On 279 Special Trains.
C. G. Railways

Up to March 1st 757,400 Troops have travelled over Government Railways.

Thousands arrive each week at Halifax and are sent forward to Dispersal Areas.

Since the war began in 1914 up to March 1st, when S.S. Belgie disembarked her returned soldier passengers at Halifax 757,400 troops have been carried on special trains over the Canadian Government Railways.

The first train which carried troops over the Government Railways the year the war was declared was numbered one and all special troop trains to and from Halifax since that time have been numbered consecutively. The last train from the Belgie was on Saturday No 1276. Each train averages about twelve cars with an average of 50 men to a car, which figures up a total of 767,400 men carried. Of course in addition to this thousands of soldiers have journeyed between Montreal and Halifax by regular trains during the past four years.

The movement of troops back to Canada is now approaching its greatest activity. Last Sunday 5000 arrived at Halifax by the transports Lapland and Belgie and fifteen special trains were despatched westward inside of fourteen hours.

S. S. Megantic with soldiers and dependants arrived Wednesday and S. S. Adriatic due Sunday. The movement of returning men is to be kept up actively all summer.

The process of disembarkation at Halifax is being carried on without a hitch, and there is a fine system of co-operation between the Military and the Railway officials.

We cater to the men's trade, and no other. If you were sick you wouldn't call to see a Tailor, or a Blacksmith, about the condition of your health. Of course not; you would call to see a Doctor, or a Shoemaker? Not at all. You would go to see a First Class Tailor.

If you wanted a Suit or an Overcoat: would you go to see a Doctor, or a Shoemaker? Not at all. You would go to see a First Class Tailor.

WELL, there's where we shine! We study the business. We know what suits a young man.

MacLELLAN BROS.

His Supreme Choice

A generation ago the saintly Father DeSmet passed like a blazing star through the dark heavens of the Red Man's spiritual consciousness, leaving forever a glimmer, yes, a gleam of radiance supernatural. Like a faithful courier he sped from tribe to tribe, pausing only long enough to fling before them a cross, not the fiery cross of knight or clansman, but the blood-hallowed cross of Jesus Christ. At last the Master said, "It is enough," and called him home. Thus only representatively was the Divine Message given to the savage tribes until, by the greatest apostle's death, the fact of solitary living altars erected by him became a challenge to devoted souls. Far away within the walls of a monastery a man with the rank and insignia of abbot accepted this challenge to his grace and courage. Divesting himself of mitre, crozier and all pontifical papery he hastened across wild rivers and wide plains. Out from convent walls and monastery cloister followed sweet-faced nuns and strong-souled monks who rallied around his upraised standard and made actual what the apostle's visit had made but potential. Possessed of no language but that of eye and heart and life, they communicated through that medium of kindness whose interpretation is universal and whose message is eternal. The Indian lodge became a house of prayer, the couch of the dying a gate of heaven, the savage breast a temple of the Most High. School walls shut in the child of the forest to unwonted tasks, simple enclosures sheltered the sick, and the Eucharistic God appeared on altars whose only canopies were of bark or skin.

Today the Indian fronts emancipation. The child of the forest has passed. The leaves of the forest have been thrust aside and there has emerged a race. The long shadows of their morning are rapidly being shortened by their rising sun. Already they are in the light. The homes once darkened by superstition are hallowed by the presence of the Crucifix; the councils once reeking with hate and vengeance are opened with prayer; the limbs which crouched in stealth to await vantage over an unsuspecting foe now bend in supplication; the lips that opened to frame the malediction and war-whoop now close in reverence over the Living Bread of the Altar. Bishop Marby's choice has been vindicated by the arbitrament of time.

able, but, on the contrary, it would seem that today's so-called costumes are created with the set purpose of awakening in man unholy desires, and perhaps of fanning into fever flames those already kindled.

How such conduct can be defended it is impossible for me as a Christian man to conjecture. Personally, I feel quite sure that studied immodesty on the part of girls defeats its own ends.

"A decent man who intends to marry a girl and make her the queen of his heart and the mistress of his home, is not going to choose for his partner 'till death do them part' a girl who has a little respect she does not even know how to give herself in decency."

Womanhood's Beautiful Model.

She wrote no books; she painted no pictures; she thrilled no audiences with her eloquence; she inaugurated no great reform. She spent her life in none of the brilliant spheres for which many of our girls sigh today. She simply lulled a little baby on her breast; she pressed its face close to her mother heart; she went about her duties; she filled her water picher at the well, lighted her fires, and prepared her frugal meals, unwaited upon, unattended by any save the angels that hovered unseen. Yet through all ages past, and throughout all ages to come, her name is and ever will remain the most blessed among women.

