MUSIC AND DRAMA

Eddie Foy and a dozen other well known stars, and a stunning Broadway chorus of 60, are to be seen at the Grand to-night in the massive English musical comedy success, "The Orchid," which is direct from a six months' run at Lew Fields' Herald Square Theatre, New York. The piece also bloomed two consecutive years at the Gaiety Theatre, London. Unlike most musical comedies, "The Orchid" abounds in plot, and is the work of six authors—Messrs. James T. Tanner, Joseph W. Herbert, Adrian Ross, Percy Greenback, Ivan Caryll and Lionel Monckton—in two acts and three scenes. The scenes show the flowered grounds of the Horticultural College, the public square in Nice, and the Bal Blanc in the Nice Opera House, and are eclipsed in beauty only by the bewildering display of gowns and the general gorgeousness of the costuming.

Richard Carle Coming. The Grand will have for its attraction on Thursday evening of next week Richard Carle, in his new musical comedy, "Mary's Lamb." Mr. Carle was last season in "The Spring Chicken," which proved a big success. The comedian is both author and composer of "Mary's Lamb," having used a famous French farce, "Madame Mongodin," as the basis of his play. This farce has been played long in London under its English title, "Mrs. Penderbury's Past." Mr. Carle appears as the hen-pecked husband. He brings a cast of unusually good singers, including John B. Park, formerly of Toronto; Miss Jeannette Lowrie, Frank Belcher and others. And he has the usual chorus of good looking and well gowned girls.

At the Bennett House. One of the feature acts at Bennett's next week will be Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Forbes in a sketch, "The Wild Rose." The object of the piece is to arouse laughter, and wherever it has been it has done so with a good deal of success. Paul Conchas, another of the big type acts, is busy in Montreal this week, where he is playing a return engagement by request.

The show at Bennett's this week has been proved to be a money maker, and large crowds have attended each performance. The Moto-girl will continue to puzzle people by her phenomenal doll imitation. Until she chooses to speak she defies the audience to tell that she is anything else but an automaton. The rest of the vaudeville company at Bennett's are repeating their several successes. Wormwood's monkeys are always a delight to the little folk at the matinees, and the wonder of the older people at the evening performances. Eckert and Berg, in their musical phantasy, "The Land of the Two Moons," is another well liked number, and Eckert's playing on the piano with the banjo attachment always secures an ovation for him. Jack Hazard is also a warm favorite, his bright and snappy talking act being as good as anything in his line seen in this city. The other acts are strong.

Miss Marlowe Next Tuesday. Julia Marlowe is the ideal Rosalind of this generation on the American stage as truly as she is the ideal Julia. And why may we not go further and declare what every critic believes, i. e., that Marlowe is the foremost exponent of Shakespeare and the classic drama—and that she is first of all the players in authoritative art in the hearts of the people.

Everybody in Hamilton will be delighted that out of her extended repertory, "As You Like It" has been chosen to be the 12th here for Miss Marlowe's engagement in this city next Tuesday. As Rosalind, the technical skill and the physical charm and beauty of this actress are both seen at once. And there should be, as there doubtless will be, a great outpouring to see her again in this part, for she has not played it in Hamilton for several years.

"As You Like It" was Miss Marlowe's own choice of opening bill for this city; thus the popular wish and the mood of the favorite in this instance run together, a fact that cannot fail to result but happily on the night of the play.

At the Savoy Theatre. Theatregoers who patronize amateur night at the Savoy to-morrow are promised one of the most pleasing bills by local talent since the experience was first tried here. The entries have been numerous, and they range all the way from the ordinary singing and dancing numbers to aerial artists, buck and wing dancers, comedians, jugglers and acrobats. Amelia Summerville, the noted singing comedienne; Bert Lennon, in his clever impersonations of stage celebrities; Thomas Barnum and Nell Roach, in their comedy sketch, "The Political Gaffer"; and the Jundits, an European team, showing something new in feats of equilibrium, are the big attractions on the regular bill, which is guaranteed to please from first to last. Miss Summerville is one of the cleverest artists seen here this season, as attested to by the hit she is scoring in her society monologue. Mr. Lennon is another clever artist who is scoring hard with his clever impersonations.

