PAARDEBERG DAY AT FREDERICTON

FREDERICTON, N. B., March 1.—The South African veterans last evening celebrated the 10th anniversary of the battle of Paardeberg, with a grand banquet at Long's Hotel. Capt. James Pringle presided and there were over fifty guests present. All the speeches were of a highly patriotic nature. Among the toasts honored were Paardeberg, South African veterans and the Old War Veterans. There have been five of the men who went to Africa who have passed away since that memorable battle which brought so much glory to the British Empire. Their deeds and heroism were remembered tonight and though dead they are not forgotten.

The half-mile championship race in Victoria Park has been postponed.

You Can Afford to use 40c. Tea Just as Well as 30c. Tea if You Use 40c. Red Rose

A pound of 40c. Red Rose goes further than any 30c. or 35c. tea and it is distinctly superior in quality.

30c. and 35c. Red Rose Teas are good teas, so good that very many people say they want nothing better. But, if they would once try a package of the 40c. Red Rose they would use nothing else in future.

Just think, five cups of 40c. Red Rose Tea will only cost 1c. One lb. makes over 200 cups. Not a question of affording.

TWO NATURALISTS IN THE ARCTIC

The Frigid Wanderings of Stefansson and Anderson

Letter Written Last August From Herschel Island—Cold Weather and Real Hardships

A letter which had been six months on its way from the Arctic Circle has just arrived in Toronto, telling of the adventures of the two naturalists, Stefansson and Anderson, who for the past two years have been living the life of the Eskimo on the north coast of Alaska and Canada.

Both of the men are graduates of the University of Iowa at Iowa City. They are engaged in collecting animal skins for the museum in New York, and in studying the habits and life of the people of the most northern inhabited portions of the globe.

The letter received here was mailed on Aug. 22, 1909, on a canoe which passed Herschel Island, off the north shore of Canada, 50 miles from Point Barrow, the farthest outpost of American civilization. It came to Major George W. Ball of Iowa City, a college classmate and former military companion of Lieutenant Anderson.

The two naturalists and hunters report that they have at times been within rifle range of thousands of caribou, moving in long line through the snow. And at one time they were reduced to a starvation diet of porcupine and owls, while crossing the Franklin Mountains to get to a caribou range, among the Chandler River Valley. The porcupine and owl diet continued from Dec. 4 until Dec. 15, 1909, when the party of two white men and none Eskimo-Untasat hunters reached the river valley, the stream forming a northern tributary to the Yukon. The party remained south of the Franklin Mountains until Feb. 28, 1909, killing 63 caribou, one moose and 15 white sheep. They then returned to Flaxman Island, having seen no white man for five months, and having lived on nothing but meat—mountain sheep, caribou, moose and ptarmigan, for four months.

On April 25, 1909, the party started west to Point Barrow in order to get civilized provisions. Of this trip, Lieut. Anderson says: "Killed caribou at Beecher Point. Things looked blue when I reached there. The Indians had robbed our cache of a sack of potatoes, 50 pounds of rice, which I was depending on, and that in a country 100 miles from any inhabitant, and only occasionally visited by natives."

The party lived on meat until Point Barrow was reached, where they obtained provisions, but learned that there would be no eastbound whalers during the spring, and had to sled back. On the return they found caribou at Cape Hallott, Odville, Beechey Point, Kupuk, Dea and near Herschel Island, where the letter was written. The eastward trip lasted from May 15 until Aug. 20.

DUM-DUM BULLETS.

After listing the number of deer killed on the way to Canada, Lieutenant Anderson says:

"In fact we have had better luck than the natives of the coast, and have seldom been without deer meat, and have never wasted a pound of it. Either, one cannot be comfortable here without deer-skin clothes—the Arctic wind penetrates any number of woolen garments, and they are too heavy. I have hunted sheep at 25 degrees below zero, Fahr., with nothing but a thin sleeveless undershirt, and deer-skin shirt and white cotton drillings snow shirt over it, and was comfortable. Have hunted and killed caribou more than once at 40 degrees Fahr. and broken camp and travelled at 50 Fahr. Coldest weather observed was 64 degrees on Chandler River in February."

"Last spring we shot all the geese, brant, older ducks, and old-squaws we could use, and also a few seals. For sealing, I got the best results with 45-70. One has to paralyze the beast at first shot (either in head or neck) or it will flop into the ice hole and sink. I find that steel point (Gans-mantel) bullets do not always stop a deer, but the soft-point (Thellman's) and hollow-point (Expansive Deschlossen) do the business. I have shot a deer at 400 or 500 yards with the dum-dum, struck near the tail, passed longitudinally through the body, mushroomed, and came out of neck, tearing a hole you could put a tennis ball into."

Lieutenant Anderson describes their arsenal of weapons. They carry 12 rifles and five shot guns, and being able to secure only 400 or 500 cartridges for a particular kind of high-power gun, the rifle has to be thrown away as soon as the ammunition for it is used up.

AFTER MUSK-OXEN.

