MATTERS IN QUEBEC

Debated in the Dominion House Premier Borden Announces Results of M. S. A. Act.

Ottawa, April 5.—The Prime Minister completely took the wind out of Col. Currie's sails this afternoon, when he outlined to Parliament emergency measures taken by the Government to suppress riot and insurrection in Quebec. The more vigorous and effective enforcement of the Military Service Act. He also made the rather surprising announcement that "from the 31st October, 1917, to the 30th of this present month of April, if our plans for this month are carried out, as I have no doubt they will be carried out, we shall have sent overseas to the support of the gallant men who are fighting our battles there about 47,000 Canadian soldiers."

Twenty-one Supported Motion. In anticipation of a lively debate, another record crowd assembled when the summons bell rang at 3 o'clock. The preliminaries were quickly disposed of, and Colonel Currie moved for leave to adjourn the House for the purpose of discussing the "rioting, agitation, disturbance and non-observance of the law in Quebec." Before he could go on it was necessary that twenty members of the House support his motion. Twenty-one did so, and it is noteworthy that not one of them was a Laurier Liberal or a Liberal Unionist. All were Conservatives, and the majority of them were from Toronto and Ontario. They included T. G. Wallace of West York, H. B. Morphy of North Perth, Dr. Sheard of South Toronto, Thomas Foster of East York, Dr. Anderson of Halton, H. H. Stevens of Vancouver, W. F. Edwards of Frontenac, J. A. Sexsmith and J. H. Burnham of East and West Peterboro', and Sir Sam Hughes, Victoria.

Colonel Currie intended dividing the House if he failed to secure the requisite number to carry his motion, his view being that no Ontario Government supported the "rioting, agitation, disturbance and non-observance of the law in Quebec." He kept strictly to subject.

Those in the galleries evinced a lively interest in the proceedings, and practically every member of the House was in his place when the Speaker warned the North Simcoe member to restrict his remarks to the limits of his motion.

Denies Unequal Enforcement. Sir Robert Borden did not make a long speech. He quickly denied that there had been an application of the law in Quebec different from its application in the other eight Provinces. The aim of the Government was to enforce the measure consistently, but firmly and impartially, in every Province of the Dominion.

Satisfactory Figures Presented. The figures the Premier gave respecting the number of men who have been drafted for service in the trenches were evidently satisfactory to an overwhelming majority of his followers, who were elected to see that reinforcements were speedily despatched to the front.

Referring to the orders in Council regarding rioting and idleness which Sir Robert Borden read at the opening of the session, Col. Currie said he was glad to see that the Government proposed to put more "men" in the administration of the Military Service Act in Quebec. The Premier's statements in regard to the taking of men, he said, are excellent, but the question which it is desirable to discuss is one that goes back to the time, two years and three months ago, when Sir Robert Borden announced that Canada would provide for overseas service a force of half a million men.

Reviewing the method adopted by the Government to obtain men under the voluntary system, Col. Currie spoke of national service, and said: "You can't carry on the war by a card index-system, neither by boards; we must have men, and that is what the country wants."

Leaders in Quebec to Blame. Col. Currie then spoke of the adoption of the Military Service Act, declaring that if it had been passed subsequent to the passing of the War-time Election Act it would have been far more stringent. He said that the people in the Province of Quebec were not at fault in their attitude toward the war. They had been misled by their political leaders. If the Government had gone to the country at the time of the last election without the War-time Election Act, the anti-British element would have won the election. This remark called forth cheers from the Opposition.

Why Was Not Bourassa Interested? Col. Currie said that the Government was to blame in the way it had started out to enforce the Military Service Act in Quebec. It had been too quiet and subtle. For instance, a prominent figure in the Province was the editor of the newspaper called Le Devoir, Henri Bourassa. When the war opened this man had been in Belgium, or Strassburg, or somewhere, but he had sneaked out under the protection of the British flag and come over to start trouble in Canada.

Why was not this man interned and his paper suppressed? (Applause.) "The Government feared that he would be more dangerous locked up than free. Better than Bourassa have been locked up in the United States without causing any difficulties."

