city. The tables were placed in the form of a square, almost entirely filling the area of the big A. B. hall. With handsome garnishments, dainty viands galore and sparkling silver and china they presented a sight sufficient to gladden the eye and tempt the appetite of the most fastidious.

The hall itself was a bower of beauty. From the ceiling were suspended the colors of Great Britain, the United States and France, while around the sides bunting and banners were lavishly used and with splendid effect. A jollier crowd it would be difficult to find than was represented around the well laden tables and there was not a feature of the affair but what was thoroughly enjoyed.

Politically speaking, the love feast, for such it was, did not produce any particularly startling results. There was manifestly a disposition to shy when such matters as candidates and party prospects were mentioned, but that may be explained upon the assurance given by the managers of the banquet that it was strictly a non-partisan affair and that the injection of politics into the speeches was not particularly to be encouraged.

The nearest approach to a political allusion was made by legal adviser Newlands who suggested that in view of the fact that the names of Messrs. F. T. Congdon and John Grant were coupled with the toast to the territorial and Dominion governments, that both these gentlemen had been taken on the parliamentary itch. Mr. Congdon entered a somewhat uncommittal denial to the soft impeachment, and left his hearers in a somewhat blissful state of uncertainty as to just what his intentions are. Mr. Grant seemed to view the suggestion as did everyone else, viz., as a huge joke.

President Thos. O'Brien of the Liberal Club started the ball rolling by proposing a toast to the king, which was drunk standing. The national anthem followed, being sung with much enthusiasm and heartiness.

F. T. Congdon then proposed the president of the United States in a stirring and able address. Mr. Congdon paid a glowing tribute to the president and the people of whom he is the chief executive.

United States Consul Saylor responded in what was agreed to be one of the ablest efforts of the evening. Mr. Saylor reviewed the names of a number of America's greatest presidents and told how they had contributed to the growth and development of their country. He took occasion to refer to the growing friendships between the two branches of the Anglo-Saxon race and explained how they are drawing more closely together. A high compliment was paid to the Dominion of Canada and particularly to this portion of the country. The speaker greatly appreciated the spirit of friendliness that has been shown toward Americans in Dawson and hoped that it would never be otherwise.

The governor-general and the Dominion of Canada were proposed by Alderman Macdonald. Chas. Macdonald responded in his elegant manner of speaking and held the big audience to the very last word. Within the past few years Canada has grown and developed in a manner that has been the wonder of the continent. This condition has been due to a measure to the calibre of the governor-general who had from time to time been sent out to this country.

The speaker passed a glowing eulogy upon Sir John A. Macdonald, the Marquis of Dufferin, Lord Minto, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other men who are and have been high in Canadian public life. In his eloquent oration Mr. Macdonald drew a most pleasing picture of Canada's future.

Dugald Donaghy proposed a toast to the commissioner, which was received with the greatest enthusiasm.

B. P. McLennan proposed the Dominion and territorial governments in a brief but witty speech which merited and received vigorous rounds of applause.

Replies to the toast were made by Messrs. Newlands, Grant and Sheriff Ellbeck.

The learned professions were toasted by F. M. Shepard, which was responded to by the Rev. McCrae and the Rev. Pringle on behalf of the clergy. F. T. Congdon on the part of the legal profession and Dr. Edwards for the doctors.

Mayor Henry C. Macaulay followed in a toast to the press, to which responses were given by Messrs. Congdon, Beddoe and Allen.

The other toasts of the evening were as follows: The N.W.M.P., D. G. Stewart; Commercial and mining interests of the Yukon, J. C. Noel; The ladies, Chas. Milne.

The list of guests is as follows: T. W. O'Brien, Mayor Macaulay, Consul Saylor, Rev. John Pringle, Rev. A. McCrae, Ald. Wilson, Colonel McGregor, A. Prudhomme, Colin Chisholm, Mr. Newlands, Ald. Too much cannot be said for the manner in which the banquet was handled. Caterer Lon Griffin superintended the service in person, and with a big corps of waiters every detail was cared for in a manner beyond criticism.

