Lloyd George, However, May Not Resign—
Door to Further Conversation Left Open—
Ecclesiastical Authorities Require Certificates—Staffordshire Regiment For Ulster.

WHAT FOR LLOYD GEORGE GOV- ERNMENT.

LONDON, May 18. The government was defeated in the House tonight by a vote of 151 to 103 on a motion for adjournment introduced during the discussion of the "Supernumeration Bill," designed to give effect to some of the recommendations of the Economy Committee, headed by Sir Eric Geddes, following the defeat of the Government, Austen Chamberlain immediately introduced the House adjournment amid a clamor for resignation. What view the government will take of this defeat by a narrow majority will probably not be known until Lloyd George has been re-nominated. The question in-duced, namely, whether the teachers will contribute to the Superannuation Fund, is a minor one and does not necessitate resignation of holders unless the Premier, in view of the difficult position created by the vote of events at the Genoa Conference, should think it advisable to take this course.

NOT THE LAST WORD.

GENOA, May 18. become the bride of Pedro Comes Ca-eto, President of the Pedro Exporting Company, of Boston, Havana, and New York, have been temporarily held up by the Ecclesiastical authorities, who insist that Cesto must produce docu-mentary evidence of birth and mem-bership of the Catholic Faith. Senor Cesto, who is a member of a wealthy family in Asturias, Spain, declares he has always been a Catholic, but had since his residence in Boston, neglected to identify himself with any Parish. As the groom has planned a three months' wedding tour in Europe the wedding may take place in New York in time to catch a steamer, on which he said he had engaged a passage.

In Memoriam.

THE LATE THOMAS F. JUDGE.

"Mr. Judge is dead!" Such was the announcement which astounded the town of Grand Falls on Friday morn-ing. It appeared incredible, but so it was and the big strong man, who only a few hours before was enjoying him-self amidst the gay and happy throng at the Fireman's ball, had been sud-denly called and after a few hours passed away, and in the prime of man-hood, dying of acute indigestion. Though somewhat sudden he had the satisfaction of being attended by his friend, Rev. Fr. Finn and the consolation of receiving the last rites of Holy Church.

The late Mr. Judge was the fourth child of Bartholomew and Anne Judge and was born at Biddeford, Maine, U.S.A., on December 14, 1876. Educated at his home town, he graduated from the Biddeford High School in 1894. He then entered the drafting office of the Peperil Machine Co., where he remained till Sept. 1898. From there he went to the University of the State of Maine, graduating as an Electrical Engineer in 1900. After graduation he returned to the Peperil Machine Co. for practical experience of Mechanical Engi-neering. In 1902 he went to the Great Northern Paper Co., as working elec-trician under the supervision of Mr. Nicholson. On the completion of this Mill he was made switch board oper-ator for a short period. He was then recommended by the Chief Electrician to the Laurentide Paper Co., chief electrician of the Province of Quebec, as chief electrician. This position he filled with great credit to the company and honor to himself as a young man. During his time with this company he became associated with George F. Hardy of 309 Broadway, New York. Mr. Hardy is well known as an expert de-signer of Water Powers, Hydro-Elec-tric and Paper Mill building through-out the United States and Canada. Mr. Judge became associated with him as an Electrical Construction Engineer in April 1906. His first work for Mr. Hardy was for the St. Croix Paper Co., of Woodland, Maine. From there he proceeded to Canton, North Carolina, for the Champion Fibre Co., and the Champion Coated Paper Co., of Hamilton, Ohio. On the completion of these mills, he returned to the St. Croix Paper Co., in June 1908, to in-stall the new electrical machinery in the new extension of their plant which he finished in December that year. He then came to the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co., to install the electrical machinery in the immense plant of Grand Falls. After construction, he remained as electrical engineer until 1913. On the retirement of Mr. M. S. Sullivan, he was promoted to the position of Assistant Superintendent, and in 1914 to that of Superintendent, which he held till his death.

From the beginning of his asso-ciation with Mr. Hardy till his death, Mr. Judge acted as consulting and ad-visory engineer for a great many of his projects, besides contributing to several magazines and papers dealing with this department and science. His work as an electrical engineer was unexcelled, but being a very modest man, he eschewed the lime-light, and only those very intimate with him could form an idea of his great ability. His relations with his superiors were most friendly and all Grand Falls to-day sympathize with the re-spected Manager, Mr. Scott, not only on the loss of a very competent Super-intendent but of a close and sympath-etic personal friend as well. To those who have served under him during the past number of years, the loss ap-pears at present to be a calamity.

MISS MARGUERITE K. O'LEARY, of Reading, Pa., who says she has gained eight pounds and can hardly find words to express her praise for Tanlac for the good the medicine did her.

