"Anyone watching the labor parade yesterday will know now that the stories circulated about men going back have no foundation. Of the 150 men brought out from Glasgow in the Lake Erie some are professional bums, while others claim to have been hired under false representation. Thirty of them came to the picket headquarters Sunday night and told of how the company had deceived them. They were to come back again this evening, bringing the whole force over, and said the watchman had orders not to let any out of the enclosure.

A feature of the meeting was the speech of ex-Reeve George Syme of York Township, logical and clear-cut, and in the main favorable to annexation, and which, with that of Mr. Gilchrist, was a powerful factor in determining the clearing up many misapprehensions.

An amendment favoring the appointment of a committee to interview the board of control re annexation was unanimously adopted. The committee are: A. Gilchrist, R. Waddell, George Smythe, sr., Joseph Raybould, S. Clouston, H. Durant and William Hall.

"Possibly one of the most difficult of his duties is the detection and unof his duties is the detection and un-earthing of various schemes, often intricate, in connection with the fraudulent use of the mails, which has become so prevalent of late years. An array of schemers, and fakirs are ever ready to operate thru the mails on unsuspecting individuals, and the pub-lic look to the postoffice inspectors to protect them from such impostors. For the prosecution of these men whon the laws gets a grip on them, the inspector has to procure evidence and get it in proper form that the prosecution may be effective when it comes before the courts. This, as you will see, entails a good knowledge of the rules of evidence that the efforts of lawyers for the defence may be successfully compared.