Govt. Advertising in Le Devoir. In the pages of Le Devoir, Col. Currie continued, were to be found columns of Government advertising. He held up a copy of the paper and pointed to an advertisement which he said was signed by the Minister of Justice. "No doubt," he said, "the Minister will have an explanation for this, but how can any

CONSERVATION OF HEALTH AN IMPORTANT DUTY

CARE IN DIET SAVES BOTH FOOD AND HEALTH

The Use of a Tonic to Keep the Blood Built Up and the Nerves From Being Undernourished Strongly Recommended at This Season

Nature is always fighting to keep us well. Under normal conditions the forces of health within our bodies keep the disease germs in subjection. They are not expelled entirely, but they are kept harmless. Some indiscretion in diet and the digestion is upset; overwork and worry disturbs the nervous system, the blood gets thin and watery and the ever-present disease germs assert themselves. The blood fights the body's battles, but the blood can only keep you healthy when it is rich, red and pure. That is why it is of the greatest importance that thin-blooded people, people with pale faces, or those troubled with skin blemishes, or indigestion, or rheumatism, or any of the many ailments due to poor blood, should fortify themselves with a safe and effective tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills purify and strengthen the blood and bring good health and efficiency to weak, ailing men, women and children.

Do not be persuaded to take a substitute. See that the full trade mark name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is printed on the wrapper around the box. If you cannot get these Pills through your dealer they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PALE AND WEAK

The blood is responsible for the health of the body. If it is bad disease is bound to appear. One person may be seized with rheumatism and sciatica, another with anemia, indigestion, heart palpitation, headaches or backaches, or unstrung nerves. There is just one certain, speedy cure—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make new, rich blood, and this good blood strengthens the whole system and brings good health and happiness. Miss Devina Lalibert, St. Jerome, Que., says, "Last year I seemed gradually to grow weak and run down I had a poor appetite and generally lost weight. I consulted a doctor who told me I was anemic, and gave me a time, but it did not help me and I appeared to be growing worse and finally I was hardly able to go about the house and almost wholly incapable for work. While in this condition a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I got several boxes. It was not long after I began their use when I could see an improvement, which first manifested itself in an improved appetite and better rest at night. From this on the improvement was rapid and I am now in perfect health. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a real blessing for all weak girls."

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Nourish your nerves—that is the only way you can overcome life's worst misery—nervous exhaustion. The fits of depression and frustration, the prostrating headaches, the weakness and trembling of the legs, the unsteady hand and the imperfect digestion that mark the victim of nerve weakness, must end in nervous breakdown if neglected. Your nerves are crying out for pure blood and the mission of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is to make new, rich blood. This explains why these pills have proved successful in so many cases of nervous disease that did not yield to ordinary treatment. For example, Mr. Wilfrid Donald, West Flamboro, Ont., says: "Before I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I was in a serious condition. I was not only badly run down, but my nerves seemed to be completely shattered. I slept badly at night and when I got up in the morning was as tired as when I went to bed. I seemed to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown. At this stage I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In the course of a few weeks I felt much relief, and continuing the use of the pills they completely restored my health. I can now sleep soundly, eat well, and enjoying complete freedom from the old nervous troubles."

INDIGESTION CURED

Thin, pale people who complain of indigestion must improve the condition of their blood to find relief. The most active blood builder in such cases is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make the rich, red blood which quickly restores the digestive organs to their proper activity and the dyspeptic who has hated the sight of and smell of food now looks forward to meal time with pleasure. Miss Edith M. Smith, R. R. No. 4, Perth, Ont., says: "I can honestly say I owe my present good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My stomach was terribly weak and I suffered from indigestion and sick headache, and was always very nervous. I was troubled this way for nearly three years, and in that time took a great deal of doctors' medicine, which, however, did not help me. I could not eat anything without experiencing the most agonizing pain. My sick headaches were most violent and I could not rest night or day. I was asked one day by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and consented to do so. After taking them some time I found they were helping me, and I continued to take them steadily for several months, until I found that I was completely cured. While taking the pills I gained both in strength and weight, and I feel it impossible to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly."

waiting for a free and open discussion of the military situation in the country.

During the past year, he said there had been frequent outbreaks in the Province of Quebec, similar to the recent occurrences in Ontario. At the last session silence had been maintained in regard to them, but this was not the desire of anyone to say anything that would damage voluntary recruiting.

Glad to See More "Pop." Referring to the orders in Council regarding rioting and idleness which Sir Robert Borden read at the opening of the session, Col. Currie said he was glad to see that the Government proposed to put more "men" in the administration of the Military Service Act in Quebec. The Premier's statements in regard to the taking of men, he said, are excellent, but the question which it is desirable to discuss is one that goes back to the time, two years and three months ago, when Sir Robert Borden announced that Canada would provide for overseas service a force of half a million men.

French-Canadian who reads this paper fails to think he is quite outside the pale.

