A Million a Minute

A Romance of Modern New York and Paris
By Hudson Douglas

She swept towards the door, her cap astir, and her indignation, and her sister followed without further speech. It was only thus that they could express their strong disapproval of this very vulgar person, and, since there was seemingly no more to be learned from them, he did not wait for a servant to show him downstairs, but followed them himself. A photograph caught his eye as he passed the piano, and his quick examination at sight of it caused Miss Jane to face about on the threshold with inconvenient results to Sophia, hard at her heels.

"Who's this?" Seager asked, picking up the portrait while Miss Sophia was backing off the train of her sister's skirt. She looked around, still more at ease.

"Why that's Miss Quintance," she answered involuntarily, on her own unadvised responsibility.

"Pshaw!" whistled Seager, and the corners of his eyes wrinkled in a smile of delighted amazement. Curiosity as to the cause induced the sisters to linger, irresol-utely.

"Then I can tell you where Miss Quintan-ce is. She's in New York. I saw her there not forty-eight hours before I started for this side, and I didn't know who she was. Guess I'm not that a fierce thing to happen one?"

"I've never seen either her or my uncle, you see," he went on, in response to their looks of bewilderment. "I've spent most of my time abroad for many years past, and only heard of my uncle's death while I was in Africa. I didn't even know that he had adopted that, and had a daughter.
But I hurried home, and, as soon as I reached New York, I wrote my lawyer in San Francisco to let me have her address."

"You sent me here. I must see her at once, in connection with this estate, in which she, of course, has a large interest, but on conditions which only I can make clear to her."

"You can understand, therefore, how he affected me to hear that she had left you.
All the trouble I've taken on her behalf thrown away, and—Will you do me the very great favor to let me have this photo?"

"Miss Jane did not feel very sure that she should comply with such a request, but Miss Sophia's imagination had been fired by the hint of inheritance, and she thought that, if it would help the girl, whom she had been very fond in her madish way, to any rights in her behalf, they need not scruple to part with the photograph."

"There is your copy upstairs, Jane," she once more took the initiative.

"That one is mine, Mr. Quintance," she said to Seager, "and I shall be pleased to let you have it, on Miss Quintance's account."

"You're very good," he assured her, and his more pleasant tone did not fail to have its effect.

"Miss Quintance is a sweet girl," he added. "When you see her you will please give her my love."

"Gladly," responded Seager, bowing with great outward deference, and held the door for them while they passed from the room. In the hall he expressed more professing thanks for their kindness and civility, finally taking himself off under much more agreeable auspices than those which had marked the earlier stages of the interview.

"Gentlemen from America are sometimes so—so unusual," Miss Sophia commented forgivingly as she closed the door behind him. "But it must be a very rough place in parts, especially in the cannel-beef districts where all those dreadful exposures came from. I think he has a good heart under his harsh exterior."

"Humph!" sniffed Miss Jane. "He may have, but he certainly conceals it effectually at times. He threatened us, actually threatened us in our own house!"

"But it was on Miss Quintance's account that he was upset," her sister argued plaintively. She had not the same fund of common-sense as Miss Jane, and was somewhat handicapped in life by a leaning toward the impractical and romantic.

"I hope he finds her," she concluded.
"There seems to have been some confusion as to her movements. You had no reply from those people in San Francisco when you wrote, Jane?"

"No, I had no reply," said Miss Jane, and returned to her household tasks. The permanent guests with whom the select pension was well filled left her little time for outside interests.

Seager turned down the avenue again, his mind in a state bordering on distraction.
The photograph, at which he took two or three surreptitious peeps as he hurried towards his hotel, was that of the identical girl he had encountered with her motor car broken down, on the road into Long Island City, some eight or nine days before. It was that enchanting creature whom he must marry! And had not had sense enough even to ask her name at that time! What devastating results might not that oversight yet produce!

He calculated that there were less than three weeks to comply with the stipulations contained in Miss Quintance's last will and testament, failing whose fulfilment he would be in a most unenviable light, one alive with the gravest risks to his hotel bill and traveling expenses! The thing was absurd and impossible. He must have more money, and that instantly.

Was Arden's fault that he found himself stranded at a crisis so unforeseen. Had that niggardly speculator put up the two thousand dollars required of him, his unfortunate partner in the deal need not have been left in any such hole. He must make it immediately.

He did so, stating that his quarry had left Paris, offering for a prompt remittance by wire in order that he might follow her.

Fashion Hint for Times Readers

WHITE BLOUSE WITH EMBROIDERED PLASTRON.

