

ground at Thurlow, on the afternoon of the 23rd inst., with Masonic honours, attended by a numerous train of friends and connections." It is interesting to notice by an account now before us, to William Bell, of Thurlow, that for "inoculation of six" persons, by Dr. Meacham, there was a charge of £1 10.

Dr. Meacham had two sons. The eldest, James Hubbard Meacham, now eighty-four years old, is one of the oldest inhabitants of Belleville, who has been postmaster of that city for upwards of forty years, and is known as one of the salt of the earth. Personal regard for a dear friend does not prejudice the writer in saying that a nobler, more upright man does not exist.

The second son was named Simon, who now lives at Odessa, with his son, Dr. Walter Meacham, member of the Provincial Legislature for Lennox and Addington. A daughter of Simon married a son of the Rev. Dr. Stinson.

J. H. Meacham has two sons living. The eldest, Rev. Dr. Meacham, is well known as a Methodist missionary to Japan, where he is now labouring, and whose labours have been attended with manifest success. A second son is James Bogart Meacham, druggist, of Toronto.

One of Dr. Seth Meacham's daughters remained unmarried; the other became the wife of Gilbert Bogart, of Belleville, whose daughter is the wife of Judge Dean, of Lindsay.

DR. JAMES MEAGHER

Was born at Kingston, Upper Canada, 1814. His father was in the 9th Regiment, which came to Kingston, August, 1814, after taking part in the Peninsular war. His mother was a Portuguese. He had three brothers—Jeremiah, John and Thomas. Jeremiah was a well-known personage in Kingston, and in his later years held a place in the Inspector's Department of the Post-Office, Kingston. John became a druggist at Kingston. Thomas entered the legal profession, as student-at-law, in the office of Sir John Macdonald, but took an appointment as Custom House officer. A son of Jeremiah became a doctor and was attached to a company of surgeons in the North-West. He died from the effects of a fall; he had three