Unfortunate Collision
The almost criminal recklessness with which race horses have been exercised in the past on the principal thoroughfares without any apparent regard for the safety of welfare of pedestrians culminated last night in a most distressing accident. Bert Collyer was riding Black Alder and as he approached the bridge crossing the slough the horse took fright at a rig coming up from the rear, bolted and dashed across the bridge at full speed. At the opposite end there was a six-horse team approaching, nearly alongside of which was a single horse and buggy. There not being room to pass between Black Alder swerved to the right, struck the wheels of the buggy and throwing himself against a post used as a support to the awning in front of the little store adjoining the Binet block. The whole affair occurred so quickly that Mrs. Brown who was leaning against the post, watching the departure of the steamer did not have time to get out of the way. The impact of the horse against the post knocked it over, hurling Mrs. Brown to the sidewalk with sufficient force to render her unconscious. Willing hands quickly picked her up and carried her to the rear of the store where Dr. Norway a few moments later made an examination, during which she suffered excruciating pain. Her left leg was found to have been broken above the knee. The horse was badly cut, but Collyer escaped with only a shaking up. Complaints of fast riding and narrow escapes have been numerous and the wonder is that more accidents have not occurred long before this.

On the Cudahy Order
Salt Lake, Utah, June 18.—A special to the Herald from Brigham, Utah, says:

The residents of this town are excited tonight over the kidnaping of Nels Anderson, jr., 17 years old, son of a prominent merchant.

Anderson's father owns a farm near Brigham, upon which the boy worked. Young Anderson stopped at his father's house in town Sunday night, and it was thought had left for the farm early Monday morning. Yesterday morning a farm hand called at the Anderson residence and inquired for the boy. On searching the house young Anderson's straw hat was found with the following note pinned to it:

"Your son is kidnaped and we demand $5,000 for his release, to be paid by the waterfall, east of Brigham, or his arms and legs will be cut off and he will be killed. We mean every word we say."
(Signed) "Ghain Gang Robbers."

The sheriff was immediately notified and a search for the lad instituted, but up to tonight no trace of him has been found.

Young Anderson told his parents Sunday evening that two strangers had threatened to kidnap him, but no attention was paid to the warning.

Police to Investigate
Baker City, Or., June 18.—The authorities are looking for a mysterious man and woman who are suspected of murdering an infant child at Haines last Sunday night. The couple went to the hotel about 11:30 Sunday night and asked for a room. When requested to register the man declined, saying it was not necessary. They had a young baby with them when they were shown to a room and some of the boarders claimed to have heard it crying. The man left the house about 2 p.m. carrying a bundle wrapped in cloth, which he carried down the railroad track over half a mile and deposited in the bushes. He returned to the hotel and with the woman left town, walking down the railroad track.

It was reported here late this evening that the dead body of an infant had been found near the railroad between Haines and North Powder. The officers are investigating the case.

Tug of War Contest
Messrs. Kamueller and Holte proprietors of the Fairview hotel are nothing if not hustlers. As soon as it was declared by the Fourth of July committee to allow no prize for the tug of war the above named gentlemen immediately started a subscription on their own account. They now announce that the tug of war will be brought off at 8 o'clock on the evening of the Fourth in front of the Fairview. The Eagle team will be pitted against the Forks team in a five foot pull to a finish. Fifteen hundred dollars will be distributed among the winning team.

The date for the great fifteen-round contest between Frank Slavin and Nick Burley is drawing near as it takes place on the night of Thursday, July 3rd, in A. B. hall.

Both men have trained hard and both are confident of success. Burley says he will land on Slavin's gum at will and Slavin says Burley will not last over eight rounds.

The go promises to be the hottest ever witnessed in the north.

Creeds Swept by Fire
Creede, Colo., June 18.—The second terrible fire in the history of Creede occurred this morning, and as a result fully $200,000 worth of property has been burned, two lives are believed to have been lost, and many persons were injured. The fire occurred in what is known as Upper Creede, and that part of the town is in ruins, making sixty families homeless. The names of the missing are William Stewart and Fritz Zint. The fire started in a vacant building formerly occupied as a saloon, and is supposed to have been of incendiary origin. It was not until 1 o'clock this afternoon that the flames were under control.

Many members of the fire department and volunteers risked their lives to save life and rescue property, and not a few were seriously burned and bruised by falling timbers.

One whole new block on Main street is destroyed. The new Happy Thought mill, which cost $225,000, was saved only with the utmost difficulty.

Condemn Fruit Trees
Colville, Wash., June 18.—The old Pinkston orchard, situated about a mile south of Marcus, and the oldest orchard in the county, has been condemned by County Fruit Inspector W. H. Oakes because the trees were found to be infected by oyster-shell scale. The orchard belongs to an Indian woman named Martina Miller, and has for many years been a valuable property.

The state horticultural commissioner was called to make an investigation of the pest, and decided that the orchard might stand on condition that the owners will prune the trees to the limit next spring and thoroughly disinfect them under the supervision of the county inspector. All trimmings shall be burned, and no fruit will be allowed to go out from the place in the meantime.
