MR. SUBBUBS GETS WATER MR. CITIMAN IS REFUSED

Same Thing Applies to Gas and Residents of Danforth Avenue Are Kicking—Stops Builders.

People out on the Danforth-road are wondering at a curious state of affairs that is said to be existent in that part of the city at the present time. They claim that several persons between Pape and Logan-avenues have several times applied for gas and watr connections, and are unabel to get it. On the other hand the claim is made that Henry Frankland, who lives on the other side of the road and hence is outside the city limitz, has been able to get gas and water.

Several persons who have had an eye to building in that part of the city claim that they do not care to enter upon operations until something definite has been done in the matter.

Sewerage is another form of rankling discontent among the residents there. They claim that little or no attention is paid to their wants. The Rev. Mr. McFayden and a Mr. Graham, who live in the vicinity, have time after time applied for sewerage, and have at last been forced to have cess pools dug upon their grounds. The cellar damp in their homes, instead of being carried off as it should, is pumped out by the old fashioned method of the pump.

The matter has been under the observation of several prominent men of this vicinity, and they claim unless some notice is made of their wants they will call an indignation meeting and bring the matter to the attention of those in authority in that manner.

SUICIDES WITH DYNAMITE.

Wrecked House in Endeavor to Kill His Whole Family.

New York, June 4.—After a quarrel with his wife in their cottage at Evergreens, Queen's County, to-day, John Zeller, a well-digger, went out, threatening to return and blow up the whole family.

When he was seen coming back a little later, carrying what appeared to be a stick of dynamite, Mrs. Zeller fled out of the back door. A moment later an explosion took place, completely wrecking the house.

Zeller's mangled body was found in the ruins. His son John, who was in the house when the explosion occurred, escaped with slight injuries.

ROAST FOR ROCKEFELLER
LUCKY NOT TO BE IN JAIL.

Princeton, N.J., June 4.—In the course of a sermon on Christian morality before the Princeton students today, President Patton of Princeton Theological Seminary said:

"I hate to see a cold-blooded, right-living rascal, who has his $40,000,000 and can teach Sunday school regularly and drive his hard bargain every week, always keeping just within the range of the law. If I were asked what I thought of such a man, I would say he was lucky not to be in jail."

Mrs. Smith, DeGrassi St.

Felt That She Was Growing Old Very Fast Until She Had Her Health Restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. H. Smith, 33 DeGrassi-street, Toronto, states:

"I am getting up in years, and during the last two seasons found myself growing more weak and nervous all the time. I could not rest or sleep well and had bad attacks of headache. It made me feel that I was growing old very fast, for I did not feel at all well and seemed to lack energy and ambition.

"I have used altogether six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and consider it an excellent treatment for building up the system. My nerves have been wonderfully toned up; I am no longer troubled with headache and I rest and sleep splendidly. The general improvement in my health has been most gratifying and I strongly recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This remedy is so gentle in action that I gave some to my little granddaughter with excellent results."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CLAMOR FOR FUNERAL MARCH RIOT AND PANIC ENSUE

Police With Sabres and Troops With Rifles Stampede Crowd Protesting Against War.

St. Petersburg June 4.—At a great demonstration this evening in the Pavlovsk Gardens, near Tsarskoe Selo, the five thousands persons present clamored for a funeral march in memory of the Russian sailors who had lost their lives in the naval disaster in the sea of Japan. The members of the orchestra became alarmed and fled from the platform, when M. Novikoff, former mayor of Baku, rose and said: "Let us all by rising show respect for the victims. Down with the war. We have had enough of blood."

Some eighty policemen entered from either side of the hall and elbowed their way thru the crowd toward M. Novikoff, whereupon cries were raised of "Let us attack the police." Chairs were seized and hurled at the police, the crowd being led by a colonel with a drawn sword. The policemen fled. Order being restored a number of speeches were delivered on the national crisis. Suddenly the police, reinforced to between 200 and 300, again invaded the hall and rushed on the audience with drawn swords.

The people defended themselves with chairs and sticks, but after ten minutes were driven from the hall into the gardens, where there was a battalion of tirailleurs, who raised their rifles to their shoulders preliminary to the order to fire being given causing a panic. The public fled toward the exits and finding them closed smashed the doors and windows of the hall and so gained the street. Many persons were injured, some so seriously that they had to be taken to a hospital.