"I am so happy over what Tanlac has done for me. I can hardly find words to express my praise," said Miss Marguerite K. O'Leary, who lives with her parents at 1223 Chestnut St., Reading, Pa. "I wasn't exactly what would be called sick, but for a year I had been all run down and sometimes felt so weak and miserable I could hardly hold up my head. I was so nervous the telephone bell or a door closing would startle me so I would tremble like a leaf. "I needed something to build me up and give me strength and energy, and that is exactly what Tanlac did. It gave me a fine appetite and im-proved my digestion. I gained eight pounds, the color came back to my face, my nerves became normal and I soon felt as well as I ever did in my life. It is simply wonderful that medicine could make such a big change in any one. My friends and neighbors are surprised when they see me now, and no wonder, for I look like a different person. Tanlac is grand and I never intend to miss a chance to say a good word about it." Tanlac is sold by all good drug-gists.

Being human, he was sometimes inclined to anger, but was equally quick to forgive and never allowed resent-ment to influence his judgement or sense of right. Animated with the highest ideals he was just and fair in his dealings with all men. In his capacity of Mill Superintendent he was a tower of strength to the management, and a wise guide and councillor to those serving under him. So much was this the case that it was a recog-nized thing in the town that an em-ployee must have violated his special-ized the Mill rules, if he were not given a second chance, and no right think-ing person but felt he would get fair play from "Tom Judge."

While Mr. Judge was a pious and devout Christian, his charity was un-bounded. Quietly and unostentatiously he gave for God's sake and only the recipients of his bounty new from whom the many comforts came. Being unmarried, he seemed to take all God's poor for his own and the widow of the fatherless became his special charge. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, being Charter Member and Past Grand Knight of Council No. 580 of Millonoke, Maine. From the moment the news of his death was circulated, his house was the centre of crowds of his friends, rich and poor, the poor especially, who came to pay their respects and murmur an Ave for the repose of his soul. The remains were removed from his residence on Sunday and ac-companied by practically the whole population of the town were taken to the Church of the Immaculate Con-ception, where the obsequies were per-formed according to the impressive ritual of the Roman Catholic Church. The funeral procession moved in the following order:—

Members of Notre Dame Council No. 2053 K. of C., Guard of Honor com-posed of the officials of the A. M. D. Co., viz. Messrs. Scott, Laycock, Han-son, Phillip, Gilmore, Berwick, Dor-rity, Gay, and Bethune, and Mr. Lou-sdale of the Bank of Montreal. Next came the Guard of Honour of the Knights of Columbus, viz. Bros. W. A. Shannahan, A. G. Duggan, S. J. Han-naford, Maurice Power, Gregory Kel-ly, and P. J. Griffin. Following these came the hearse attended by a staff of Pall bearers, composed of the faith-ful friends and co-workers who inti-mately and loyally associated with him for so many years. These were:—Messrs. Chas. Shrost, Wm. Brain, P. Deckers, Thos. Murphy, Olaf Olson, Fred Petrie, Jas. Healey and Wm. Mor-row. The remains were followed by his brother Mr. J. H. Judge and his immediate relatives and by the elec-trical workers, followed by every one of the town who could attend. From the church the procession moved to the railway station where, the body lay in state attended by the Brothers of the K. of C., until the arrival of No. 1 express, which conveyed it to his home in Biddeford, Maine. The remains were accompanied to his home by a deputation from Notre Dame Council No. 2053 of Grand Falls.

Such was the passing of a good man who in the performance of his duty, recognized the obligations he owed to full: the loyalty and co-operation to his employers, the justice, fair play, and charity, which was due his em-ployees, and the duty he owed him-self to give the best that was in him for God's sake.

In penning this short sketch, the writer takes occasion to express his sympathy with the friends of the late Mr. Judge as well as his own sense of a personal loss. But "Tempus fugit," "Memento Mori" and when the time comes may we be all as well prepared, so that we may hear, as we feel sure he did, the words:—
"Well done thou good and faith-ful servant. Because thou hast been faithful over few things, I will place thee over many. Enter thou into the joy of the Lord."—M. J. N.

Fads and Fashions.

A great deal of lace drapery is used on skirts of afternoon and evening frocks. Trimmings of Irish crochet and Venetian lace are dyed to match the color of the frocks. Dainty flowered organdies use plain organdie of matching color for panels and sleeves. Some smart little evening frocks of chiffon are trimmed with moules out from cretonne. A great success is promised for the fachu, especially since swish and organdie are in vogue. The bodice of one's evening gown may be fitted, pointed in front and back, and sleeveless. Among the spring hats uncurled or-trich is used with great effect for pom-poms and ornaments. Lemon yellow is very popular for the organdie dresses, often trimmed with royal blue flowers. From Callot is a dress of yellow satin trimmed with brown chantilly, and girdled with a rose ribbon. A new ratine lace, rather heavy and bold in pattern, is used to trim dresses of black crepe de chine. Bead embroideries and garlands of flowers trim frocks of crepe georgette in flame cerise and yellow. Twisted bands of silver tissue finish-ed with bunches of flowers and fruit seem to be a favourite girdle. MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR THE GRIP AND YLU.