For next week Manager Appleton announces the appearance of Okito Chinese magicians, one of the cleverest acts of the kind in the business.

About Kathleen Parlow. Queen Maud of Norway is keenly interested in the career of Kathleen Parlow, 17, a Canadian violinist, who has created a profound sensation in European capitals. Both she and King Haakon have written Mrs. Parlow. The girl will make another such sensation in London, England, in April. She is considering the offer of an American syndicate for 120 concerts at £250 each.

Between the Acts. Mr. Hewlett will give his 3rd organ recital in Centenary Church on Saturday afternoon next, April 4th. The programme will consist entirely of the compositions of Wagner, the continued by Mrs. H. W. Parker, soprano, of Toronto.

W. H. Hewlett, organist of Centenary Church, is in Dayton, Ohio, to-day, attending the inauguration of a new organ. To-morrow evening he will open a large three manual organ in Norfolk Street Methodist Church, Guelph. It is definitely stated in New York that Paul McAlister will be starred by a prominent firm of managers next season. McAlister is at present Viola Allen's leading man, having replaced Walter Hampden in the cast of "Freud's Wives."

The star of "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," which will be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday afternoon and evening, is S. Miller Kent, who, besides being recognized as the best young romantic actor in America, incidentally holds the world's record as a quick understudy, which he won during Nat C. Goodwin's engagement in "An American Citizen," at the Duke of York's Theatre in London a few years ago.

There was a poor house at the Grand last night, when the farce comedy, "Ma's New Husband," was presented. It was as good as the farce, and the presenting company, however.

New York, April 2.—After an illness of several weeks, Horace Howland, a well-known music critic, died yesterday at his home in Hoboken, N. J. Mr. Howland was 69 and retired from business several years ago. For many years he was a correspondent of the New York World and reported the Fitz John Porter trial for that paper. Later he went to the New York Times as musical critic.

MOULDERS STRIKE.*One Hundred Employees of Buck Stove Works Quit Work.

Brantford, April 1.—The moulders at the Buck Stove Works, to the number of over one hundred, went out this afternoon as a result of a refusal on the part of the firm to accede to their request for a change of materials. A mass meeting was held at the Union Hall at 4 o'clock, at which a couple of hundred union men were present. The situation was discussed and an adjournment made until to-night, when some line of action will be determined on.

The firm, on the one hand, state that they were unable to accede to the request of the men and that, moreover, they will be unable to do so in the future. So far as they are concerned there can be no settlement unless the men abandon their stand.

The men, on their part, contend that a change in the materials as at present in use is essential in order that they may make a proper wage and work under the conditions that are existent in other moulding shops.

MUST LIVE UP TO CHARTER.*Meeting of Buffalo and Bridgeburg Men on International Bridge.

Bridgeburg, April 1.—A largely attended meeting of prominent citizens of Buffalo, who are interested in the movement to get the Grand Trunk Railway to build a driveway on the International bridge between this place and Buffalo, was held at the Hotel Iroquois in Buffalo, last night. A number of the members of the Bridgeburg Council and Board of Trade were also present at the meeting. The committee, which appeared before the Assembly committee which had the bill in the Lower House of the Legislature, made a report.

VETERAN OF REBELLION.

Charles Currie Passed Away at Home Near St. Catharines. St. Catharines, Ont., April 1.—Charles Currie, brother of the late Hon. J. G. Currie, died at his residence, River Road, Niagara Township, this morning in his 80th year. Deceased was one of the volunteers who, under Captain Dunn, sailed to cut out and send the Niagara Falls steamer Carolina, on the 29th December, 1837. This vessel was employed in bringing supplies to the rebels on Navy Island. He, with four brothers, was at the front during the Fenian Raid, 1866. He was born in Quebec in 1818, and was educated at Upper Canada College, Toronto.