M. Novikoff was arrested and the gardens were occupied by police and Cossacks. A strong military force was placed on the road leading from Pavlovsk to Tsarkoe Selo and to St. Petersburg and at the railway stations.

Pavlovsk is 19 miles from St. Petersburg and is a summer resort for the inhabitants of the capital.

NEW ARMY AND A NEW FLEET SUCH IS CZAR'S ORDERS

Ignores the Popular Feeling—Is Afraid to Bring Back Disaffected Troops.

New York, June 4.—The Sun has the following cable from London:

The destruction of Russia'd navy will not bring the war to an end, and it may even prolong the conflict. The world has not yet learned that the laws of logic and sanity, much less of humane motives, do not control the Russian policy. No method exists for bringing to bear the popular will upon the emperor in a manner that would shake the influence of his present mentors. His decision to continue the war will of course mark him as the next victim of assassination, but the chances of a violent plot are extremely remote. The precautions for his personal safety so long as he remains in his present retreat are so complete that it is almost impossible to overcome them. Doubtless the time will come when true Russia will assert herself and throw off the present tyranny. It will be the bloodiest day in the world's history. None can say how far distant it may be. It will come suddenly and its time of coming depends on the rapidity of the spread of disaffection among the troops which unquestionably has begun.

Gen. Linevitch's desperate action in shooting several hundred officers and men for disseminating seditious literature is of terrific significance. This is a new danger to the autocracy, and the next great defeat which is impending in Manchuria will hasten the crisis.

One reason, it is understood, which has strongly influenced the czar in deciding to prosecute the war was the danger involved in bringing home the disaffected troops in Manchuria and scattering them among the populace of the empire at harvest time.

It is fairly clear on the whole that his own subjects will not force the czar to make peace within a matter of days or weeks, altho an indefinite prolongation of the war would assuredly bring not only peace with Japan, but a violent end of the Romanoff dynasty.

Foreign Intervention.

There remains the question of foreign intervention, friendly or otherwise. It is undoubtedly to the best interests of the world at large, and to each nation individually, with the possible exception of the kaiser's bold ambitions, that peace be proclaimed at the earliest possible moment.

The necessity for prompt action is clearly shown by the following despatch from St. Petersburg, which demonstrates the full determination of the czar to pursue indefinitely the path to destruction.

"Both the war office and the admiralty have been instructed to commence efforts for increasing the forces and continuing the campaign. An order will be issued at once to call out 200,000 more men for service in Manchuria and the government shipyards on the Baltic have been ordered to lay down a new fleet.

"The construction committee of the admiralty council has reported to the emperor in favor of a scheme for building twice and a half the number of vessels lost in the present war in fifteen years. Each division is to be completed in a period of three years.

Lots to Learn.

"A great majority of the naval architects are using their utmost endeavors against the sudden adoption of this scheme. They ask the admiralty to wait until the lessons of construction that may be learned from the battle of the Japan Sea can be studied.

"The point to the great fact that the battleships Retvizan and Czarevitch, which were constructed abroad, were attacked times without number by torpedoes and shells at Port Arthur, and yet they are even now afloat, while Admiral Rojestvensky's ships, which were built at St. Petersburg and Libau, were sunk in a few hours. Experts declare that the latest built battleships at St. Petersburg were formidable only on paper. The elementary rules of naval construction were not observed."

There is great interest in the meeting at Moscow on Monday of the moderate reform party under the presidency of M. Shipoff. About 150 delegates from thirty of the thirty-four provinces will be present. The meeting will discuss national representation and the war.

A Give-Away.

The exact position of the government on the internal question is stated in the following announcement in The Official Messenger:

"The formulation of preliminary consideration for a basis on which a rescript for summoning delegates from the people to participate in the preliminary work on legislative projects is finished and these considerations will be submitted to the council of ministers."

The foregoing is regarded as an evidence of the unreality of the government's intention and an angered public is now looking to Moscow to lead national opinion.

