Ottawa ,14th February, 1918.

Sir,

Referring to your recent letter in the case of Lena Lewis, I beg to say that as she was suffering from rheumatism and required hospital treatment the Department approves of your action in having sent her to the hospital, but I have to inform you that unless in a case of emergency an Indian should not be sent to an hospital until authority has been had from the Department. The account in this case may be submitted for payment.

Your obedient servant.

Asst. Deputy and Secretary.
