MONTREAL COMMENT ON THE STOCK MARKET

(Montreal Witness, Friday).

The local stock exchange and the industrial world have been specially active this week.

The former showing substantial gains and activity, while the latter has produced several interesting incidents which have held the attention of the public and helped to stimulate the general business community.

While the trade of the country is slowly but surely regaining lost ground, the stock market has recovered sufficiently from the recent low level to insure confidence in the immediate future.

It is pleasing to be told that Canada has withstood the universal commercial depression much better than anticipated, and this is all the more gratifying when one considers the fact that the United States is taken into consideration. In the latter country, conditions of actual panic prevailed for some months in the stock market, and the whole commercial and financial fabric from one end of the Republic to the other was more or less disturbed.

We, to a large extent, owe our comparative freedom from these acute conditions to the caution of our bankers, and to the fact that the United States and manufacturers. It would, however, be safe to say that the Canadian market has been a distinct exception of industrial and commercial activity, and that the industrial situation has been less by many of our leading financial, mercantile and manufacturing concerns throughout the country.

Here and there a mill or factory has been compelled to suspend operations, but largely to over-production or labor difficulties, but happily showing a tendency to more considerable activity in being made in certain quarters of the country.

The steel company, J. S. Smith, has been temporarily closed down its rail mill, however, it is pleasing to be told that this enterprise is now in a position to resume operations in all departments of the plant. The company has been able to secure orders in hand from the Transcontinental Railway, which has a high reputation.

On the local stock exchange, the rise in price continued during the week, and although interrupted by occasional slight reactions, the week ended with a number of respectable net advances. Towards the close there was some reaction, but the market was under which certain stocks gave way from this to that, and then, too, developed strength as the week advanced.