Anderson and Stefansson are now after polar bear and musk-oxen. They are spending the present winter near the mouth of the Mackenzie River, passing east of it for a time, a thin ice was prevented from doing in 1908 by lack of provisions. Their whaleboat was frozen in at Smith's Bay, while conveying provisions from Point Barrow to Herschel Island, and they traded the entire outfit for a big skin canoe, which they hauled overland to Colville River, finding open water and launching there. They were frozen in again at Barter Island, on Sept. 6, 1908, and lived on marmos and ptarmigan until they could sled 40 miles to the mountain after caribou. From there they went to Flaxman Island, finding four and a half caribou, and then they departed on their hunting expedition into the interior of Alaska. The region south of the Franklin Mountains is a veritable hunters' paradise, according to the adventures who crossed the icy divide. Of the hunting or this trip Lieut. Anderson says: "I suppose that last winter we struck the best caribou range in Alaska (the Eskimo and ship hunters having killed most of them along the coast.) The Eskimos seldom hunt beyond the mountains, the Indians do not get far north of the Yukon, and the white prospectors have not worked so far up as we were. It is a great sight to see a thousand caribou within range of your rifle, moving in long, parallel columns through the snow. South of the mountains we had to use snow shoes all the time; cached one sled, and made today's first week over. The wind soon packed the snow as hard as ice, and three months I certainly snowshoed over a thousand miles. Came into Flaxman Island in March, 1909, and found it packed snow, in nine hours, without stopping for refreshments. A man has to get used to going a day without drinking in the winter time. Frozen snow does not help the thirst much, and it takes too much time to melt ice, even if you can find wood."

"We always had comfortable camps. Have been within the Arctic Circle 12 months and have not slept in a house 30 times since I left Edmonton. I saw Eskimo dome-shaped tent, two thick-nesses of cotton drilling, and can have temperature of 100 degrees in 15 minutes, with 40 degrees outside. Always sleep warm in mountain sheepskin sleeping-bag."

MANY SKINS COLLECTED.

"I have absorbed a good deal of camp lore, both summer and winter camp. I have collected a fine series of mountain sheepskins, with heads (seven winter specimens) and a few extra skulls and horns. Got one old ram with cleaned skull and horns weighing 23 pounds; 15 caribou specimens, all ages, sexes and seasons, and a full assortment of bird skins and eggs, insects, plants and geological specimens."

Lieutenant Anderson stated that he and Stefansson expected to return to civilization in the fall of 1910, reaching San Francisco in September or October.

AN UNEXPECTED SHIP.

While Lieutenant Anderson was completing his letter a ship came in sight from the westward. A postscript dated Aug. 22 conveyed the information that the vessel was the whaler Karuk, which the letter concludes as follows:

"Since writing the above Stefansson has gone east on the Karuk, and expects to be landed at Camp Parry, with plenty of supplies from the ship. I shall follow, traversing the great Mackenzie delta (inside passage) with whaleboats. Shall probably be frozen in before reaching destination and sled the rest of the way in. At any rate there is a 'grab pile' in sight at the end. From there we expect to reach

FEZ, Feb. 28.—The Sultan has signed the accord with France, obligating Morocco to pay $12,000,000 as indemnity for damages arising out of the Casablanca affair.

MILFORD, N. H., Feb. 28.—Michael Leavitt, one of the oldest residents of New Hampshire, died here today, at the advanced age of 110 years. He was born in County Kerry, Ireland, and came to America 70 years ago. Up to a year ago he had been very active. He had always been a tobacco user. He is survived by two sons and a daughter.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—President Fallieres received Chas. W. Fairbanks at the Elysee Palace today. The American the copper mine country by sled in winter or spring. Luck is still with us."

The writer's address, until next day will be Rudolph M. Anderson, Herschel Island, Yukon Ten, Canada, via Athabasca Landing, Alberta. The last letter he received from anyone was in July, 1908, and the last message previously received from the party was sent from Flaxman Island in October, 1908, just before the departure for the winter hunting expedition.

Lieutenant Anderson was formerly captain of the State University of Iowa, a star hurdler, member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity, noted shot and a taxidermist. He resigned a professorship in the Bloomington Military Academy to go on the Arctic hunting expedition.

Hjalmar Stefansson is a native of Iceland, and has taken degrees at Iowa and at Cambridge and New York. Harper's Magazine has contained several of his articles dealing with his previous trips north.

THEY ACTUALLY CURE RHEUMATISM

Gin Pills Prove It

It is one thing to claim to cure Rheumatism. It is quite another to do it. Gin Pills bear out every claim we make, for they are not a "favorite prescription" or a "marvelous discovery" or a "wonderful secret preparation."

They are simply a common-sense, scientific combination of medicines that have proved their value in Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles and Disorders of the Liver.

Ogden, N. S., July 1st, 1909. "I have been troubled with Rheumatism so bad that I could not work. A doctor tended me and advised me to go to the hospital, but all of no good until a friend told me to try Gin Pills. I did so, and after using a few boxes I am perfectly cured. I am recommending Gin Pills."

D. J. LAWLER. There is no reason why Mr. Lawler's case should be any different from yours. He took Gin Pills and cured himself of Rheumatism. Why don't you take them and cure yourself?

We will let you test them free. A sample of Gin Pills will be sent you, absolutely free. If you write the National Drug & Chem. Co., Limited, Dept. R. S., Toronto.
