BY C. C. S.

Heard ye all of the gift of France?
Well Britain needs the power;
She needs a faint but forced applause,
And dreads the coming hour.

When cherished Liberty shall claim For all the sons of earth
The broken fetter and the chain,
The bond of humble birth.

Behold you form, with torch upheld, On Bedloe's ancient isle;
It warms the heart and dries the eye Of those in duress vile.

Long may it shine with hallowed light, Loved light of Liberty, Fond light of hope, goodwill and peace,
Dear light of charity.

Ah! precious gift! 'tis Liberty Makes high and low good friends, Yea, he who speaks and acts for right Is serving virtue's ends.

We labored soon and labored late To belt the titled knave;
And all the freedom that we knew Was that beyond the grave.

May all the world here lend a hand To fan this kindled fire;
Let freedom, brotherhood and love
Be every son's desire;

May pride and pomp and tyranny Be cleansed in freedom's sea, And equal rights proclaimed to all,
By thought but right set free.

Farmersville, Nov. 18, 1886.

OUR MORNING STROLL.

NO. XII.

Never in the history of Farmersville have so many large, expensive and fine looking buildings been erected, as during the past season. The most prominent new building, in point of size and cost, is the store just rebuilt by C. L. Lamb, and which will be opened for business to-morrow by the firm of Lamb & Davison. For over fourty years the old stone store, built by Richard Giles, has occupied a foremost place among the business centres of Farmersville. For some time back the owner of the building had been making preparations to rebuild the whole structure, and early in the summer the work was begun. Soon after there was a change in the proprietorship, and Mr. Lamb became possessor of the property, on which he has just completed a store which, for convenience and general adaptability to the business it is intended for, has no superior in the back country.

On Monday morning last, as we passed up Main st., the large pile of packing boxes in front of the People's Store, as the building is appropriately named, reminded us that busy hands were at work inside. Although the store was closed to the public, the open sesame knock of a reporter quickly gained admittance. The large proportions of the building were apparent the moment we entered. The building is 60 feet long by 27 feet wide, and has 11-foot ceilings. The large windows are of plate glass, each of the windows being of a single pane.
This is the first plate glass window in Farmersville.

Only a small portion of the goods had been placed in position; but enough had been done to give an idea of the general plan of the arrangements. A new feature, of great convenience, has been introduced in the shelves, which instead of being divided off by heavy centre supports, are divided by neatly turned adjustable supports, so that the shelving can be adapted to the width of the goods being utilized. The whole of the ground floor is in one room, excepting a neat little office in the east corner.
Two rows of counters extend the length of the store. Upon the right hand side, on entering, will be found the dry goods and fancy articles, and at the lower end the heavier articles in the grocery line. Coming up the left hand side will be found the teas, cof-ees, canned goods, etc., while in the north corner, in neat past-board boxes, is stored every description of footwear, from the misses' dainty kid to the man's brogan. Down the centre of the store will be arranged three or four long tables, piled up with cloth, ready-made clothing and factory articles. Under the skillful manipulation of the general proprietors, the whole space will be occupied to the best advantage, having regard to the ### artistic display of the goods.

The firm have put in an entirely new stock, which they propose selling at greatly reduced prices for cash or its equivalent in produce. They are pushing, energetic men, of large experience in their line, and have a good reputation as reliable, square dealers.
We know that they will be pleased to see all their old customers, and no doubt they will be able, by the bargains they are prepared to offer, to induce a host of new customers to patronize their store.

We had almost forgotten to say that the upper flat of the People's Store has been fitted up especially for the Ogdilow. They have just ordered the carpeting, and expect to have their rooms ready for occupation in a few weeks. We shall have more to say on this subject in a future issue.

COUNTY NEWS.

Events of the Surrounding Townships, Gathered by Our Own Wide-awake Correspondents.

Spring Valley.

Our school closed on the 16th inst., to remain closed until after the winter holidays.

Mr. Geo. Rappole, of Dakota, formerly of this place, is visiting friends here.

Mr. Wm. Jeff, a noted English tourist, was "doing" our back country lately.

Our cheese factory closed the last of October.