From Paris itself comes this dainty blouse, which is made of the sheer cotton crepe. A shaped band of the crepe outlines the neck, and this band is effectively embroidered in three shades of violet silk grading from pale lavender to quite a deep amethyst. The blouse has a guimpe and sleeves of finely tucked white net which will prove very cool for summer wear. A black satin blouse with red and gold embroidery would be very effective for cooler weather wear, and the model might be carried out in various ways.

FOOD FACTS

What an M. D. Learned.

A prominent Georgia physician went through a food experience which he makes public:

"It was my own experience that first led me to advocate Grape-Nuts food, and I also know, from having prescribed it to convalescents and other weak patients, that the food is a wonderful restorer and re-builder of nerve and brain tissue, as well as muscle. It improves the digestion and cleans the system, and it is a most effective and weighty rapid."

"I was in such a low state that I had to give up my work entirely, and went to the mountains of this state, but two months there did not improve me; in fact, I was not quite as well as when I left home."

"My food did not sustain me and it became plain that I must change. Then I began to use Grape-Nuts food and in two weeks I could walk a mile without fatigue, and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, taking up hard work again.
Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life."

As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers, I consider it a duty to make these facts public."

"Trial 10 days on Grape-Nuts, when the regular food does not seem to sustain the body, will work miracles."

"There's a Reason."

book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

ROBBERY AT DALHOUSIE

Mail Bags Containing Registered Packages Stolen From Train

Dalhousie, N. B., April 27.—A bold robbery took place here through the night.
The mail bags which were removed from the post office at 11 o'clock last night and placed in the baggage car of the Dalhousie branch train were stolen from the car.
Their disappearance was not noticed till the train reached the junction to connect with the Maritime from Halifax.

When the employees of the Dalhousie train returned to town they discovered in an old shed near the station all the bags open and the contents of all the registered letters removed. This included packages containing $200 mailed by the Royal Bank here to the Royal Bank in St. John.

There is great excitement in town over the affair. Detective Noble, of Campbellton, and Policeman Sealey, of Dalhousie, are working on the case and an arrest is expected at any moment.

Too Much Political Graft

Many say it can't be prevented, neither can wars or crops, but they can be cured by Putnam's Corn Extractor. It cures corns and warts without pain in twenty-four hours. Use only Putnam's.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT

There was a large attendance last night at a concert in Brussels street Baptist church given by the members of the junior mission band. The programme, which consisted of vocal and instrumental solos and duets, recitations, choruses, exercises and various fancy drills was much appreciated.

The following took part: Irene Mc-Lean, Beryl Blanche, Treva Wetmore, Beatrice Hill, Fred Hill, Helen Ganter, Hazel Reicker, Willa Stammers, Florence Brown, Sydney Chipman, Louise Colwell, Vivian Vail, Vera McKay, Stanley Carr, Alden Worden, Ronald Hurd, Wendall Boyle, Mildred Brown, Douglas Olive, Gladys Schreiber, Irene King, Marjorie Almon, Carol Chipman, Evelyn King, Nellie Olive, Oliver Golding, Ida Bond and Belle Mills.

UGLY SKIN SORES

Zam-Buk Removes Them

It is just at this season that pimples, blotches, sores, scrofulous ailments, and eruptions generally, make themselves most felt. Zam-Buk will be found of wonderful use wherever there is skin eruption or deep-seated ulceration. Pimples, blotches, and irritating rashes on the face and other parts of the body indicate a disturbance of the functions of the skin. Impure matter, which the blood should discharge by means of the skin, process of "exhalation" is interrupted, and just where the bad matter collects, there pimples, ulcers, and sores quickly appear, and the skin tissue suffers. To be complete, the treatment must be of two kinds. The sufferer may help to diminish the supply of impure matter by not eating rich, greasy and indigestible foods; but, to remove the impurities themselves, the pores must be opened and the skin made healthier by the vigorous application of Zam-Buk, morning and night, and washing frequently with some pure soap.
There is none better than the antiseptic Zam-Buk. Medical and Toilet Soap. Zam-Buk balm stimulates the functions of the skin by the penetration of its refined herbal essences, and thus reaches the root of the disease.

Mr. Arthur B. Griffin, of 191, Pictou Street, E. Hamilton, says: "I was greatly troubled with pimples and blotches breaking out on my face. I tried a number of remedies, and also reading the reports of the suggestion of a friend, I began using Zam-Buk, and was much pleased to find an improvement after several applications. The itching was alleviated, and the inflammation seemed less. As I continued Zam-Buk treatment, the pimples and blotches became less sore, the itching was cured altogether, and inflammation banished. In a short time every blotch and pimple was removed."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for cuts, lacerations, burns, scalds, ringworm, poisoned wounds, festering sores, bad leg, and all skin injuries and diseases. It is also a cure for piles, Druggists and Stationery everywhere sell at 50c. a box, or post-free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, on receipt of price.