FRUIT FARMING IN CUBA WILL BE A MONEY MAKER

So Thinks Robert MacWilliams, Late Wheat Farmer, Now Fruit Farmer, Back From Cuba.

A few days ago there returned to the city one of the Canadian pioneers of widespread movement for the colonization of the fruit areas of Cuba, in the person of Robert C. MacWilliams.

Mr. MacWilliams is enthusiastic over the prospects in Cuba and will be at home just long enough to settle his affairs here.

"I have been all thru the country in the Pinar del Rio Province, where my plantation is located," said Mr. MacWilliams to a World man. "I am taking my land from the Canada and Cuba Land Company, who own 70,000 acres in the Pinar del Rio district. I have just returned from an extended tour of the exploration and colonization camps in the district.

"You see the country is to all intents and purposes a new one. There are a few native plantations to the northeast of the Laguna Grande, the big lake in the centre of the Canada and Cuba Company's property, but the white settlers will not come until the fall. The camps are chiefly peopled by surveyors and their helpers. They have mapped the country out into blocks.

"As to the land, it is splendidly adapted to the crops expected. It is a light loam and thruout the whole province it is giving excellent results in the cultivation of pineapples, lemons, oranges, limes and tobacco. The native plantations are perfect gardens and not only are they producing tropical fruits, but all the home vegetables can be seen there. The kitchen gardens cannot be surpassed in our own land. The eastern end of the island is being settled by the American colonists, and from what I could see their plantations are proving very successful.

"The Canadian contingent has not arrived yet, but a big influx will come this fall, for many have signified their intention of going at that time. The average plantation is about 40 acres in extent and the facilities for travel are being rapidly put in.

"The landing point will be at Ocean Beach, the new town on Guadiana Bay. It is a beautiful town site on a peninsula with a harbor at one side. The main street mapped out is the Prado and the other streets are so laid as to strike it diagonally on each side. It is on the highlands and overlooks the gulf. The steamers are calling there regularly now with supplies for the company's workmen and surveyors. At present there is a boat meets them to take off passengers and goods, but a wharf is being built in the harbor and it will be finished this month."

"What does the country look like?"

"Well, it's like any other country. It is well up above the sea and the temperature is very good. It is warm and dry, but there are no extremes in temperature. People who have been there for years tell me that they have never been sick a day. The country is covered with heavy grass and trees, sparsely scattered or in groves. There is very thicket or brush.

"The settlers in the other part of the province like it immensely. They have had to build their own houses and master the art of fruit farming, but they say it is easy to learn, for things grow almost of themselves."

"How about the complaints that the country is no good?" was asked.

"Oh, you'll find that in every country where people go expecting something for nothing. The men who have kicked are fellows who went there expecting to lie under the trees and have the trees bear fruit and ship it themselves. They are like the Englishmen who expected to come to Canada and pick gold on the streets. A lot of them have come home disgusted, but that class of people does not count anyway.

"I have taken up a plantation there and I will go back in the fall to settle down to fruit farming. Other people have made a success of it and I think I can."

Joyous Robust Health For Old Folks

The Burden of Advancing Years With Frailty and Weakness Lifted by Ferrozone.

As old age creeps on the appetite falls off. Food is no longer satisfying or nourishing. The nerves seem tired and exhausted. Sleep is hard to obtain. Morning tiredness is ever present, nerve force is burnt out.

For instilling into old folks the fire and snap of youth, nothing can surpass Ferrozone, which nourishes the vital forces of the body back to robust health. The cheeks redden and the form fills out, proving that weight is being added.

With Ferrozone you get well—keep well—debility and weakness forever depart, as in the case of Mrs. Jennie L. Cameron, Upper Hampstead, N.B., who writes:

"Last spring I was seized with nervous weakness. I was completely fagged out through sleepless nights and long days of restless uneasiness. My appetite failed and I didn't care whether I ate or not. I seemed to be sick and ailing in every organ of my body. Headaches and neuralgia became very frequent and attacks of rheumatism occurred quite often.

"I had about given up hope of being well when I read of the recovery of Mrs. Cross, who was cured by Ferrozone. I bless the day I heard of this grand remedy. It invigorated me in a few days. I gained steadily in weight, my color returned, my nerve power increased and slowly but surely Ferrozone nourished me back to health. Since using Ferrozone I haven't had a single day's illness.