Mr. Thomas Davidson is recovering from injuries received while working around a threshing machine.

Business is closed up at the brickyard for the season.

Mr. Edward Haywood has just completed a large "cattle ranch."

Esolt.

Our new blacksmith is at work.

We are improving—that is, our village is growing. Mr. Weekes is building a store and dwelling, which will add greatly to the appearance of Main st.

Your Mallorytown correspondent laughs because some of the boys here are practising in the "manly art" of self defence. It would be well if some of the young men of that place would take lessons in the same art, and then it would not cost them so much for teeth.

Our teacher has a new bicycle, and is practising. Rather late in the season, we would think; but, not being versed in such things, we do not know.

R. Booth, of this place, got seven deer while away hunting.

Edie Mills.

Miss Saloma Whaley has arrived from Toronto, and is well pleased with her visit.

Mr. Geo. M. Bates is building, and has nearly completed, a new cow barn, with stone wall basement.

During the cold and stormy days the "boys" gather around the blacksmith shop stove. The yarns that are told are something wonderful. The farmer from the north end of Saginaw st. generally takes the lead, with Jim the hunter a good second.

Tax Collector Karley called around last week and left the tax bills for 1886. Great dissatisfaction is expressed by everyone at the heavy railroad bonus and high school tax. Persons who have had their farms cut up for the right of way, and have worked on the road with their teams and received no payment, do not feel like paying taxes to bonus a road about the completion of which there is no certainty.

Front of Yonge.

Reformers held a meeting in the Caintown school house on Thursday evening, to appoint delegates to attend the Convention.

The contest on the autograph quilt, which lasted about three weeks, is now at an end, and the sum of $200 will be realized by the efforts of the young ladies who were the contestants. Miss Lillie M. Connolly is the winner of the quilt, having obtained a majority of 90 votes, the amount raised by her being $43.90. Among the many contributors to the enterprise I found the names of the Reporter, Hon. C. F.
Fraser, Hon. O. Mowat, Hon. E. Blake, J. F. Wood, M.P., Geo. Taylor, M.P., and C. E. Britton, Esq. An entertainment will be held in the basement of the Methodist church, on the occasion of the presentation of the quilt.
The proceeds of the whole affair will be applied towards liquidating a debt upon the parsonage, which has been furnished with first-class furniture lately. The credit of the whole scheme is due to Rev. Mrs. Sanderson, whose efforts should be recognized in a tangible form.

Lyn.

The arrival of several carloads of rails, the presence of engineers busy locating the line from here to Brockville, and the tax gatherer with the ### additional of bonus tax to his other claims, are facts which remind us that the B. & W. R. R. is being built.

Mr. Cumming is pushing the work of placing the engine in his mill, as fast as the weather will allow. Capt.
Jento is superintending the job. When finished, Mr. Cumming will have one of the finest mills in Eastern Ontario.

Mr. Barriss has fitted up his woolen mill to run by steam, and is running full time.

Bullock & Co. are running their last factory full time on orders.

The foundry of the Lyn Agricultural works is running on job work, and on castings for next spring's stock.

Miss C. Wilson has been appointed head teacher of the public school in this place.

The Scott Act has already begun its work of "ruin," one place of business having been closed up by it.

John F. Yates, the genial landlord of the Lyn House, seems to be doing a rushing business. The knowledge of human nature gained during his teaching career stands him in good stead now.

Everyone seems contented and happy here, excepting a young man who complains that it is very dry and dull.

Lyn is now free from the curse of the bar-room, no liquor being sold here, it is believed, even by peddlers.
They do well to keep away, because the prohibition sentiment is too strong here to let them escape if caught.

While men sleep, Inspector Phillips seems to be making it lively for the violators of the Scott Act. But it is strange that so many fines are for the first offence. The people of this county have said by their votes that they wish to stop the sale of intoxicants, and it is not justice to strain a point to let the guilty ones down easy.

J. A. McGuire, of Shawville, was boasting recently of the amount of money he had in his pocket-book. He went to bed with the coat containing the pocket-book at the head of his bed.
Next morning he found he had been robbed of $500. There is no clue to the guilty party.