And Lavergne Also? There is another man, going around Quebec, Armand Lavergne, said Col. Currie, wearing the stars of a Colonel on his shoulders. He is allowed to write and read documents. He is not doing any good. He is not producing food or engaging in any useful occupation. He should also be interned. Col. Currie closed with an appeal to Parliament to keep faith with the boys in the fields of Flanders.

Sir Wilfrid's Sentiments. Col. Currie read a speech of Sir Wilfrid's delivered on June 24th, 1889, on the occasion of the annual French-Canadian festival in which the Leader of the Opposition urged his compatriots to be true to their French ancestors.

"Does the Right Hon. gentleman still believe in those sentiments? Does he intend to implement those sentiments?" he asked.

This country, he said, has not yet sufficiently conscripted itself. All Class I men should at least have been called out and drilled and prepared.

The people of this country gave the Government a mandate to carry out the conscription law. They were to see that men were sent to the front. How could members of the House who were elected on this issue go home and look men and women in the face if this were not done?

Col. Currie closed by painting a vivid picture of conditions on the firing line, and with an appeal to his comrades of the House who had served overseas to "keep faith with the living and the dead, as you promised in Flanders fields."

Labor Takes Three Y. G. The Journeymen Barbers in Winnipeg are a great deal more active and up-to-date than the bosses. The latter recently held a meeting to organize a master barbers' association, and the secretary of the journeymen was on hand to tell them a few things for the good of their health and the trade. Anybar, after hearing that they decided that in future all barber shops should be closed light on Sundays hereafter, and the issue go home, let well, and all shops close every night except Saturday, when the closing

CORP. S. GILROY IS KILLED IN ACTION

Former Brantfordite Enlisted in West; Gave His Life at Passchendaele

Word was received in the city this week of the death of Corporal Seymour Gilroy, a former Brantfordite, who went overseas with a western Canada unit, and was reported missing and believed killed, since the battle of Passchendaele. Corp. Gilroy was born here, the son of Mr. Charles Gilroy, now of Minnetonas, Manitoba, and is a brother of Mrs. Allan Misener, Pine Grove, and a nephew of Mrs. S. R. Cole of Cainsville. The following letter, received by his father from the officer in charge of Corp. Gilroy's company, gives further particulars of the manner in which the young hero made the supreme sacrifice:

I am writing to express my sympathy for you on the account of the loss of your son, Corp. S. A. Gilroy, who was Lewis gun corporal in my platoon, and was with me at Passchendaele, in which battle he was officially reported missing, believed killed. Your son was with me until about 6 p.m. on the evening of November 6th, the day the Canadians took Passchendaele; about that time he went to visit another part of the trenches to get some of his equipment and after that I did not see him again. We were relieved that night and when he was reported missing I had all the trenches in the vicinity searched in an endeavor to find him, but without success. You will perhaps be able to understand that the task was not an easy one on a pitch dark night and under continued shell fire and through trenches that had been in many places completely blown in afterwards. I made many enquiries in an endeavor to get definite information and I have regretfully been compelled to accept the official verdict. There is not the remotest chance of his wandering into the German lines and being taken prisoner, as we were not at the time in the front line and he could not have got into German lines without crossing our front lines. Your son was finally given as dead by the British and, however bitterly you may and doubtless do, feel his loss, I am sure you must be proud that he died freely and fearlessly risk and finally give his life for his home and country and all that makes life worth living. Yours very sincerely, H. H. READE, Lieut. No. 7 Platoon, 2nd Battalion.

The organization of the Winnipeg branch of the Dominion Labor Party has been completed and an energetic committee have been elected. Standing committees have also been formed to deal with publicity, organization and finance, and plans perfected to secure the affiliation of unions and other bodies. According to the constitution adopted, unions can be affiliated and be represented by delegates proportionate in number to their membership. A very large number of members have already joined the new party, and every-thing points to a successful future for the movement, not only in Winnipeg but throughout Manitoba, where it is expected many branch associations composed of farmers will be organized.

Nearly all the central labor unions in Canada have sent in petitions to Sir Robert Borden and the Government asking that a fair increase of wages be made to the latter class, whom it is generally conceded are underpaid.

I want a housewife; not a fool. Not a scolding, gossiping queen. One who obeys love's delicate rule. A light in death's darkest scene.

I want a woman who fears the Lord. But Oh, not a spiritual saint. One meek and quiet in thought and word. A beauty that needs no paint.

If she's to share my bed and board, I'd have no slurs and sneers. My heart's health her feet I'd give to tread. If only free from blame.

No electric plate lady for me. I'd have no slurs and sneers. I like a bright, hearty and cosy tea. But not a poor apology mess.
