Miss Booth of the salvation army is exhorting in Paris. The French reporters are not unanimous in their appreciation of her personal appearance, which they seem to regard as a more important matter than her teaching. The profits of ostrich farming in South Africa have interested capital in India as well as in Europe, and a number of fine birds have lately been shipped from Port Elizabeth for Madris. Each bird has its own pen, from twelve to fifteen feet square, in which it was swung from the dock to the hold of the vessel. The London Globe remarks that although the demand for ostrich feathers is, after all, strictly limited, and a change of fashion may at any time ruin the business, the price has not yet been lowered in any appreciable degree by the great increase in the supply consequent upon systematic ostrich farming.

Her majesty's consul at Batoum, in a recent report, mentions that some rich ores of copper in the upper valleys of Tehorokh, Morgouli, etc., have lately attracted special attention of government mining engineers and private speculators. Ores of lead and silver have also been discovered. Judging by the remnants of very old and primitive smelting furnaces, and numerous pieces of slag met on the spot where the copper veins have been discovered, it is believed that this metal had been extensively mined and smelted there in ancient times. The defense of Switzerland against foreign aggression, which has long been a burning question in Swiss military circles, is like'y to be greatly facilitated by the use of earth torpedoes, the invention of an Austrian officer. These torpedoes, which are now being experimentally tested by order of the federal council, can be placed underground and disposed behind rocks in such a way as to render roads dangerous and mountain passes impregnable. They may either be exploded at any given time or so arranged as to go off the moment they are disturbed, and their destructive energy is much greater than that of the most powerfully-charged mines. The secret of the invention has been purchased by the Austrian government, who have, however, consented to let the inventor supply Switzerland with as many of his torpedoes as she may require.

real point at issue is now beginning to appear. On the one hand it is admitted that the dike which has been constructed from the mainland by the ministry of public works need not really imperil the safety of the buildings, for these could be easily protected by some additional buttresses; but on the other hand it is confessed that the dike is only the thin end of the wedge, and that the real object of the department is 10 gradually reclaim the whole of the gieve, 35,000 acres in extent, just as the neighboring marshes of Dol have already been reclaimed. The famous mount would then raise its towers and spires above "a sea of corn, now green, now gold, alive with men and beasts of burden, and even traversed perhaps by a railway;" moreover the work would really be one of "restoration," for there was no deubt a time when the sea had not submerged the ground between the there was no doubt a time when the sea had not submerged the ground between the mount and the mainland. All this, however, fails to convince the "unpractical dreamers" in the ministry of fine arts, who claim the custody of Mount St. Michel as a historical monument, and declare that its incorporation with the mainland would destroy its merit. One may at any rate had stroy its merit. One may at any rate be glad that the incorporation, for which there is certainly a great deal to be said, had not been carried out before Clarkson Stanfield's drawing and Mr. Haig's etching.

The Norwich, Conn., Bulletin makes the very plausible suggestion that Mr. Moncure D. Conway errs in his letter from Stratford-on-Avon to the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, that Shakespeare's wife married again after his death. Mr. Conway says:
"Neither Haliwell nor any other Shakespearean writer makes mention of the fol-lowing very remarkable fact. In the old register of burials kept in the church, where I have just inspected it, there is the following double entry:

Aug. 8. Mrs. Shakespeare.
Anna uxor Richardi James. There could hardly be plainer evidence that the widow of Shakespeare had married one Richard James after the poet's death." Rather may it be supposed that a possibly indolent clerk entered two deaths occurring in the parish on the same day under one date.

Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern medicine has been attained by the Dixon treatment for catarrh. Out of two thousand patients treated during the pool six months fully ninety per cent have been curred of this stubborn malady. This is mone the less start ling when it is remembered that not five per cent of patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefited, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most scientific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissue, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his cure to their extermination—this accomplished, he claims the catarrh is practically cured and the permanency is uniquestioned, as cures effected by his two years ago are cures still. No one cles has ever attempted to cure catarrh in this manuer, and no other treatment has ever cured catarrh. The application of the remedy and permanent cure, the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Sufferers should correspond with Mr. A. H. Dixon, 305 and 307 King street west, Toronto, Canada, and enclose stamp for his treatise on catarrh.

If so, don't delay too long. We have cured hundreds of patients suffering from consumption, bronchitis, laryngitis, asthms, catarrh and catarrhal deafness, who could not have been helped had they delayed one month longer. And we have refused treatment to over 100 cases during the last year who delayed one month too long. By the use of cold inhalations conveyed to the diseased parts: by the spiromoter, the wonde ful invention of 1r. M. Souvielle, of Paris, ex-aide surgeon of the French army, and other proper local and constitutional treatment we are curing thousands of cases of the above named diseases every year. Write, enclosing stamp for list of questions and copy of International News, published monthly, which will give you ful information and reliable references. The ÆTNA LIFE'S Canadian membership accounts for 10,090 of the whole, and its year's increase was 1,003, or nearly one-sixth of the whole increase.

The extraordinary increase in the ÆTNA'S business throughout the Dominion is an evidence that it meets a public want, viz: Life Insurance of the most select character, furnished by means of annual cash dividends at NET COST PRICE. Every Life Policy it issues with profits is Non-forfeitable after three years, and every Endowment Policy after 2 years, and all secured by full deposit of the Reserve at Ottawa.
