BUT IT BECOMES A SERIOUS MATTER IF NEGLECTED. PNEUMONIA, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, CATARRH or CON-SUMPTION IS THE RESULT.

Get rid of it at once by taking

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Obstinate coughs yield to its grateful seothing action, and in the racking, permistent cough, often present in Consumptive cases, it gives prompt and sure relief. In Asthma and Bronchitis it is a successful remedy, rendering breathing easy and natural, enabling the sufferer to enjoy refreshing sleep, and often effecting a permanent cure.

We do not claim that it will cure Consumption in the advanced stages, but if taken in time it will prevent it reaching that stage, and will give the greatest relief to the poor sufferer from this terrible malady.

Be careful when purchasing to see that you get the genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark.

Mr. Wm. O. Jenkins, Spring Lake, Alta., writes: "I had a very bad cold mettled en my lungs. I bought two bottless of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup but it only required one to cure me. I have mover met with any other medicine as good." Price 25 cts., at all dealers.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Miscellaneous.

INAPPETENCE.

Heifer, two years old, quite heavy with calf, is dull and stupid; has but little apparent appetite; chews cud all right, and bowels work regularly; but as she has been very dainty about eating for some time, she is getting weak, and I would be pleased to know what is best to do I have not attempted to give any medi-J. W. S.

Ans.-We would tempt her appetite with small supplies of apples, roots, dry bran and oats, and good clover hay, taking the chill off her drinking water. If medicine appears to be necessary, purge with 11 pints of raw linseed oil. Follow up with a tablespoonful, three times daily, of equal parts sulphate of iron, gentian, ginger, nux vomica, nitrate of potash and bicarbonate of soda. Given as a drench slowly in a pint of cold

OYSTER-SHELL BARK-LOUSE. Please find enclosed section of branch cut from Roxbury Russet. Tree seems to be badly affected with this scale. Can find it on only two trees. What is it, and what should be done with it? C. E.

Ans.-Oyster-shell bark-louse. The best insecticide to use for it is the lime-sulphur mixture, applied early in spring before growth starts; but plain lime wash, applied to all parts of the tree with a spray pump, will answer almost as well. It is made by using one pound lime to a gallon of water. Two coats should be applied, the second immediately after the first is dry. If the orchard is in sod, plow it shallowly early this spring, and cultivate thoroughly till fore part of July without any crop. About the middle of July, sow a nurse crop of clover, vetches, or anything to check growth of wood and form a good winter protection. Meanwhile apply a dressing of manure and a load or two per acre of good wood ashes. The scale is less prevalent, as a rule, on thrifty, well-fertilized, wellpruned and properly-kept orchards. abounds in neglected ones.

ALSIKE FOR SEED.

I am thinking of sowing 5 acres of alsike for growing for seed, and would like to hear from someone who has been growing and making a success of it as to their method.

1. How much seed per acre does it require for seeding, and how much per acre of yield do you consider a good average crop?

2. How do you manage it so as to get the best results? Would you pasture for a while in early spring or not? Any information regarding it from the time of seeding to the harvesting of it will be gratefully received as I am an amateur in regard to growing alsike for S. W. E.

Ans.—Our inquirer evidently wishes to hear from farmers in various sections who have had experience in growing alsike for seed, but as the season is already advanced, we will answer the specific questions briefly:

1. As the seed is very small, 5 lbs. per acre will generally suffice. It commonly yields 3 to 4 bushels of seed per acre, the range being from less than 2 up to 8 bushels. Much depends upon how well the blossoms are fertilized by the bees and other insects.

2. The first crop must be saved for seed; indeed, alsike produces only one full growth in a season. The best yields of seed are usually obtained from crops of medium vigor, and it is desirable to have the whole field of plants coming on evenly and ripening together. To prevent excessive growth of stems, and to insure evener maturity, pasturing for a time is frequently resorted to. The grazing should begin reasonably early and be rather close, until, say, May 24th, or not later than June 1st. If any portions of the field are but partially grazed when the stock is taken off, the mower should be run over the field so as to give all the plants a fairly even start. We shall be pleased to hear from raisers of alsike and other clover seed, giving details of methods and results.
