CLARIFIED AND BOTTLED MILK

To clarify and bottle milk is the only sanitary and up-to-date way to handle such an important product of the dairy as milk, for while it is same of the best and most necessary foods we 27e if properly cared for, it is certainly one of the most dangerous if neglected or carelessly handled, and should never be exposed to street dust, as is done in the ordinary way of peddling milk from large cans with open measures. Sensational Evidence of Mr. Kinlock at Bridge Enquiry.

Men's Fears Were Laughed at-Worked With Nerves on Edge-No Chord Was Straight-Trouble Was Anticipated by Officials-Ribs Were All Bent-Was Reported Weeks Before the Disaster.

Quebec, Sept. 21.—Very important indeed and quite sensational was the evidence given by Mr. Kinloch yesterday as to the defects in the Quebec bridge, just prior to the collapse, showing that trouble was anticipated by some of the practical officials, though those who expressed them, and some who laughed at their fears, are now among the dead of the disaster. He said that he could not swear that any chord in the bridge was absolutely straight. He knew of no carelessness, however, and of none of the defects mentioned by the witnesses Ouimet and Lafrance. He knew of the defects in the chords, and, having taken up the bends in chords 1, 2 and 3, with Mr. McLure, who decided that they were of no importance, he subsequently passed without attention similar defects in others. No. 9 chord of the anchor arm had been repaired in the yard in July, 1905.

Defect Not Rectified.

In the afternoon Mr. Kinloch, continuing his evidence, said a supposed defect in the bottom of the east centre rim was brought to his attention four or five weeks before the accident. He and Mr. McLure discussed the matter, which was referred to Mr. Cooper. That gentleman apparently misunderstood the matter, as it was never rectified.

On Aug. 20 he found some distoralso damaged, and the damage to the plate between chords 8 and 9 was considerable. It was fully riveted.

The deflection in chord No. 8 considerably worried him, because he was positive it was straight when riveted up, and it was later on that chord 9L, in the anchor arm, showed similar deflection. He was in doubt as to whether the bends in question were shop bends or not. The chords in question had been in the bridge since 1906. It was not uncommon for ribs not to meet at once, and then they had to be packed. In this case the 25-ton Morton jack was used to get them into line. In only one instance did the chords in this bridge line at the bottom. In his second inspection of chord 8 he thought that the bend had increased. All the ribs in the chord were bent, the bend being almost in the shape of an "S." On Tuesday, the 27th, he discovered a bend in chord E, 9L, in the anchor arm. On the previous Saturday he had not noticed it.

Was Quite Alarming.

Mr. Birks and Mr. Yanser were down below on chord 10 and witness said that he called them up, adding: "It was apparently quite alarming." Mr. Yenser said it was quite new, and that he had been over it too often not to have seen it if it had been there before. He also said he would put up no more metal. Mr. Birks laughed at Yenser, telling him he must be more careful and make a further investigation before talking as he was, since his condemnation of the whole bridge. Mr. McLure reported the matter to Mr. Hoare, who came to the bridge next day and ordered a thorough examination. On Wednesday, the day before the accident. Birks said that they, and especially he himself, had made fools of themselves for the bend run up to the field splice. Nevertheless, witness went on to detail how the small traveler was again moved further out and how another piece of metal had been placed in position only 15 minutes before the accident.

Everybody Was Nervous.

He said that Mr. T. McLure was in Shot In Temple.

Brockville, Sept. 21.—A little daughter of Rufus Garner of Watertown, aged five years, was accidentally shot in the head by a playmate who had a rifle which he did not know was loaded. The bullet entered the head at the right temple, coming out close to the ear. The skull was not fractured, and recovery is expected.

Freight Cars Derailed.
Stratford, Sept. 21.—A bad freight wreck occurred on the main line of the G.T.R. between Stratford and Toronto last evening. It was about three miles from the city. Five cars were thrown from the track.

ANCIENT VESSEL DISCOVERED AT GLASTONBURY ABBEY.

All England Interested - Cup That May Have Been Used by the Saviour - Queen Story of Visions Scientists and Antiquarians Investigate Mystic Tale-May Prove

Only Hoax on Wise Men. A small circle of eminent leaders of religious thought, antiquaries, and scientists, are at present discussing with the deepest interest the discovery in remarkable circumstances of a glass vessel of beautiful workmanship and supposed great antiquity, in a spot near Glastonbury Abbey. The discovery was made by the sis-

the discovery was made by the sister of Wellesley Tudor Pole, of Bristol, and two other ladies, as the result of a suggestion by Tudor Pole that they should go and search in a place which he had seen either in his mind's eye or in what seems to have been a "waking dream."

Tudor Pole has submitted the vessel to various experts, who are unable to assign a date for its origin. It may be 2,500 years old. At any rate, it has been pronounced within the last few days to be pre-Venetian. One of the strangest features concerning it is that it was placed in the spot near Glastonbury nearly nine years ago by Dr. Goodchild, of Bath, a man of much antiquarian knowledge, also as the result of what is described as a "trance," and Dr. Goodchild entertains the belief, consequent upon his strange experiences, that it is the cup which the Saviour used at the Last Supper, and which, according to the Glastonbury legend, was brought to Britain after the Crucifixion.

Examined In London.