W. J. Woods, of North Elmsley, had a narrow escape last week, while attending a horse-power attached to a threshing machine. One of the horses got its tail caught in the machinery.
While Mr. Woods was endeavoring to make matters right, the animal kicked him on the chest and one of his hands, causing painful bruises. He is recovering slowly.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

An Indestructible Coffin.

A few weeks ago the workmen engaged in grading the B. and W. R. R. came across an old burying ground on the farm of J. Gibson. On enquiry it was found to be the family cemetery of the Stack family, who formerly owned the farm. Philip and Crawford Stack made arrangements to have the bodies removed, and on exhuming the remains came across one coffin which was nearly as sound as when buried between 80 and 90 years ago. This coffin was made of red cedar, and enclosed the remains of Joseph Stack, the first of the name who settled in this section. All the other coffins some of which had not been in the ground more than 25 or 30 years, had entirely disappeared, leaving nothing but the bones to mark the spot. All the remains were collected and removed to the village cemetery.

Do not neglect a cold or cough, as it frequently results in consumption. You will find a never-failing remedy in West's Cough Syrup. All druggists.

The Cemetery Vault.

By reference to our advertising columns it will be seen that the new vault in the Methodist Cemetery is now ready for the reception of bodies, for safe keeping during the winter.
The fees authorized to be charged by the caretaker are very reasonable, and every precaution will be taken to insure that the bodies placed in the vault will not be molested. We have made a personal inspection of the vault, and find that the committee have done everything possible to render it as secure as a massive door, made of boiler plate and fastened with two ponderous locks, can make it. We are satisfied that nothing short of a dynamite cartridge can shake the fastenings of the door, and as the walls are of stone two feet in thickness, we see no reason to apprehend a possibility of bodies being taken surreptitiously from a building put up in so strong and substantial a manner.

The "Doherty" Organ.

J. Gallagher, Farmersville, has the agency for the celebrated organs manufactured by Doherty of Clinton, Ont.
The instruments manufactured by this firm are beautiful in design and fine in finish, and the cases are constructed of the best cabinet woods. They are especially noted for the fine quality and tone of their reeds, which produce sweet and beautiful sounds as far as possible removed from the asthmatical squeak which is commonly associated with the reed organ. The Doherty organs contain all the modern improvements known to makers of these instruments, as well as some peculiar features which especially commend them to the music loving public. A player on the Doherty parlor organ can produce effects which are commonly thought to be possible on the pipe organ only.

At this season of the year it is very necessary to keep a bottle of West's Cough Syrup in the house for sudden colds Nothing like it. Cures like magic.

Concert.

The weather last Thursday evening was as disagreeable as it well could be, and hence the audience which greeted the Brockville Melody Club was not so large as it otherwise would have been. The pieces announced on the programme were nearly all of a high class, and with few exceptions, the numbers were worthily rendered.

The overture was a little disappointing, but was nevertheless a creditable number, which would, however, have been better rendered after further rehearsal. The glee by the company were well rendered, but were not of a "taking" kind. The club gave evidence of talent in this direction. The largo chorus was very amusing, led by the droll antics of E. H. Bisset.
The instrumental numbers were nearly all deserving of the highest commendation. A. Rowe is an accomplished flautist, and won a well deserved encomium in his solo number, which was beautifully and feelingly rendered.
The violin solo by F. H. Fulford was given with marked ability, and was encored. He is a violinist of great merit. We have not space to particularize the several instrumental and vocal duets, trios, quartets, and quintettes, some of which were very finely executed. F. H. Fulford rendered a fine song, "Big Ben," in a manner which proved him to be a talented vocalist. C. McLean and C. E. Fulford were the pianists, and handled the instrument in a way which left nothing to be desired. There were several taking novelties in the programme, such as an instrument made from a fishing rod, the zymo-phone, etc. The audience was not so appreciative as it might have been, partly no doubt because the average audience enjoys a preponderance of vocal music rather than the reverse, and partly because of the coldness and reserve which sometimes afflict an audience unaccountably. We always like to see a meritorious performance warmly applauded.

BOLD, BAD BURGLARS BEAR AWAY BOOBY.
