A Notable Address.

Canon Powell made a notable address. Truth was the intelligence, he said, of the whole race. The greatest hospitality we could have was the mospitality of the mind. The secret of God was truth, the burden of the church, the strength of the findividual and the welfare of the nation was amused by the clever and droll allusions. Great laughter occurred over the oration introducing hospitality we could have was the hostruth. He welcomed the Bishop of sions. Great laughter occurred over London, as one who had given all his powers to disseminate truth. When Dominam Emeliam Cummings for the they thought of what had been done to make truth permanent, they thought of Scotland, was his compliment to the Bishop of Glasgow.

erybody doffed hats, hundreds waved them in the air, and such was the enthusiasm that, when Gen. Wilson with Brig.-Gen. J. S. Maxwell of Florida, and Capt. Read of Goldcoast, moved down to inspect the regiment, a regular wave of cheering burst spontaneously from along the line.

Afterwards, to The World, Gen. Wilson expressed warm appreciation of the welcome extended to himself and his regiment in Toronto, and said that all are delighted with their visit.

"I feel confident," he added, "that our sojourn in Toronto and the hearty reception and manifold courtesies we have received at the hands of Canadians at large, cannot but be conducive to more friendly relations between the United States and Canada. And it will ever be a source of gratification to ever be a source of gratification to me to know that I have been instru-mental in anything tending to this

Gen. Wilson will leave Toronto this morning at 9 o'clock. His soldiers, however, will stay over till to-morrow. A prominent visitor yesterday was Brig.-Gen. J. S. Maxwell, commanding officer of the National Guards of Florida. He is the guest of the 3rd Regiment in Camp Otter. The general says he has been greatly surprised at what he has seen of this country. He had no idea of its resources.

"I have often heard Canadians at home boost Canada," he said, "but their praises are away under the mark." As for the exhibition, he thinks there is nothing like it on the globe.

To-Morrow's Program.

To-Morrow's Program.

The exhibition program for Saturday is one that should bring out by far the largest crowd which has ever been present on the closing day of the fair. In the afternoon before the grandstand there is to be a big card of athletic events, including the Foster Marathon of 15 miles, open to the continent, and a walking contest for the world's championship between George Goulding, the Canadian champion, and E. J. Webb, champion of England and Europe. The postponed labor day sports will also be held.

At night, after the grand stand show is over the massed bands, including the Grenadier Guards, will give a concert on the plaza. It will be in the nature of a send off to the Guards, and patriotic airs wil run riot.

The finest pyrotechnical display ever presented at the exhibition will be given before the stand. The supply not used Monday will be added to the usual portion.

Langraf of Hesse, a cousin of Emperor William of Germany, will be a visitor. He is hereditary king of the German Kingdom of Hesse, and is on a tour of Canada.

and was followed by his family in October. They went to live at 127 Duchess-street, and there they were visited by the priest, whose conduct was proper enough until the child's face broke out in a rash some time after Christmas, when he took her to St. Michael's Hospital, and was given a salve, which he told the mother the doctor had said that he must apply. He then called daily at the house and took the girl to her room to treat her, and also to teach her geography and other subjects.

During the summer, Josiak asked the mother, so she says, to let the lit-tle girl live with him, as he was very fond of her. She refused and forbade him to visit the house, but he persisted. At last she heard that Peter Strabeen living at St. Michael's Palace, in Church-street, is being sought by the police, who hold a warrant for his arrest upon a charge of carnally knowing Sophia Sumovski, 127 Duchess-street, a girl under 16 years of age. Al yesterday the police were searching for him, but he was not located, tho it was learned that he was in the city on Monday. It has been given out that Father Jasiak has gone on a vacation. The story came to light at a meeting of the Polish parish a week ago Sunday at which Frank Czakowski, 76 Uxbridge-avenue, told what he had heard, and John F. Kobylanski, 210 East Queen-street, Polish interpreter in the police court, was appointed to investigate.

Him to visit the house, but he persisted. At last she heard that Peter Stravarz, who with others lives in the heard seen the little girl in her room with her tutor, minus his coat and shoes, sitting beside her.

The mother was taken to Mr. Corley by Mr. Adalia, police court interpreter, last Thursday. The next day the girl was taken before him and on Saturday merning they also took Peter Stravarz before him. They were told to go to Vicar general McCann, which they did on Saturday afternoon. Jennie, a sister, 20 years of age, bright and intelligent, who was a student in Poland and who speaks English and French, acted as interpreter. She says he tried to discourage them from taking action, saying that it would bring worry and trouble upon them before it was cleared up, but that they might do as they liked about it.

He went to the girl's mother, who said it was true, but that she was nelpless, as she was poor and did not speak the English language. Her story has since been confirmed by the child herself, and told to Crown Attorney Corley, Staff Inspector Kennedy, Mgr. McCann and Father Whalen.

The family came to Chicago from Poland about three years ago, and from there to Quo Vadis, a Pollah colony near Escatawpa, Alta, and were there some months before Father Jasiak arrived. The little girl and he became friendly, but the mother's suspicions she says, were not aroused until they had returned to Chicago, when she heard that Father Jasiak had been implicated with a 10-year-old girl in Aiabama, after they had left. She questioned the child, whose admissions were confirmed by a medical examination.

makes it plai a that the gains are more substantial than first appeared. On points whereon the award was stated to have gone in favor of the United States there are qualifications, which give Newfoundland what British diplomacy claimed for her.

The Telegraph heartily admires the pluck of Newfoundland in standing up to her huge neighbour, but after all, if Britain were not behind Newfoundland, her protests would have been overridden. The Telegraph regards the settlement of the controversy as the greatest triumph of international arbitration.

Mackenzie King was present during the reading of the award, and said it seemed quite satisfactory. The Most Important Point.

UTICA, Sept. 8.—Senator Elihu Root arrived at his summer home in Clinton to-day, after a strenuous summer spent in Europe. Asked regarding the dispute before The Hague tribunal between representatives of England and the United States regarding fisheries, Senator Root would only say this: "The first question submitted, which concerns the establishment of boundary lines, and which was decided in favor of the British, is by far the most important, the meaning of the other questions being evident from their construction."