Examined In London.

Tudor Pole communicated his story to an eminent dignitary of the Church of England, in London, with whom he is acquainted, and at this gentleman's request attended a meeting at the house of the dignitary in London, and narrated all the circumstances concerning the discovery.

The meeting was of a notable character. It consisted of about forty persons, including ministers of various religions, scientists, antiquarians, peers and peeresses.

The Duke of Newcastle, Lord Halitax, Lord Hugh Cecil, Earl and Countess Brownlow, the American ambasador; Rev. R. J. Campbell, Sir W. Crookes, and many members of the Established Church.

To this audience Tudor Pole gave an account of the vessel, which created the greatest astonishment. While Tudor Pole holds that there is not sufficient ground for believing that the object of his discovery is of the ascred nature attributed to it by Dr. Goodchild, he is firmly convinced that it is a "holy relic," and he has now installed it in a room in his house, which has been set apart for it. The room is draped in white. The vessel reposes in a casket on a table, and lighted candles are kept in the room.

The Cup.

Iighted candles are kept in the room.

The Cup.

It will be seen that the whole treatment of the "cup" is of a mythical nature. The story, which Tudor Pole told to his distinguished audience was of the most extraordinary kind, and although it cannot be said that it was accepted as a statement of hard fact, the gentlemen and ladies present found no reason to entertain the slightest suspicion of the good faith of the narrator.

Everybody Was Nervous.

He said that Mr. McLure was in New York at the time to consult Mr. Cooper. He made his last inspection about 4 o'clock on the day of the collapse, and met Mr. Birks on the approach to the bridge, who said, "It's all right, we have just received word from Phoenixville that chord 9 was bent before it left there." Witness said he simply laughed and passed on.

He said that while he was sitting in his office, in the midst of the most carroundings, he experienced with the midst of the most carroundings.

The Discovery.

Beetle Bende Keys.

The insect house of the Zoo in London has just received a rare and curious acquisition. It is a fine specimen of the Goliath beetle from South America, which on account of its size and fierce appearance would send the British housemaid into hysterics.

It is nearly five inches long and looks like a miniature parson in a white surptice and black stole. It is not poisonous nor intentionally ferceious, but there is a spot between the neck and shoulder which acts like a vise. A finger placed in this aperture would be broken. The other day a keeper inserted a key there. "Goliath" bent it almost double by merely shrugging his shoulders. This great beetle is the most inexpensive guest in the Zoo, for he feeds entirely off fruit that is completely rotten.

Examples of What Is Liable to Happen When the Compositor Blunders or When the Usually Alest and Careful Proofreader Nods.

Sometimes the preofreader nods, and in this connection the late Lord Goschen told at a public dinner a story of a reader who worked for his (Lord Goschen's) grandfather and who, in answer to a denunciation from his em-answer to a denunciation from his employer, cried:

"Let some other man work at correctness of typography. I despair. My own thoughts often hinder me as they exize and held the authors otherwise than they ought to do. It is quite possible that nigging about words and syllables may often go to the wall when my soul cannot tear itself losse from some thought or picture. Errors from some thought or picture. Errors have been found in sheets which I thought I had worked backward and forward with the greatest particularity. I read always as it should be.".

It is when a reader is in this soulful condition that the general public are permitted to read, as they did once permitted to read, as they did once in a morning paper not given to humor, that a celebrated politician, in a speech, described some one as "sitting at the feet of the game bird of Birmingham," instead of "Gamaliel." In the same journal, too, the following startling announcement appeared under the heading of "Births:"

NICHOLSON.—On the 12th inst., at Bel-ton road, Sideup, the sen of Alfred Nich-olson, of a daughter.

In another newspaper a most pathet, it account appeared of a doctor who died owing to having accidentally infected himself while injecting some plague virus into a "gnat." The mystery was solved the next day, when an applicaty was printed evaluations that These mistakes are curious enough, but they pale into insignificance before some of those that never reach the "Cold milk, father!" once demanded

Abbreviations are at times the bane of the compositor, but he had no excuse in setting up, in an account of a Mansion House function, that among those present were "Old Isaacs and Old Trelear." He should have known that "Add" was an abbreviation of "Adder." "Ald." was an abbreviation of "Alderman." In the same "take" of copy the "Lerd Mayor was received with a crash" (should be "eclat") and was followed by the sheriffs in their "mar-

"Pignut of the enunciation" does not seem convincing; "figment of the imag-ination" is better. "Petticoats long on Sunday merning is a disgrace" is all right when the first two words are read "Petticoat lane."

In a police court assault case the prosecutor was made to say that the prisoner had given him "twins." What the prisoner really did was to give the prosecutor a "turn" (a fright). A well known descriptive writer was startled to read in a rough first proof that he had described the fields surrounding the Derby course as "covered with boots and shoes." He was placated when informed that it had been altered to "booths and shows."

Columns could be filled with the amazing and amusing blunders of the compositor, but here space forbids of more than a final "howler." which is a classic in the printing world. "O temporal O mores!" wrote a leader writer at ten minutes to 1 in the morning. "O Moses, indeed!" exclaimed the proefreader a quarter of an hour later when he "caught and bowled" the compositor who had improved the phrase into "O Tennyson! O Moses!"—London Express.