Artists may paint, writers may write, singers may sing right to the end of time, but none can ever hope to rival in unending love and reverence the wife of a humble carpenter of Galilee. They are all but as earth's tiniest candle to heaven's brightest star. Earth's greatest woman was great by her motherhood.

A maiden of Judea went up so close to the throne of God; she kept the chamber of her heart so pure that the Lord of Hosts entered in and laid upon her breast the Saviour of men. Earth has nothing greater than the loving devotion of a woman who is pure in heart. We need Marys from Nazareth yet. Let our girls aspire by all means. Let them be ambitious, but let them not forget and life's feverish rush to sit often at the feet of the Master, to learn His tongue—to get the Madonna's secret.

A Bishop Governor

The Rt. Rev. Aquino Correa, the Salesian Bishop of Mato Grosso, Brazil, was duly elected governor of the state at a time nearly strangled by political dissensions, and after a year it is evident that he has made more than good; a new Richelieu, he pacified the radical politicians, put restrictions to economical pilfering, and succeeded in surrounding himself with unselfish auxiliaries. In his administration the Bishop shows himself a splendid financier; the revenues in 1918 amount to a total of $4,561,409, the highest since 1912, and notwithstanding the extraordinary expenses necessitated by the gripe and the difficulties of a first year of administration in a bankrupt state, the Bishop has balanced the accounts, punctually paid the public officials and given prosperity to the people.

Work For Negroes

Engaged in work among the colored people in this country are 187 priests. There are 66 colored parishes in the South, with 35 missions attached. The Second Plenary Council of Baltimore declared: "Since the greater part of the Negroes is yet outside the fold, it is a matter of necessity to seek workmen, inflamed with a zeal for souls, who will be sent into this part of the Lord's harvest. We are all called and are kept of God, without any exception whatsoever."

Head Ached So Bad

HAD TO GO TO BED.

When the liver becomes sluggish and inactive it does not manufacture enough bile to thoroughly act on the bowels and carry off the waste matter from the system, hence the bowels become clogged up, the bile gets into the blood, congestion sets in and is followed by sick and bilious headaches, water brash, heartburn, floating specks before the eyes, and painful internal bleeding or protruding piles.

Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills regulate the flow of bile so that it acts properly on the bowels, and stirs the sluggish liver into activity.

Mrs. E. Bainbridge, Amherst, N.B., writes: "I take pleasure in writing you of the good I received by using Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills for headache. I was so bad I had to go to bed, and could not get up. I had a severe attack of your Lax-Liver Pills, and the next day I was as well as I could be." Milburn's Lax-Liver Pills are sold at all dealers, commission stores on receipt of price, by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Ancient Shrines

Of Our Lady

Asia claims the honor of having first set up oratories and chapels under the invocation of Mary. The oldest of these sanctuaries was that of Our Lady of Tortosa, on the coast of Phoenicia, which, according to Oriental tradition, was founded by St. Peter himself. Tradition clearly enunciates that her form was depicted upon one of the pillars of the beautiful church of Lydda, which her adopted son, St. John, had dedicated to her. We are informed likewise by Hecippus that St. Luke presented to the Cathedral of Antioch a portrait of the Blessed Virgin painted by himself. This picture, to which it was confidently asserted that the Mother of God had attached many graces, became so famous that in after days the Empress Pulcheria transferred it to Constantinople, where she built a magnificent church for its reception. According to Eusebius, Elyza had also in the first century its church of Our Lady, which contained a miraculous image of her. Egypt boasts of having just about the same time its church of Our Lady of Alexandria, and the Spanish city of Saragossa prides herself on having possessed then also its celebrated sanctuary of Our Lady del Pilar. Ephesus, where the memory of the Blessed Virgin was still fresh, soon built in honor of Mary a superb cathedral in which a famous council was held in the fifth century, establishing her beautiful title of Mother of God.

"Will nuthin', sah! De only will I be worryin' about is, will I come back?"

Kidneys Were Bad "Flu"

Set Up to Turn in Bed.
That awful epidemic, the Spanish influenza, that swept Canada from one end to the other a short time ago, left in its wake a great many bad after effects. In some cases it was a weakened heart, in others shattered nerves, but in a great many cases weak kidneys have been left as a legacy.

When the kidneys have been left weak as an after effect of the "Flu," Doan's Kidney Pills will prove to be just the remedy you require to strengthen them.

Mrs. Harvey D. Wile, Lake Placid, N.S., writes: "Last winter I was taken sick with the 'Flu,' and when I did get better I found that my kidneys were very bad, and at night I had to sit up to turn around in bed. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and found that they did me a wonderful amount of good. I also recommended them to my husband, and he started in to use them. I will always recommend them to anyone who is bothered with kidney trouble, for they are wonderful."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 60c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

See that our trade mark, a "Maple Leaf," appears on the box.