"(Signed) Jennie L. Cameron."

Special notice: Ferrozone is not a stimulant to temporarily uplift the spirits. It cures by Nature's way—nourishing and feeding the weakened body. Beware of substitutes. Ferrozone costs 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers or N. C. Polson & Co., Hartford, Conn. U.S.A., and Kingston, Ont.

BAD TO WORSE

worthy of answer. But these gentlemen, in striving to make you believe and understand this to be a perpetuation of a school system, are deceiving you and they know they are deceiving you, because there are no such words in the act." The legislation proposed in the amended section he designated in the same way. "The only thing that is a necessity is the keeping of separate schools in the Northwest forever," flatly declared Mr. Borden. "I am not speaking for or against separate schools, but I do say that it is for the people of the Northwest to decide that question."

Bad to Worse.

Mr. Sifton had gone out, and he had come back again, because the draftsman of whom he had spoken somewhat contemptuously made some amendments.

"But I contend, and intend to speak upon it in the house," said Mr. Borden, "that section 16, number two, upon which Mr. Sifton came back, is worse than section 16, number one, upon which he went out." (Loud applause.) Mr. Borden said he would deal with this phase of the question only briefly, because the matter was plain. The essential features which Mr. Sifton declared to be outrageous in the original section 16 had been acquiesced in by every one of his colleagues in the cabinet. It contained two essential features. One was the inclusion by reference and by direct enactment of the statute of 1875. This declared that separate schools should be continued in the new provinces exactly as they had been under the temporary form of government.

"Remember," said Mr. Borden, "that the territories did not make this law. And yet they talk about the school system made by the territories. The thing they are continuing is not the act of the territories. The separate schools were imposed in 1875 by the parliament of Canada while they were yet territories. The limitation that imposes separate schools in section 16, No. 1, is the same that imposes separate schools in section 16, No. 2.

Wording Alone Different.

"You have the act of 1875 in No. 1, upon which Mr. Sifton went out," said Mr. Borden. "In No. 2 you find there is imposed upon the people of these provinces forever a system of separate schools. Can you understand the attitude of a man who went out on No. 1 and came back on No. 2?" asked the speaker. In the appropriation of public moneys there was established no discrimination between separate and public schools. Mr. Sifton went out on this and thought it was wrong. But section No. 2 declared there should be no discrimination. "The two sections are precisely the same," Mr. Borden said, except as to the wording. The result is exactly the same. The reason of Mr. Sifton's going out might remain a mystery, but the reason of his return, and the reason that certain other ministers have swallowed the principles for which they stood ten years ago, is explained in Mr. Fielding's statement that the King's government must be carried on.

The Battle Cry.

"Our motto, our battle cry, is 'Hands off provincial rights. Respect the rights of the people of Western Canada. Impose no unwarranted laws upon the people of the provinces. Respect the constitution. Leave matters of a local character to be dealt with by the local government.' And let me say to you people of London the eyes of all Canada are upon you at this time.

"For nearly two weeks we have not touched that autonomy bill in the house. The government of Canada is marking time. We must assume, we have the right to assume, that they are waiting for the verdict of London and North Oxford. The responsibility up to this time has been upon us of the parliament of Canada, and especially upon those who have thought that the legislation was not right and should be opposed. But do not forget that the responsibility is now transferred from parliament to the electors of London and North Oxford.

"Do you say your verdict will be of no consequence? Don't believe one word of it. Ask Mr. Fielding and Mr. Paterson whether or not they will respect your verdict. I challenge them to answer that.

Waiting for the Verdict.

"They are waiting for the verdict at the present time. What I tell you is supported by the new minister of the interior. When he discussed this question in the Northwest he said: 'The bill has been amended once, and it may be amended again.' I say to you tonight that the bill has been amended once, and it may be amended again. And whether or not it shall be amended in that direction which all lovers of the constitution desire depends very much upon the verdict which London will give on the 13th of June.

"And if the signs of the times fail not, that verdict shall be a verdict of disapproval, as evidenced by the triumphal return of my friend, Mr. Gray."
