NEW FALL HATS

Many a man has bought a good hat at this store and paid so little that he didn't appreciate how much he got for his money. We don't make hats and can't control shapes—they are arbitrary and fixed by the best makers. But we can control colors and qualities in our buying and buy the best and control the price after the buying.

Our Price for Standards

No need to pay $5.00 with our full stock of American stiff hats, in Dunlop, You-man and Knox, new blocks, in black, seal and alder to choose from, at.....$2.50 A full range of Christy's celebrated hats, in the new fall shapes and colorings, from $1 to.....$3.00

Some makers of hats purposely leave off all distinguishing marks to accommodate certain dealers. The hats we buy the makers father, and we think enough of them to add our own label.

AT THE THEATRE.

No country village is really complete without a brass band, and every country horn-blower believes that quantity should take precedence a long way before quality.

There may not be over a dozen men in the village band, but it plays forte, and sometimes sounds like eighty. No better caricature of the country band of tradition has ever been seen on the stage than the "Rising Sun Roarers," in Joseph Arthur's famous comedy drama "Blue Jeans," which will be seen at the Grand next Monday evening.

They are typical country band-men, but with all that they can play, and they are a great feature of the performance.

A Hoyt production is always welcome here, and draws a crowded house. One of his greatest successes "A Brass Monkey," will be presented at the Grand to-morrow night.

This piece is thoroughly equipped with a Hoyt company, scenery, costumes, specialties and other features, including an array of pretty girls. Miss Marie Trumbull, the stellar personality as Baggage, is a dainty, charming society girl. (The play) is her father, but this name is not a "hoax," for the piece ran a whole season at a New York theatre, breaking all farce-comedy records. "A Brass Monkey is full of fun and sunshine from start to finish.
