Foot and Mouth Disease.

Boston, Nov. 25. - Although the entire force of inspectors of the Massachusetts cattle commission has been working hard for the past two weeks hoping to stamp out the foot and mouth disease, it was admitted today that the disease had become almost epidemic in this state. Many new cases have been reported in towns of Eastern and Central Massachusetts. The inspectors, as soon as an affected nerd is discovered, at once establish quarantine, and no milk is allowed to he sent away from that herd. The last epidemic in Engand, some 20 years ago, cost that country over $7,-000,000 while it took $5.000,000 to stamp out a similar epidemic in France. The great increase in the number of cases during the past week is causing apprehension among the state officials.

INVESTIGATING TRAGEDY IN PARIS

Was the Death of Mrs. Gore Result of an Accident?

RE-ENACTMENT OF THE SCENE

De Rydzewski, the Suspected Man, Describes the Occurrence Which He Alone Witnessed.

Paris, Nov. 24.-Acting on instructions from the United States State Department to thoroughly investigate the shooting on Wednesday of Mrs. Ellen Gore, Consul-General Gowdy today requested four representative American physicians living in Paris to form a commission, conduct a searching independent autopsy, and report on the circumstances and probabilities of how she met her death. The French officials still hold the body, and numer-ous formalities have to be gone through with before it will be in possession of the undertaker designated by Mr.

The question before the American medical commission are delicate, as their conclusions as to the course of the bullet may conflict with those of the French medical experts. The latter base the accidental theory on the upward range of the bullet, but the American officials believe that an independent autopsy will establish the fact that the range was almost horizontal, thus indicating a direct shot from an aimed weapon. The United States consulate staff is also taking the depositions of witnesses independent of those taken by the French offi-cials. So far this action has not developed any new features, but the depositions furnish a complete and un-prejudiced history of the case, and will be forwarded to the state depart-ment at Washington.

THE TRAGEDY RE-ENACTED. The French officials having the case in their charge decided unexpectedly to hold the "reconstruction" of the scene this afternoon instead of wait-ing until tomorrow. This interesting formality occurred in the room where the tragedy took place. De Rydzewski re-enacted the details of the fatal scene, and submitted to the crossexamination of the officials at every tep. The only persons admitted were the examining magistrate, the com-missary of police, Dr. Socquet, who performed the autopsy; Gastinne Rennette, the expert armorer; De Rydzewski and Lawyer Cruppi.

The representative of Mr. Gowdy, M. Paquet, applied for permission to be present, but the magistrate refused on the ground of requirements of the law. The party arrived at the house at 8 o'clock. De Rydzewski was in a cab, and was accompanied by two police officers. He had handcuffs on. He shielded his face from the gaze of the crowd at the door, and followed by the magistrate and the officers, mounted the stairs to the room on the second floor where the fatal scene was

There is every reason to believe the accused reiterated his story, as first Paris to conduct an independent postore's death was the result of an accident

M. Paquet, in behalf of Mr. Gowdy. applied to the magistrate for possession of the body, and the official ordered that the remains be turned over to the U. S. officials, the only reservation being that they be not removed from the morgue until the second autopsy, owing to the requirements of the French law.

Thereupon the commission of American doctors arranged to perform their autopsy at the morgue tomorrow morning. M. Paquet also requested the magistrate to allow him to inspect the correspondence of De Rydzewski, and that of the deceased, which the French official agreed to do after he had himself finished the inspection of the letters. The American doctors were in consuitation this afternoon with Dr. Socquet, the French expert, whose first autopsy tended to the accident theory. This was due to professional courtesy, before beginning the independent autopsy. Dr. Socquet explained his results and theory, leaving the Americans free to pursue their course. Owing to the time which will be required for the second autopsy the funeral has been postponed until Wednesday. DRAMATIC SCENE.

The tragedy was presented in a dramatic aspect when the French officials took De Rydzewski to the scene of the occurrence that compelled him to re-enact every detail of the affair; this being done under the practice of the French law which requires the reconstruction of the tragedy in the presence of officials under exactly same conditions as it was originally

The chamber was arranged as on the night of the fatality and the same weapon placed in De Rydzewski's hand to act out his version. As far as is known, the prisoner through the ordeal with fortitude, without wavering from his first story of the accidental fall of the revolver. De Rydzewski re-enacted the final scene, giving complete details as to position of Mrs. Gore and him-He said that he was lying on the bed fully dressed while Mrs. was seated at the foot of the bed,

He afterwards left in a cab, escorted by two policemen, who conducted him to the prison, where the necessary formalities attending his discharge from custody were completed.

At the same time the case has assumed an international aspect by the action of Consul-General Gowdy in following out the instructions of the state department at Washington, and oppointing a commission composed of four American doctors residing in mortem examination

THE MAID'S STORY. There is no doubt that a friendship existed between Mrs. Gore and De Rydzewski, in whose apartment the woman met her death, based on their common musical tastes. A friend of the woman expresses the belief that the man had designs on Mrs. Gore's The maid who took care of De Rydzewski's apartments says that on the day of the tragedy she posted telegram to Mrs. Gore, who called shortly afterward.

It is surmised that the telegram anounced that Rydzewski was ill and was unable to keep an appointment and further asked Mrs. Gore to call him. Mrs. Gore did not suspect anything wrong and acceded to the request.

When she arrived at his rooms. Rydzewski, who evidently ignored the freedom allowed to American women and misjudged Mrs. Gore, thought the time was opportune to attempt lib-

Thereupon, according to her friend's theory, Mrs. Gore became terrorstricken and seized a revolver which was lying on a table with the idea of protecting herself. De Rydzewski sought to wrest the revolver from irs. Gore, and in the struggle it was discharged, with the result that the woman was killed.

The friend concludes her theory by saying that Mrs. Gore was the victim of her own imprudence, but lost her life in defense of her virtue.

ONLY ONE WITNESS. When Mrs. Gore reached De Rydzewski's apartments she was muffled in furs and wore a thick veil. What occurred in those rooms the next three-quarters of an hour only De Rydzewski can reveal. Neither Mme. Thevenet, the landlady, nor anyone in the house, heard the slightest sound indicative of a quarrel or a struggle. Then, suddenly, the report of a pistol sounded and De Rydzewski, violently flinging open the door, ran out. His seemed to be starting from head; he was trembling and wildly gesticulating.

"Madam, madam!" he shouted, "Quick! Quick! Oh, my God!" What has happened?" cried the terrified landlady rushing upstairs. The poor girl, the poor girl. She has killed herself," replied the Russian. He gave way to the deepest despair. On his bed lay Mrs. Gore, her feet resting on the floor. She had removed only ner furs, veil and gloves. She wore even her hat. Her beautiful face was covered with blood, which flowed from a wound immediately above the right eye. On the floor between the bed and a night table lay a hand-somely mounted revolver of large caliber.

THE CZAR RULED BY A HYPNOTIST

An American Mesmerist Has Great Influence Over Him.

NICHOLAS MCODY, DISGUSTED

Czar and Czarina Said To Be Victims of Nervous Diseases With Peryerted Views of Life.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25. - It has been learned that the recent summoning of Dr. Merzhievsky, one of the foremost specialists in nervous diseases, to the south of Russia, which gives rise to the report that he was going to attend the Czar or the Czarina, or both, their majesties having in turn been alleged to be suffering from melancholia, was to visit Balaklava, where Grand Duke Nicholai Konstantinovitch is detained as insane.

Some observers of the situation do not believe the accession of Grand Duke Vladimir, uncle of the Czar, to the throne, in the event of the Czar's abdication, and the death of his brother, Grand Duke Michael, heir-presumptive, would be unpopular, and they do not credit the reports that the advent to supreme power of the Vladimir family would materially alter the existing state of affairs, as the masses are ignorant in regard to every czar's true character, and the educated people attach merely subordinate import-

The latest reports about Philipp, a mesmerist, who is said to have the Czar completely under his influence, are that he is a former French physician, a naturalized American, and that he has been in Russia for about a year, living in the homes of two Mon-tenegrin princesses, who married Russians. It is added that the Czar grant-ed Philipp the right to practice medi-cine in Russia and to wear the epaulettes of a military surgeon of the rank of a councilor of state, which equals that of a general.

It is asserted that Dr. Ott, court physician, went to Livadia, and persuaded the Czar to forbid Philipp to practice on the Czarina, and the departure of the ministers. ters of war, of the interior, and of finance from Livadia was interpreted as a sign that Philipp's influence was broken. It is also said these minis-ters jointly presented a report to his majesty discrediting Philipp, that the Czar defended Philipp and resented what he classed as interference with his personal affairs, but finally yield-this is looked upon in some quarters as evidence that the optimistic statements on the subject of the Czar's mental condition require limitation. Numerous persons who have returned from Livadia within the past three days assert that the Czar has been moody and disgusted because his early hopes of introducing a happier regime in Russia were frustrated by the reacwhose intimidation imposed a distasteful role upon him. His majesty was also said to be in genuine fear that his abdication would be demanded, which was strengthened by sudden return of Grand Duke Michael and the latter's demonstrative public appearances. Persons knowing the Czar assert that if he was forced to choose between the domestic happiness he would abdicate.

The acceptance of the lucrative but unimportant administratorship of Apanages by the Czar's bosom friend, Prince Obolensky, is interpreted as "going to cover" before possible before possible changes which might destroy the value of his personal influence. In any case the minister's departure from Livadia possibly indicates that the crisis is past.

But by using the proper remedies it can be driven from the system, never to return. To obtain immediate relief, first apply to painful parts a good quantity of Polson's Nerviline, and then bind on a hot flannel cloth. This local treatment will be found very efficacious, but must be followed by a course of Ferrozone treatment. Ferrozone is a blood food, and a blood purifier, and quickly strengthens the system so that further attacks may never be feared. It makes the rich red kind of blood that gives strength and vigor to weak constitutions and puts them in good shape to resist neu ralgia attacks.

This combined treatment of Nerviline and Ferrozone in Neuralgia, Sciatica, and Rheumatism, is marvelously effective, and cures after all else has failed. Because of the unique success of these remedies we have no hesitancy in indorsing their use to our readers All druggists sell them.
